Some time ago, Attorney Maher of Devils Lake did some business for Pat McNamara, not being paid, secured a judgment for his fees. On Monday, McNamara hot twice at Maher, one bullet taking effect just over the spine. The wound is not fatal, and McNamara is in the basti.

Chief Sassen of the Turtle Mountain Indians engaged in the state insurrection, has been found guilty of resisting United States officers at Devils Lake. Chief Little She turned state's evidence, giving damning evidence against his followers.

The Great Westn elevator at New Rockford burned today morning together with 1,200 bushels of wheat. The fire caught in the top of the building and is supposed to have been caused by a belt slipping off a pulley. The elevator was 40,000 bushels capacity.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Devils Lake Chautauqua Association officers were elected as follows: H. F. Arnold, of Larimore, president; John W. Maher, Devils Lake, vice president; J. A. Stewart, treasurer; A. M. Powell, secretary. All are directors ex-officio.

During last Sunday's thunder storm, lightning knocked down a bunch of horses in Henry Menke's enclosure at Sanborn, killing six outright. They were ranged along a wire fence and every one in the bunch was more or less shocked. Seventeen fence posts were shattered by the same bolt.

Tramps became so bold at Neche that they broke into a number of stores. After securing all they wanted they skipped over the line, but were afterwards driven back and arrested on this side after a fight with Neche citizens. They now languish in the jail.

It is said that Attorney General Cowan, who is defending the Indians, at Devils Lake, was rather amused at the verdict in Shorrt's case. The verdict was, "We, the jury, find the prisoner guilty as charged in the indictment, but recommend him to the utmost mercy of the court for the reason that he committed no overt act."

Notwithstanding the state bounty and idle eastern capital, the erection of a potato starch factory in Jamestown is likely to fall through, says the Alert. It can scarcely be expected that the manufacture of potato starch in North Dakota will be commenced if the manufacturer has to depend on farmers raising potatoes at the prices they are likely to receive.

Michael Murphy, who stole a $136 check from W. S. Martin, at Portland, and was caught in Fargo Monday night, broke jail and has skipped. He tore away the north side of one of the casings on the window on the west side of the city building, and then with a bar or knife broke off bits of the brick until he was able to get his hand out, and then he could work very fast by simply moving the bricks.

The extensive cattle and opium smuggling frauds across the international boundary at Devils Lake have culminated in the arrest of George H. Stevens, a prominent cattle buyer of Towner, by Deputy Marshals S. McCune and Hannah, charged with smuggling cattle across the line. It is said the smugglers stuffed opium down the throats of cattle, drove 'em across the line, where they were killed and the opium taken out intact.

The new boarding house law got in its work at Langdon this week and it is said by those in a position to know to be a sure cure for indigestion. Two gamblers put up at the Palace hotel on the Fourth and were very faithful at meal time, till Tuesday morning when they left for Park River before breakfast, and in their haste forgot to pay their board bills. Landlord O'Brien swore out a warrant that forenoon and Sheriff McGauvran wired Park River and had the men arrested. They were tried and sentenced to five days each in the county jail.

The Devils Lake Chautauqua season has closed after a very successful meeting. The attendance was considerably larger than during previous years, and would have been a great deal larger but for the fact that for about half of the time the weather was cold and rainy. The outcome this season goes to prove that the enterprise will be a permanent and successful one. There is little doubt but the attendance will increase from year to year, and that it will ultimately become one of the popular summer resorts of the northwest.

Under the new law passed last winter and which will go into effect when the new code become a law, the Home Mutual Fire Insurance Co. of North Dakota has been organized, with Emerson H. Smith, president; Ira W. Fisher, vice president; W. C. Macfadden, secretary; Frank P. Allen, treasurer and A. L. Carey superintendent. Besides these gentlemen Hon. N. A. Colby is on the board of directors. The home office is at Fargo. The company is organized to insure dwelling houses and farm property against loss by fire or lightning at the lowest possible cost.

An eye witness who was on the scene shortly after the cyclone occurred states that the inhabitants of Grafton could plainly see the cyclone burst. The hired man was standing in the doorway; the roof of the house first went, then the walls, and he was lifted over some small trees and landed in the wheat. The baby was carried 75 yards and landed in the road. The little girl named Peters, who lived just across the road, had her right leg broken in two places, the left leg torn from her body, and was severely cut on the breast. She died Monday and was buried Tuesday afternoon.

In the eastern part of the state, the cities are crowded with destitute harvest hands, and by every freight arriving from the east the already large number of unemployed is augmented by crowds of men and boys coming seeking work in the harvest fields. On one train of empty cattle cars that was returning west no less than seventy of these men left the freight soon as the train stopped. It will be fully a week before men are put to work in the fields, and even when the harvest season is at its height not more than half the men will be able to obtain employment if they come in such numbers.

