Does that sound
"too good to be true?"

Scores of team owners in this city are finding it both good and true. Purina O-Molene is not a stock medicine or even an "Alfalfa Mule Feed." If you've ever seen "mixed feeds" before, forget them.

Let us show you a sample and tell you why O-Molene positively costs less to feed than oats or corn or "mixed feeds."

'RULED BY WIVES'

Wail Sent Up Long Ago by Digitified Roman Senator.

Statesmen of the Great Empire Might Be Supreme Over All Mankind, but They Were Powerless to Control Women.

The "modern woman" with her new-found interest in politics and law-making is not as purely a twentieth-century product as most of us imagine. Coldly historical records prove that over 2,000 years ago the gentlewomen of ancient Rome wielded considerable political influence. To repeat verbatim the words of Cato, the reform candidate of the times: "We rule all mankind and we are ruled by our wives." And while the fair citizens would not register a protesting vote against undesirable legislation, they could and did use other methods.

Take, for example, in 215 B. C., when a bill regulating women's dress was brought up before the Roman senate. Government control was no new idea in the third century B. C., and the Roman senators were brave and resplendent graybeards. Had they not steered the nation safely through the perils of the war with Carthage and settled the terms of the peace treaty with a minimum amount of dissension? Surely, with a wave of their collective legislative hand, they could settle once for all the trivial question of how much money a woman should spend for clothes. So the law was passed—the Lex Oppia.

Unfortunately, however, the maids and matrons of the republic couldn't see it. They definitely objected to it.

As there was no equal suffrage at Rome, they, of course, could not attack the measure by the power of the ballot, but a law, to be at all effective, has to be enforced.

Let us not pry too closely into the family secrets of the senatorial households! Why attempt to visualize the dignified politician who swayed the votes of hundreds trying to explain to his irate spouse that really, my dear, it was not a personal matter, or trying to harden his heart to the plea of some dark-haired beauty as she nestled her head against his shoulder and begged him to stop that silly old law. Whatever the methods of the fair lobbyists, they were eminently successful. In 195 B. C. the law came up for discussion as to its repeal.

When the question reached the senate the feminists adopted even more militant tactics. They tried "picketing." To quote from Livy, the great Roman historian: "While the arguments waxed hot in the senate, the matrons could not be kept at home either by advice or shame or the commands of their husbands." (Where, oh where, was that good old word "obey"?) "They thronged every street and avenue in the city, pleading with the men on their way to the senate. Each day the crowds of women increased as newcomers arrived from the country towns and villages."

And, naturally, the law was repealed.—George W. Lefingwell, Ph. D., in New York Post.

Vigilance.

"My wife used to sit up till early in the morning, waiting to see what time I came home."
"So did mine," replied Mr. Meekton.
"But now Henrietta needs her 'rest. She has more important picketing duties to perform."

SUMMER MEAT DISHES.

Veal, chicken, sweetbreads and lamb are meats suitable for summer lunches. Mince cold cooked veal, seasoned to taste, reheated in a white sauce and spread on thin slices of buttered toast, makes a good breakfast dish with a poached egg.

Mock Terrapin.—Cut cooked calf's liver into dice. Put a tablespoonful of butter into saucepan, add salt, pepper, and paprika, cook until the butter is brown, then add two tablespoonfuls of flour and enough stock to make a moderately thick sauce. The stock may be made with beef extract and water. Add a little chopped parsley, half a cupful of cream, two hard cooked eggs cut fine, a tablespoonful of lemon juice and the liver. Cook until the liver is heated through; remove, add a dash of orange juice and serve at once on buttered toast.

Veal Croquettes.—Chop cold cooked veal very fine. Season with pepper, grated onion, paprika and tomato catsup. Bind with a raw egg, or a very thick cream sauce. Shape into croquettes, dip in egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat.

Escalloped Veal.—Mince cold cooked veal very fine. Butter a baking dish and put a thin layer of veal in the bottom, with a sprinkling of onion on top. Then add a layer of fine bread crumbs well buttered, chopped parsley, then another layer of veal and so on until the dish is full, having buttered crumbs on top. Pour milk into the pan until the dish seems moist and bake slowly until it is done, with an inverted pan over the dish to keep in the steam. Remove the pan ten minutes before serving to let the top brown, adding more butter if necessary.

