GEO. W. LINCOLN,
THE WELL-KNOWN BUILDER, IS STILL IN THE FIELD AS A CONtractor, and is now better prepared to do any and all kinds of work appertaining to contracting or any other class of work belonging to his trade, in the same good and workmanlike manner as heretofore; having curtailed my shop expenses and still retain plenty of room to do any and all kinds of work appertain-ing to the building trade that may be entrusted to my care. I am enabled to do the same at very low rates, to suit the extremely dull times, and at the same time bearing in mind that what is worth doing at all is worth doing well.
Thanking the public for past favors, I remain respectfully yours,
GEO. W. LINCOLN.

JOHN NOTT,
DIMOND BLOCK, 95 AND 97 KING STREET.
The Chinese Legend of the Creation.
Chinese legends say that in the beginning a vast egg was divided into two parts, and a being came forth called Poon-Ko Wong. He took the upper half of the shell from which he had sprung and formed the heavens; out of the lower he made the earth. Two clouds of vapor met and blended, and there sprang from the union a son and a daughter, whose descendants are the millions of China.
Studying Marine Animals.
A French physiologist, Dr. Regnard, is endeavoring to study marine animals under their natural conditions, an apparatus designed by Calletet enabling him to watch the creatures in water under any pressure up to that of 650 atmospheres, which corresponds with that of the sea at the greatest depths at which dredgings have been made-- about four miles.

Methods of Long Range Shooting.
To the general public the interest in Creed-moor was due perhaps largely to the picturesque features of the contests. It was a striking novelty to see men shooting at a nearly invisible target, and, in so doing, getting into all kinds of awkward, uncouth attitudes.
The man who made a bull's eye at 1,000 yards received as much credit for his effort on account of lying on his stomach as he did for his faultless aim. And on the other hand, he who missed at the same distance had sympaty mixed maybe with condemnation because he lay on his back and rested the muzzle of his gun on his toes. But after a few contests the novelty of the methods was of not greater interest than the sport itself, for people soon familiarized themselves with the difficulties of long range shooting, they believed they understood its peculiarities, and they talked as learnedly about it as they do now about balloon jibs and rocker keels.-- New York Sun.

TWO TRUTHS.
[Helen Hunt Jackson.]
"Darling," he said, "I never meant To hurt you," and his eyes grew wet "I would not hurt you for the world!
Am I to blame if I forget?"
"Forgive my selfish tears!" she cried.
"Forgive! I knew that it was not That you would mean to hurt me love; I knew it was that you forgot!"
But, all the same, deep in her heart Ranked this thought, and rankles yet, When love is at its best, one loves So much that he can not forget!

THE SOFTENING TOUCH OF TIME Doesn't Get Half a Chance to Beautify the Buildings at Washington.
[Joachim Miller's Letter.] Now I have "made a covenant with mine eyes," as Job said, to not find fault. Having in previous letters persuaded United States senators to keep their big schoolboy heels down off the desks; having laughed them out of the foolish idea of going into "executive session," and clearing the galleries merely because they wanted to smoke, and having also banished the ever-present spittoon, or at least reduced the annual bill for spittoons more than one-half, I feel that I have done enough for the capitol, and that more interference or advice might be misunderstood. But I must pronounce against this business --this brutal custom of scraping down our marble buildings as soon as they begin to take on the dignity and comeliness of time and color.
Now, what would you think of a man who would go into the Dresden gallery and give Raphael's Madonna a scrubbing with soap and sand and ashes? Or let us suppose the Greeks or Romans had scrubbed and scraped their marbles as we do in America. How much of them would have been left for us to look upon? Let me tell you, for a fact, that if any man, or even any municipality, should attempt to scrape or scrub a building or any marble of any kind in Italy, why, the artistic and sensitive Italian would simply "make Rome howl."

Why can not people who have charge of our great structures learn a little something from those ancient states where art first took form in marble. The Greeks and Romans always let time and the elements soften the outlines of their temples, and no piece of architecture was complete that had not been rounded down and subdued in tone and color by the perfecting touch of time.
But here at Washington the buildings are perpetually defaced by scaffolds; and scrape, scrape, scrape. All the year through, and nearly everywhere you lift your eyes, it is scrape, scrape, scrape, till the noise, the dust, the ghostly, glaring sight of the newly scraped, and skinned, and scratched, and mutilated columns and walls drive you out of town.
Why, even England, half-civilized as she is in many things, knows much better than to lay profane hands on marble. I have been very familiar with St.
George's gate, Hyde park, the past fifteen years. It is almost black. But it has not been touched since it was placed there. It will never be touched.
Nature must take care of marble after it has found its place. And the sooner it takes tone from the elements and the softening touch of time, the sooner it becomes "a thing of beauty." For what so offends the eye as this bold and glaring and glittering white marble!

Use of Electricity in Bleaching.
[Chicago Herald.]
Cotton manufacturers in St. Petersburg are much interested at present in the successful application of electricity for the purpose of bleaching cotton and flax fibers, as well as tissues. The material is steeped in water, which is then decomposed by electricity, the oxygen which is thus set free at once acting on the filers. This process has been found to occupy very considerably less time than the ordinary one.