W. L. Wilder of Grand Forks has returned from a trip to Atlantic City, where he was in attendance at the grand lodge of Elks of the United States. Speaking of the catastrophe at the "Casino" while the social session was in progress, he states that there were about 1,250 persons, including 100 ladies, in the second story, where they were. The building was a frame one the size of the hall 50x80 feet. A dry rot had set in in the beams, and the whole floor collapsed. Mr. Wilder was near a window and so fell down last. He somehow caught a projecting piece of timber, and escaped with a badly bruised leg and a torn suit of clothes.

Devils Lake, in addition to its shooting scrape Monday, made a ghastly find Tuesday morning, with little in connection with it to tell the story of a hobo's death. A dead man was discovered lying upon the dock track, near the oil house, with his pockets rifled and all valuables which he might have possessed gone. It is undoubtedly a case of cold-blooded murder and robbery, as the man was seen with a party of hoboes and appeared to have a fair supply of cash with him. The body was turned over to the county authorities and the coroner's inquest is in progress. Sheriff Barton is investigating the case, and has wired the authorities to keep an eye open for other members of the gang.

In the United States court at Devils Lake Judge Thomas allowed old Red Thunder and Frank Langam to go free, on account of old age and sickness. Alex Lorocque and Michael Langam, the two breeds who resisted Officer Schindler at the time of the insurrection, were fined $50 and twenty days in Ramsey county jail. Chief Sassene was fined $150 and ten days in Rolette county jail. Twelve other breeds, convicted of cutting timber on government land, were sentenced to five days in Rolette jail and fined $4 each. Red Thunder and the others pledged themselves never to resist United States officials in any way again. Court has adjourned till October, when it will convene again. There will then be over one hundred cases for trial.

An old colored lady about 70 years of age passed through Jamestown afoot last week bound for San Francisco. The old lady is quite an interesting specimen of humanity, a little cracked perhaps, but nevertheless interesting as a specimen of the genuine Southern "Aunt." At Valley City the chief of police offered to purchase a ticket for her but she told him the Lord had told her to walk to the four corners of the earth, and that she had left New Orleans about two years ago and was going to walk all the way. She had a memorandum book which people where she stayed had written in which showed she had been in Boston and various other places. She had old clothes and bundles weighing about 60 pounds which she carried.

Here is the way a North Dakota congressman does business, according to the Nelson County Observer: When at Petersburg just take a look at Hon. M. N. Johnson's ice house. Four walls and a roof; room 12x16 feet; a wall of snow a foot thick about the outside of the room with water thrown over it to freeze; then water pumped into the room from the well. This done during the coldest weather yields a solid mass of ice 8x12x16 feet, or 1,536 cubic feet of ice, and there you may see it today. Collorary—a cow, home made ice, garden with berries and currants, ice cream and fruit on the farmer's table almost without cost, every warm day in the year. Luxury and thinking often go hand in hand.

Deafness Cannot be Cured. by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Sold by druggists, 75c. Send for circulars; free.

REVIEW TABLE.

W. H. Mallock, the English writer of Socialism, has written for the August number of the Forum an article entitled "Is An Income Tax Socialistic?"

Much interest will be felt by the public in the return of Rudyard Kipling to India. He has just agreed to furnish a regular contribution to The Cosmopolitan Magazine for the coming year, beginning his work upon his return to India. India has never been critically considered by such a pen as Kipling's, and what he will write for The Cosmopolitan will attract the widest attention, both here and in England.

The August (midsummer) number of Frank Leslie's popular monthly easily takes the lead of the seasonable illustrated magazines. It appears in a handsome new cover, of appropriate artistic design, which will be permanently retained. This new cover is embellished with a portrait of the late Frank Leslie, founder of the magazine, and the father of illustrated periodical literature in America. An editorial article on "The Traditions and Progress of Illustrative Art" says: "Not only does the portrait of Frank Leslie adorn our cover and page, but his enterprising artistic impulse, exemplified in the motto, 'Progress and Spirit of the Age,' has animated the making of this, as it will of every future number of this justly acclaimed 'Monarch of the Magazines.'"

With the July number of the Art Amateur comes a charming landscape, "The End of the Day," by Robert J. Winkenden, and an equally pretty study of Golden Rod, by Paul de Longpre. There are the usual eight large pages of working designs for wood carving, china painting, embroidery, etc. Among the numerous articles are "Hints about Sketching," "Drawing for Reproduction," "Among the Wild Flowers," "Palettes for Fruit Painting," "The Decorative Vines of Summer," "Water-Colors for Mineral Painting," "Hints on Furniture and Woodwork," "Talks on Embroidery," and "Flowers and Plants in the Home." All these articles are splendidly illustrated. The artist for the month is Robert J. Winkenden, and there are three examples of his work shown. In "My Note Book," the editor devotes most of his attention to the present craze for "Old English Masters." Price 35 cents. Montague Marks, Publisher, 23 Union Square, New York.

