Soldiers Marching.

Clean and straight and brave and eager,
Strong of limb and clear of eye,
True of heart, of sturdy courage—
Soldiers marching forth to die.

Soldiers marching—splendid manhood—
Splendid manhood made to mar,
Made to rot on fields forgotten
In the glorious name of War.

Soldiers marching—sweethearts, husbands,
Sons and fathers—good to kill,
Good to furnish food for vultures—
And the world is Christian still——Life.

Among the very enjoyable events of the week was an afternoon party given by Mrs. E. T. Berry, 1600 Taylor street Wednesday in honor of her two guests Misses Dena and Eula Day, of Arkansas City, Kans. The attractive color scheme of yellow was developed in great masses of sunflowers that shed a golden light over the happy assembly. Games, contests and music went towards making the hours of the afternoon slip away all too soon. Miss Dena Day furnished some beautiful selections on her violin while her sister held her audience in wrapt attention by the sweet strains from her violin cello. Miss Theresa Adamson accompanied them on the piano and also gave a number of very enjoyable selections. Later in the afternoon the guests were refreshed with snerbet and cake. Those present were Misses Dena and Eula Day, Mildred Hiatt, Theresa Adamson, Cloe Danner, of Quannah, Crystal Smith, Mamie Williams and Vera Blake.

The new school catalogue has just been completed and is replete with interesting information from cover to cover. The book is the output of the Russell-Cockrell Printing House and it is the request of Prof. Duncan that every parent and pupil call at that establishment and procure one of them so that they may familiarize themselves with the rules and regulations of the Amarillo Public Schools for the coming school term.

The twelve Busy Bees were delightfully entertained Wednesday afternoon by Miss Josephine McHugh, 1913 Pierce street from 3 to 6 o'clock. The club has carried out faithfully the program laid out at the initial meeting and in keeping with it the first hour was devoted to learning to embroider. Later some very enjoyable games were played after which all returned to the house where frozen banana and nut gelatine with whipped cream, and white cake were served. Those present were Misses Florence Burwell, Earl Stiteler, Lelia Timmons, Mamie Grace Burwell, Lily Clark, Annabel Jenkins and Allene Lindsay.

Mrs. Carl Pool of Sherman, nee Miss Lucy Mae Blanchard, of this city, was tendered a very pleasant surprise Wednesday morning by Mrs. J. H. Manning, 1601 Polk street, who invited in about fifteen of Mrs. Pool's most intimate friends to spend the morning visiting and recalling the pleasant days when as Miss Blanchard, the honor guest, was so popular among the young crowd that held the reins of Amarillo society at that time. A few years have wrought the usual change—nearly all have "married and settled down" as the saying goes, and at the gathering Wednesday morning there were only young "matrons" included in the invitation. A delightful time was spent as always is at the hospitable Manning home. The rooms had been tastefully arranged for the pleasant occasion with a profusion of Japanese cherry blossoms, ferns and growing plants. Mrs. Manning being ably assisted in decorating and entertaining by her daughter, Mrs. Chad Elliott, recently returned from a tour of the States and Canada. At high noon a dainty two course luncheon was served, the guests lingering long over their tea glasses, both to bring to a close such a very enjoyable event.

Circle F of the First Baptist church met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Free, where a most enjoyable afternoon was spent. The bible lesson on "The Five Talents" led by Mrs. S. J. Carter. The lesson was taken from the Home Department Magazine and proved a most interesting source of study during the early hours. Later a most enjoyable social hour was spent during which the hostess served dainty refreshments and during which Misses Harvey and Carter rendered some highly appreciated readings. The rooms had been tastefully arranged with a profusion of garden flowers and pretty, golden sunflowers that added to the pleasure of the occasion.

There was almost a full attendance of members present and the following guests added to the pleasure of the afternoon: Mesdames Toile, Small, McLaughlin, Henderson and Misses Bonnie Harvey, Musa Carter and Nell Free.

Charming in every detail was the lovely party given Wednesday morning by Mrs. Robert Aten complimentary to her young guest Miss Annabel West, of Waco. A large gathering of girls arrived at 9:30 o'clock and during the morning hours the rooms rang with the sound of their happy voices. Various games were introduced though "forty-two" stood first in favor, the highscore for which was held by Miss Lucile Copeland who was presented with a lovely chaffing dish apron. At noon the genial hostess invited her charming gathering into the dining room where a beautiful festive board greeted their astonished eyes. Pink was the dainty color scheme—just the shade for the group of "buds" that seated themselves amid so much loveliness. In the center was a mound of pink sweet peas with delicate ferns while at each plate the place cards held the attention of the guests.

Following is the dainty and attractive menu, the plates decorated with pink sweet peas and the sandwiches tied with pink ribbon: hot Salmon roasts on lettuce, hot biscuits, baked ham, pimento, salad of French peas decorated with sweet peas, baked mushrooms, English savory creamed potatoes, pineapple and cucumber salad frozen, almond and olive sandwiches tied with pink ribbon, lead tea, banana ice cream, cake.

Those for whom covers were laid were Misses Annabel West, Litta Hall, Lucile Copeland, Mary Dawn Works, Alice Skillman, Lotta Little, Inez Brewington, and Bonnie Harvey. After the luncheon was over the guests amused themselves at will with the geniality of the hostess forbidding any formality to mar the pleasure of their good time.

