

CHARACTER IN GAIT.

PERSONALITY OF PEOPLE SHOWS ITSELF IN THEIR WALK.

The Strutter Has Boundless Conceit—The Woman Who Steps With Painful Accuracy—Ah, Here Comes the Man With Steady Tread and Manly Carriage.

It is Plutarch who says that "An action of small note, a short saying or jest will distinguish a person's real character more than the greatest sieges or the most important battles," and Lavater, the father of physiognomy, declares that no man can set a glass upon a table without betraying to a certain extent his individuality. True, no doubt, but one must have the keen vision, the well trained eye, in order to interpret these mystic signs.

Sit by your window some fine morning and watch the men and women as they pass to their varied avocations. Take, for example, the man just approaching. His chin is elevated to an angle of 20 degrees, a self important frown corrugates his brow, a complacent smile plays about his mouth, he struts rather than walks. Need I point him out as a man of boundless conceit, of monumental brass, of colossal gall? His amiability is imperturbable, for one who is absolutely self satisfied is apt to take an indulgent view of the world at large. His faith in himself is limitless. No traitorous feeling of self distrust will ever cause his failure. He will undertake without the slightest misgiving what a man of ten times his ability would hesitate to attempt. His success in life is assured, and yet one cannot help feeling that if traced to its roots it would be found to spring from defects rather than merits.

The dress of the woman coming just behind him is arranged with mathematical exactness. The placing of each pin has been a matter of special care. Her lips are compressed, her hands clasped primly before her, her steps are taken with painful accuracy; there is not a hairbreadth's difference in the length of them. If you follow her to her home, you will find that the same scrupulousness prevails in the disposition of everything about her. The furniture is arranged with rectangular exactness, there is not a pin out of place in her bureau drawers, and the jars upon her pantry shelves are marshaled like soldiers on parade. She will accomplish no great work in life, however. She is a precisionist and spends her time laboriously doing nothing. And also, take care of this woman. She is absolutely uncompromising, and all about her must be lopped off or stretched out to fit the procrustean idea of order which exists in her own mind.

But don't—you who are in search of a wife—fall into the opposite error of choosing as a life companion the girl with the frowzy head, the skirt of whose dress dips in points, whose gait is careless, who swings her arms as she walks. She is generous, warm hearted, good natured, possessed of noble traits, but confusion, with all its hideous train of evils, follows in her wake. One foresees for her an untidy, chaotic household, irregular, ill arranged meals and uncleanly, badly governed children. If her husband happens to be a strong, an exceptionally strong man, he will simply be supremely wretched and uncomfortable. If not, his ambition will be paralyzed, his disposition spoiled; he will escape the physical discomforts of his situation by every means in his power and perhaps drown the recollection of them in drink.

The man with the shuffling, uncertain gait, whose steps seem to be directed by no guiding power within, is weak-minded. There is nothing which more surely betrays feebleness of intellect than the walk. And he of the awkward gait, the restless manner, the furtive glance, is the morbidly self conscious man, who cannot for a moment divest himself of the sense of being observed; who lives, so to speak, under a glass case. And he of the soft, cautious tread, who gives you the impression of creeping upon some object as a cat creeps up upon a bird, is feline in his nature. He is not to be trusted; he is treacherous; every faculty of his mind is poised for a spring.

Let me commend to your confidence the man just coming into view—the man with the earnest eye, the manly carriage, the firm tread, who walks with simple, straightforward directness, as if toward some given point. He is "stable in all his ways." He has a distinctly defined, well considered purpose in life, toward the attainment of which he advances with unswerving steadfastness, never turning to the right or the left, never allowing himself to be drawn into by-paths, no matter how alluring. His victory is assured, his success merely a question of time.

And so might one multiply types ad infinitum, for the variety in mankind is limitless. Nor is it to be wondered at that the characteristics of men and women exhibit themselves in the gait, for the motive power, the propelling force, is from within.

In his account of Cataline, Sallust, the great master of nature, has not forgotten to remark that "his walk was now quick and again slow," as an indication of a mind revolving with violent emotions.—Philadelphia Times.

No Danger of a Salt Famine. The amount of salt in the sea waters of the globe, if extracted, would be greater in mass than the land, so far as it appears above the surface. The seas cover 73 per cent of the earth's surface, estimated at 9,260,000 (German) square miles. The percentage of chlorinatium in the sea is the same at all depths. Assuming that the average depth of the sea is a half (German) mile, there are then 3,400,000 cubic miles of sea water. A cubic mile of sea water contains on the average about 25 kilograms of salt. The 3,400,000 cubic miles of sea water would therefore contain 85,000 cubic miles of distilled pure salt.—From the German.