Russian Settlers.

The Jamestown Alert has an interesting article on the Russian settlers of North Dakota—their customs, habits and modes of living. They are especially numerous in Logan and McIntosh counties and the first families which were located in Logan county arrived in the spring of 1889, brought there by William Dwyer, the well known merchant. They constructed buildings out of sod on their lands, and with timber hauled from the river bottoms, without the outlay of any cash except for a few nails. A little land was broken and seeded to flax. The crop that year was a poor one and the returns small. They were not sufficient to live upon. Mr. Dwyer took the husbands of the families to Steele, on the main line of the Northern Pacific railroad, and secured for them the contract to haul field boulders to the station. This they did throughout the winter of '89-'90, loading a total of 200 cars and obtaining money sufficient to carry them until fall. The amount obtained from the stone contract paid for the supplies advanced during the summer and left them something for the coming summer, and until the next crop should be harvested. This crop was a fair one and fifty more settlers, with their families, came in that year and took land. To care for the new comers and some of those who had been unfortunate Mr. Dwyer repeated the stone contract at Steele, this time, however, taking forty men. These in a similar manner did well and stocked up with supplies for the coming season. Since then the settlement and settlements have increased from year to year until now there are in the single county of Logan 300 families.

Horses Taken Up.

On July 5, 1895, at my place near Painted Woods, one sorrel gelding with light main and tail, one dark gray gelding, one bay gelding with white star in forehead and white hind feet, one light bay mare, one dark bay gelding with white spot in forehead and a few white spots on neck, and one dark bay gelding. Owner will please prove property, pay charges and remove the same.

OLE OLSON.

A Slight Error.

M. T. Richardson of Fargo calls the attention of the TRIBUNE to an error in the item about potato culture, which is traveling along with the article all around the west. It was stated that a man in Cass county had a full section in potatoes, which, at 200 bushels to the acre, would give him 13,000 bushels. A section is 640 acres, which, at 200 bushels to the acre, would yield 128,000 bushels.

Taken Up.

Came to my farm, three miles and a half northeast of Menoken, one young bay mare with head stall on and one white hind foot. T. M. CRAVEN, Menoken.

County Real Property.

The abstract of realty in Burleigh county has been completed by Auditor Moorhouse, and is in shape for transmission to the state auditor. The abstract shows the total real valuation of the county to be $2,466,829, as against $2,451,117 last year, an increase of about $15,000. The acreage of farm property is 668,611, as against 664,062 in '94, and the value $1,400,045, about $11,000 greater than last year, when it was $1,449,220. The total value of farm structures is $49,072, against a total of $48,477 last year. Town and city lots are the same in value as in '94 aggregating $643,051, although structures have increased from $310,369 to 314,661. The total value of exempt property is $356,850, and the average value of acre property $2.18.

To Be Wedded.

Fargo Forum: Mr. Montague of Dickinson, and Miss Anna Nelson are to be married at Pembina August 7. Mr. Montague is a brother of Mrs. Senator McGilvray, and Miss Anna a daughter of the genial and popular pioneer citizen, Col. Nelson, late collector of the port of Pembina, and a sister of Mrs. Senator Jud LaMoure, than whom there is no more devoted mother and lovely woman. This will be one of the most noted weddings ever taking place in the state. A large number of citizens and friends from Dickinson and the Slope will go down to Pembina, and of course everybody in that section will be there. The high contracting parties are well known, highly respected and prominent old timers. Miss Anna is one of the most charming and delightful ladies in all North Dakota, and Mrs. McGilvray, sister of the groom, has no acquaintance not an admirer. The universal sentiment will be—good luck to the participants and best wishes to all concerned.

When she was a child, she called for Castoria. When she became a Miss, she called for Castoria. When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

The Bishop Home.

Bishop Walker is home again, having just returned from Brooklyn, where he attended the funeral of his mother. The bishop is going to immediately begin his work on his traveling church car, which he was obliged to abandon, owing to his family affliction. Bishop Walker was the originator of the idea, which he has so successfully carried out, of holding religious services in a church upon wheels, traveling from town to town. Since he first started his car—about five years ago—many others have copied him, and now several denominations have church cars on the road. The bishop's car is used only among the smaller towns in North Dakota. It is neatly fitted up, and has a pulpit, an organ, a piano and other essentials. The services have invariably been well attended, and success has always marked every trip since the first service was held.

The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

Proposals for Bridge. OFFICE OF COUNTY AUDITOR. BISMARCK, N. D., July 12, 1895. Sealed proposals will be received at the County Auditor's office for building a bridge at Dry Point, near the old Satterlund place, Burleigh county, N. D., until Aug. 1, 1895. Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the County Auditor after Monday, July 15, 1895. The Board of County Commissioners reserve the right to reject all bids. W. S. MOOTHOUSE, County Auditor.