As a parting token of esteem the Philharmonic Club was entertained in a most charming manner Wednesday by Mrs. George J. Nunn at her home 1615 Tyler Street, in honor of Mrs. John Currier, past president of the club. The lovely rooms ensuite were beautiful effectively with a profusion of garden flowers whose sweet fragrance will ever mingle with the memory of this touching event. True to the high standard of the club, the early hours were spent in the enjoyment of a select musical program rendered as follows:

Instrumental Selection — Mrs. Frank J. Storm.
Violin Solo — Mrs. Frank Ryburn.
Piano Solo — Miss Ruth Howard.
Piano Solo — Mrs. J. Currier.
Vocal Solo — Mrs. H. A. Tait.
Vocal Solo — Mrs. Sun Ore.

Each contributor was forced to respond to an encore by the highly appreciative audience and directly following the close of the last number, Mrs. Tait, vice president of the club, in a most effective and touching speech, eulogized the indispensable qualities that made Mrs. Currier such an excellent president of the club as a whole for her faithful and untiring activities in the behalf of the organization. Then to prove that appreciation in a very profound manner, she presented to Mrs. Currier a handsome cut glass bowl as a gift from the club. In a voice whose tones bespoke her deep emotion, Mrs. Currier expressed her appreciation for the lovely gift of love and esteem. To change the tide of feeling which was getting altogether too serious, the hostess announced "luncheon." Dainty chicken sandwiches with a fruit salad of pineapple on crisp nasturtium leaves, cheese straws, waters and lead tea, were brought in, the plates adorned with a spray of flowers. Following were the members present: Mesdames Currier, W. F. Axtell, H. H. Cooper, Roy C. Evans, Clyde Higgins, Henry R. Jack, Mark Logan, L. B. Newby, G. J. Nunn, K. Joe Rankin, Frank Ryburn, Frank J. Storm, Herbert A. Tait, W. B. Allen, H. C. Pipkin, Horace Russell, Harry L. Kearns, J. Lynn Van Natta, Misses Julia Lockett, Eleanor Rider, Genevieve Stivers, Lena Becham Reeder, Ruth Howard and Cieta Millholland.

The whirl of society in Amarillo mer and while people are witting in other places in July and August, we of the favored Panhandle are basking in the most delightful weather. Many brilliant social functions have marked the season as particularly lively but nothing could have been more enjoyable than the numberless little informal affairs that have brought together a few friends for a morning or afternoon of cards. Among such enjoyable affairs are 2 very charming bridge parties given by Mrs. P. Van Hecke in her St. Charles apartment suite Wednesday and Thursday afternoons. Light touches of flowers added to the pleasure of the occasion. At the close of the games a dainty repast was served consisting of fruit salad, waters, grape sherbet, dark and white cake and lead lemonade.

Sweater-Coats for Outing Wear

JUST the most fashionable garment for mountain and seaside resorts, where mornings and evenings bring exhilarating breezes with a smoky chill in them, is the silk sweater-coat. These smart garments are selling freely at figures which rather take one's breath away. Twenty-five to thirty dollars each seems a high price for a sweater of any sort. But there is no difficulty in finding people who are quite willing to pay it. Once let fashionable, and their imitators, get used to unusual prices and there is not telling the length to which they will go.

Besides the sweaters and sweater coats of silk—there are others. Those of wool fiber, which looks like silk, and is as strong or stronger, are much lower in price, about half as high. Then there are splendid wool sweaters in many colors and varieties of design.

A sweater-coat and cap to match, like those shown in the picture, whatever the fabric they are made of, will fortify their wearer against a chill. The cool air, dripping down from frosty mountain tops, and breezes that have traveled from the land of icebergs to that of seaside hotels, are the reasons for the existence of sweaters. They stand daily use, and manufacturers are endeavoring to make them attractive, and have, in fact, succeeded in doing some very beautiful knitting. It would not do to get too far away from simplicity, and it is in new ways of knitting that the best of new attractions lie.

The sweater for a little girl, shown here, could hardly be plainer. A closely knitted border and a pocket at each side are not purely decorative figures, but they afford all the details of ornamentation, except the border of fancy knitting about the bottom.

On sweater coats for grownups there are collars in several styles which add much to their finish. But aside from this they are about the same as the model shown in the picture.

Correct Dress for the Little Boy

WHEN the young princeling is dressed up in his best attire, for state occasions, such as birthday parties, Sunday school, or dress parade, he is garbed in white. And whether his lady mother has made his garments with her own hands or left that pleasant task to those who make a business of it, he looks like all his mates in the democracy of boyhood.

The little boy must be clothed in the summertime in washable fabrics. The difficult part of teaching him to keep clean is a part of his education, exactly as essential as teaching him to read. For daily wear he crumps in blouses and short pants made in washable colored fabrics, such as gingham, linen, crash, madras and other strong weaves. Heavy flannels and plaques and certain specially woven cotton fabrics in white are reserved for his dress occasions.

These fabrics are so inexpensive and the little suits are so easily made that it is no great task to make up his short-lived summer wardrobe. But manufacturers turn out quantities of clothes for children, well designed and well made, at a cost of production so low that it is hardly worth while to make them at home.

JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

One of their best efforts is shown in the illustration given with this article. It is a suit of white, plump with plain short pants and belted blouse. The blouse opens over a small "V" shaped vest which shows a bit of dordrith in the form of a spray of little flowers and leaves embroidered in white. The collar is finished with scallops edged with buttonhole stitch, instead of a hem. This is about all the decorating that one may expect to find in even the dressiest garb for the small boy.

In order that the blouse may set well a few buttons run from shoulder to hem. The yoke belt, of the fabric, is slipped through narrow straps, also of the plump. The belt drapes toward the front and may be fastened with a buckle or clasp fastener or preferably buttons and button holes. The sleeves are rather full and short enough to escape the writh.

Short white socks and low canvas pumps finish the toilet of the young gentleman, and he will not meet another better dressed than himself. He is outfitted in correct style whether he be the son of a millionaire or a duke or just an average man.