Creamed Sweetbreads.—Parboil, drain, cut up a pair of sweetbreads. Make a cream sauce, add chopped mushrooms that have been cooked in butter five minutes, season to taste and serve in timbales or in paper cases.

Nickel Money.

Nickels—which are really copper-nickel, being a mixture of the two metals—were first coined in this country to give encouragement to nickel mining. Important deposits having been found in Pennsylvania.

Since then many other uses for the metal have been found. But at the present time 85 per cent of the world's supply of nickel is derived from the mines of the Sudbury district, in Canada, where the reserves of ore are enormous. Of the balance, France produces the bulk, contributing 11 per cent.

It has been suggested that Great Britain, practically controlling as she does the world's nickel, might switch from cheapened gold and make the white metal the basis of her currency. —Philadelphia Ledger.

"Felt Like Eating"

Man and Wife, All Run-Down from Farm Work, Were Greatly Helped by Ziron.

"MY WIFE and I, after a hard spring on the farm, were tired and run-down," says Mr. E. B. Mulkey, of Route 1, Acworth, Ga. "We neither felt well. I knew my blood was bad, as I had little boils on the back of my neck. "We felt we needed a builder. We had heard of Ziron and thought it must be what we needed. It certainly was. We took it faithfully, and after a week or such a matter we began to feel better. My wife felt like cooking, and I sure felt like eating. "Ziron sure did us good. It made us both feel stronger and helped for the fall work, which everyone knows is 'some work' on a farm. My boils began to dry up, though just at first they seemed worse. "We are much better and can highly recommend Ziron, and gladly do so for it sure did us good." Ziron is a safe, reliable, tonic medicine, good for men, women and children, when an iron tonic is indicated. It is easy to take and contains no habit-forming drugs. Ask your druggist or dealer.

John F. Wyatt recently purchased the farm owned by his father near Winesap, and the old gentleman will live with his son. The young Mr. Wyatt is one of the thrifty and energetic citizens of the Winesap neighborhood.

While the editor was in Nashville last week he had the pleasure of meeting Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Weaver, who were returning from a vacation trip of a fortnight to points in Iowa. They and children were well and feeling fine after their visit to the Hawkeye state.

E. B. Jones, who recently purchased the Commercial Hotel, took charge of the rooming department of the holstery and will shortly take charge of the dining room also. W. H. Wilson, who has been running the hotel for some months left for his home at Green Tree, White county, Sunday.

Contrary to expectations the play "The Master Man" was not given last week, Thursday, but will arrive for this week, Thursday. This is a very high-class picture and costs a pretty sum as such pictures go. In spite of the increased cost there will be no additional charge, but will be 25 and 35 cents as usual. My business is growing and we attribute that pleasant condition largely to the fact that we are able to secure such plays as particularly appeal to people. As we become more fully informed on such matters we hope to reach the point where there will be no disappointments to any one, but all my shows prove especially pleasing and entertaining to the public. H. C. Hendley.

The family of Grant Holloway moved to Clarkrange last week and they are now occupying the Holloway homestead property.

The editor and son, Merris Bishop, went to Mufreesboro last week and passed two days in that lively town helping to prepare a linotype machine for shipment to Crossville for setting up the Chronicle. We are expecting it to arrive tomorrow and we hope to have it in operation in time to set the Chronicle for September 28. If everything goes well we will very shortly be in position to make such a paper as the people of this section have never enjoyed before.

A meeting of Crossville citizens was held in the court house looking to having the Pierpont-Paxton Co. build their lumber railroad to their property from Crossville. A committee was appointed to see what could be done in the way of securing reductions on right-of-way. A survey is being made now from Crab Orchard and nothing definite will be known until that survey is completed and the estimate as to the cost is furnished. After that is done the matter is expected to be decided within a short time.

FOR SALE—One-ton Hudson truck. See B. H. West. 38-3t

Last week Mrs. N. E. Jackson went to Chamberlain hospital at Rockwood for treatment. Last reports were that she was doing well.

OLD PAPERS WANTED

At the Chronicle office you can get cash for your old magazines of the quality that the Ladies' World, Saturday Evening Post, etc., are printed upon. It matters not as to size, but paper must be of as good quality as the papers named. May buy old newspapers later, if freight rates will permit. We pay 50 cents a 100 pounds
