ADAMS FORD

The recent cold spell has dashed all our hopes about having any apples or peaches this year.

Morris Goss, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Adams made a trip to Crossville recently.

Several people from this community went to East Woody last Sunday to be present at the funeral of Arthur Woody.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Norris, of Winesap, are here visiting relatives and friends.

Calvin Adams and daughters have moved to L. W. Martin's mill to take charge of the boarding house.

Hess Hayes and family have moved to Clarkrange.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Swicegood was made happy by the arrival of a baby girl Sunday.

PLEASANT HILL

Miss Josephine Smith representing the New York office of the A. M. A. has been visiting the school the past few days. As a new member of the board Miss Smith has made it a point as much as might be, during her short stay, with the life and work at Pleasant Hill. She is very eager to get in touch with the students and we hope she will carry back to the New York office some spirit of our school.

The Ministerial Show at the Academy Friday night was a huge success. Given by the students under the direction of Prof. Colby and Mr. Snipes, it demonstrated the interest and the dramatic possibilities of our students and a good crowd from the village and neighboring towns testified to the success of the affair.

Another walk-over for our school occurred Saturday afternoon when Pleasant Hill Academy scored 7 to 1 in base ball against Clifty.

STATEMENT OF OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC.

C. Bishop, Crossville, Tenn., that J. W. Dorton, Crossville, is sole owner, that the Chronicle Publishing Company, which publishes the Crossville Chronicle, is a corporation and that their are no bondholders, mortgagees or other security holders holding one percent of the aforesaid company's stock.

S. C. Bishop, Manager.
 Sworn to and subscribed before me this 2nd day of April, 1921.
 J. W. Dorton, Notary Public.
 My commission expires July 14, 1924.

There is nothing known to the human family that is the source of disease that rats and flies are. Be sure to swat the fly but do not by any means fail to kill the rat by every means possible.

Rats kill chickens, destroy eggs, ruin clothing and leather goods, carry disease and there is not a single benefit that can be credited to them.

SWAT THE FLY

"Oh, every fly that skips our swatters, will have five million sons and daughters, and countless first and second cousins; of aunts and uncles, scores and dozens; and fifty-seven billion nieces; so knock the whole thing all to pieces."

Waterman's
 Ideal
 Fountain Pen

If you have never used a Waterman Ideal Fountain Pen, you very likely think fountain pens are a nuisance rather than useful; most fountain pens are. But the Waterman is different; it's a real joy to use one after trying the numerous make-shifts called fountain pens.

Prices: 2.50 to $50.00

One of the strong points about the Waterman is, it MUST write and MUST do it with ease and comfort and give PERFECT satisfaction or you get your money back. Come in and try one. That will cost you nothing. If you want to buy, we will get any style of pen you want, if we don't have it in stock.

Nests of Cedar Bark.

A new idea for hen's nests, to keep insects out of them, is to make them of cedar bark. Bugs, as every housewife knows, strongly object to cedar. For this purpose the bark is shredded and the buds of the tree may be included with it.

True.

There's one thing that everybody knows and but few remember, and that is that the other fellow isn't offering to bet on his game just for the fun of it. There's only one way to beat the other fellow's game, and that's not to play it.

IN THOSE "GOOD OLD TIMES"

Fine to Read About, but Few of Us Would Care to Go Back to Their Conditions.

There is no question that breakfast is today a meal that has been developed out of the centuries, remarks J. H. S. in the Christian Science Monitor. In the days of the Wars of the Roses, breakfast was eaten when we of today are still asleep. Into the cold and stuffy hall, rush strewn, with a fire feverishly burning on the great hearth, came the men, yawning and pushing their tousled hair out of their eyes. They would not wear their swords, unless there was to be an immediate foray or battle or rouse of some kind or other, but all would have their knives and daggers, to eat with and to stab, if need be. There was no sunlight and the smoky mist of the fens came in at the doors and through the high, loose windows. The dogs yawned, too, and scratched themselves, too, and made themselves generally obnoxious as those noble animals will.

