BIG GOLD SHOOT.

Single Shot Yielded Nearly $4,000,000 at National, Nevada.

During the four years following 1908 a single ore shoot at National, Nev., a previously little-known mining district, yielded about $4,000,000 in gold and is one of the most remarkable and interesting bodies of high-grade ore discovered in the west. The district lies on the western slope of Santa Rosa Range in Humboldt county near the Oregon state line. The mineral deposits of this range, like those of many other parts of Nevada, may be divided into two principal classes, younger gold and silver bearing veins that occur in or near the Tertiary volcanic rocks, and much older gold and silver bearing veins that occur in sedimentary and associated granite rocks.

In this area the older deposits are but poorly represented and have yielded only a small output, but one of the younger or Tertiary veins has locally been wonderfully rich, yielding much ore averaging $30 a pound. During the early period of activity a few thousand tons of low-grade ore, assaying about $100 a ton, were thrown on the dump of the National mine, but the ore shipped averaged about $30,000 a ton in gold having a value of $10.60 an ounce, the remainder being silver.

The veins are inclosed in latite, rhyolite, basalt, basalt tuff, and trachyte. They consist of sheared rock a few feet wide traversed by quartz seams containing stibnite, pyrite, chalcopryite, arsenopyrite, zinc blende, and galena. Cinnebar was found in one of the veins. Most of the veins that carry much stibnite are poor in gold and silver. Native gold is found principally in the rich shoot of the National vein the isolated position of which, in a district of quartz-stibnite veins poor in gold and silver, is remarkable. The several veins appear to belong to one and the same epoch of mineralization, the gold shoot being a local development upon one of the normal stibnite veins.

The gold shoot was encountered 40 feet below the surface and has been followed on the dip of the vein for 800 feet, the slope length reaching 250 feet. The ore, which ran $20 to $30 to the pound, occurred mostly in an irregular footwall seam from a few inches to a foot wide.

The veins were formed at a depth of 1,000 to 2,700 feet below the surface by hot ascending solutions, probably of a composition somewhat like that of Steamboat Springs in Nevada or the silica-sodium waters of the Yellowstone National Park.

The National mining district has recently been described by Waldemar Lindgren, whose report, Bulletin 601, may be obtained free from the Director, U. S. Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

Sunday a very pleasant and congenial crowd of friends and relatives of Hiram Wyatt gathered at the home of his son, John Q. Wyatt, near Vandever, to celebrate the seventy-first birthday of Mr. Wyatt. A picnic was held on the lawn at the Wyatt home. Most of the children and grand children were present and enjoyed the occasion to the fullest. "Uncle Hiram," as he is familiarly known, is one of the oldest residents of the third district and one of its most respected. He is one of those quiet, kind hearted individuals who always has a kind word for every one. In spite of his seventy-one years he is strong and hearty and enjoys good health and every indication is that he will be spared many years yet to make glad the hearts of his many friends over the county. Those present from Crossville were Mrs. Tilda Hall, Mrs. Andy Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Hale, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Potter, Mr. and Mrs. Bedford Webb, and Mrs. Campbell.

WAR SITUATION.

The Germans and Austrians continue to drive the Russians back and the feeling is general that the Capital of Russia-Poland, Warsaw, will fall into the hands of the Germans this time. The Russians are making a determined stand, but it is thought they will be forced to give way.

The Germans have taken some trenches from the French the past few days, but the French report a repulse of the German attack at many points while admitting the German advance.

The allies seem to continue to have the best of the situation in the Dardanelles, but progress is slow and the slaughter very great, the Turks suffering the worse.

Nothing new comes from the Italian front.