At the high table, on his dais, the lord's platter and cup awaited him; presently, he came. He was slightly cleaner than his rusty retainers; at all events he wore better clothes. As lord and as leading a life that was virtually military all the time, he may have had on his back and breast pieces and his cuisses, or thigh pieces. He, too, wore his dagger, for the handy uses above set forth. And what did they eat and drink? Well, the mere description is enough to put one out of countenance for a full week with all forms of food and you can find out for yourself. There was no morning table, the chill was insufferable and the air was foul. They had "manchets" of bread, but buttered toast was a beautiful dream of the far distant future. It was fight and grab and wound and too often lie and blackly cheat with many of these stout lords and their faithful trains, and though we have not solved all the problems, I have a notion, reader, that we are better off than they were, even if we do not wear armor to breakfast. We may grumble as we like at this thing and that, but there is more sunlight than there was then, or rather we see it more and we feel it more and we share it more, so that breakfasting in Boston or London at a seemly hour and having a proper modicum of decency and comfort, let us go through the healthful exercise of thanksgiving and look with humble steadfastness forward always, backward never.

Daring Equilibrists.

The Frenchman who recently waved the tri-color from the top of the Strassburg cathedral in celebration of the transfer of the custody of that famous pile from German to French authority, was not the first to perform this daring feat.

The spire is 466 feet from the ground, and is surmounted by a "button" 18 inches in diameter, which formerly was a pedestal for a statue of the Virgin, but now serves merely as a support for a lightning rod. In the Eighteenth century, according to the chronicles of the cathedral, a German chimney sweep climbed up to the button and there stood upright on it. Moreover, at that time there was no lightning rod running up the side to aid in the ascent.

In April, 1860, again, a French soldier, to win a bet, climbed the spire and actually stood on his head on the button. A strong wind was blowing, and the man swayed this way and that with his legs in the air in a truly alarming manner. His form, it is related, seen from the ground, looked no bigger than a speck, and his gyrations could be noted only with the aid of field glasses.

Big Game Drive.

An extraordinary amount of game has been exterminated in Zululand as a result of the great drive carried out at the request of the government with the object of striking at the devastating disease known as nagana, which has played havoc with stock all over the country. Men from all parts of Natal took part in the expedition, the number of guns being estimated at 700. Men of the young farmer type predominated, but there was a rich sprinkling of the "old hands," and all were thoroughly equipped. The drive created a volume of protest, the S. P. C. A. and other bodies putting forward strong objections, all of which, however, were overruled.—Nairobi Farmers' Journal.

Live Stock Value Decreased.

Value of live stock on farms and ranges in the United States has decreased more than two and a quarter billion dollars during the last year, and the amount of live stock 10,000,000 head, according to estimates made by the Department of Agriculture. Cattle and sheep decreased in number more than four per cent. There was a decrease in value of more than half a billion dollars in milk cows and about the same for other cattle, while swine showed a decrease of almost half a billion dollars and sheep almost a quarter of a billion dollars.

OZONE

Everyone seems to be putting in good time since the mines have shut down by improving their homes, making garden and getting ready for a good crop this year. We are hoping the mines will open up soon.

E. O. Lewis is building an addition to his house which, when completed, will add greatly to the looks as well as to the convenience.

The Hembre well drill is at work here drilling and cleaning wells. Having put one down for Mrs. A. E. Niles last week, it is now at J. T. Ashburn's.

Robt. Hutson has bought the A. J. Erwin home and has moved his family here.

Having sold his farm one mile from own to John Miller, of Daysville, Rev. Radford has been holding a series of meetings here closing Sunday night with four additions to the church. There has been a wonderful interest shown in the work for months. Never has a meeting been here that has won the confidence of the people as has Bro. Radford. Our Sunday school has more than doubled and we feel that we owe a great deal of it to him.

Rev. Adams, of Knoxville, spent Sunday and Sunday here assisting Rev. Radford in his meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Lewis and Mr. Mrs. J. Lacy Smith went out on mountain near Rockwood for a picnic Sunday where some other friends and relatives joined them.

Mr. Lewis expects to leave soon for Norfolk, Va., to spend the summer.

Charlie Hutson, who has a position Fork Mountain, is spending a few days here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hutson.

It is feared that the severe cold will kill most of the peaches and apples.

Fred McCuistan, of Rockwood, who bought the Millard farm here, is spending a few days with his family.

He is a blacksmith at Fork Mountain mines.

Mrs. O. S. Smith is very sick at this writing. Dr. Charlie Wilson was called Friday.