DREAM'S PROMPTINGS.

There is a Constant Flow of Unconscious Thought While We Sleep.

The physiologists of the first half of the century and some more modern writers expressed the belief that dreaming only occurred at the moment when consciousness began to resume its sway.

But in The North American Review, Dr. Louis Robinson says that modern investigators accept the theory of the metaphysicians and believe that there is a certain amount of cerebral action during the whole period of sleep, and that the vast majority of our dreams never come to our knowledge. He thinks that there is an unbroken current of ideas which passes through the sleeping brain, and which only reveals itself to the conscious ego when some disturbing element intervenes. "We may compare it to an invisible and silent river, flowing by without betraying its presence, save where there is a splash of a fish or of a falling stone, or some foaming eddy where a rock breaks the smooth surface."

Dr. Robinson's article is long and interesting. The conclusions at which he arrives are as follows: Owing to the unceasing unconscious cerebration which is a necessary concomitant of our power of intellect, the brain is always in part awake, and is especially active in shifting memorized matter. The cerebral centers connected with the sense organs are continually and independently employed in stimulating impressions from without. Certain of the senses, especially that of hearing, remain open to external influences during sleep and convey actual vibrations to the brain. There is an active and purely involuntary predisposition on the part of the mental apparatus to compare and collate all the messages which come, or seem to come, from without, through the sense channels, and to collate these again with what is brought to the consciousness by involuntary recollection. Associated with this is a tendency to combine the evidence so collected into a coherent whole, and to make the result of either explain the more emphatic thoughts or impressions, or else answer some questions which occupied the attention before sleep began. "No voluntary power exists during sleep to pick out from the jumble handed in that which is relevant to the problem to be solved, and just as there is no power to discriminate real from false impressions at the outset, so, through out a dream, we are completely oblivious to the most glaring fallacies and inconsistencies."—Rochester Post-Express.

Had No Eyes, but He "Saw." "I should like to have the key of the unoccupied house. Wharton street," requested a well dressed man as he entered the office of a downtown real estate agent.

"Yes, sir," and the key was handed over. As the caller departed it was noticed that he kept prodding the floor with his cane as he walked. But his gait was almost as brisk and as straight as though he had no affliction whatever. This was remarked as he left the office.

He returned a half hour later with a step as quick as ever and with business in every motion. "I like the house," he said, as he handed over the key, "but there is considerable repairing to be done. The paint should be renewed. The front bedroom and dining room are sadly in need of repapering," and so he went on until he had enumerated a half dozen things that were necessary to be done.

It afterward transpired that he had acquired all his knowledge simply by the sense of touch. His examination had been as thorough as though he had had the use of two good eyes. It was really a remarkable performance.—Philadelphia Call.

Long Talks. Parliamentarians and orators in general claim that no man could talk coherently on a single subject for more than six hours, yet hundreds of cases to the contrary could be cited. When De Cosmos defended the settlers' land bill in the lower house of the British Columbian parliament, he talked continually for 26 hours. The act conferring the property of De Cosmos' constituents had to be passed by noon of a certain day; De Cosmos was the only defender. He took the floor at 9:55 o'clock the day previous to the date when the law would become a dead letter and kept it until 12:05 the following day. It is said that his tongue and lips were cracked in hundreds of places and his shirt front covered with blood. A speech 11 hours longer than the British Columbian's famous argument was delivered in the Roumanian chamber of deputies in 1887. It was on the occasion of the impeachment of ex-Minister Bratiano, the leading deputy supporting the articles of impeachment talking continuously for 37 hours.—Exchange.

Abandonment of Cronstadt. The harbor of Cronstadt in Russia is to be closed to merchant vessels after 1895, and a new harbor will be opened along a maritime canal just below St. Petersburg. This harbor will be 25 feet deep, cost 1,000,000 rubles, and be the central point for the unloading of coal and the loading of grain and other articles of export. The department of public works is also considering the advisability of constructing a tunnel under the Neva like that under the Thames in London, but built in four stories. This abandonment of Cronstadt is of especial interest, for it was Peter the Great who established and indeed created it for the port of St. Petersburg.—Springfield Republican.

Science of Divine Providence. Not a great while ago a learned Ignoramus delivered a sermon on "The Science of Divine Providence." "Sir," said a genuine student, at the close, "will you not favor us with a lecture on 'The Faith of Geometry?'"—Christian Advocate.

Cured of Scrofula

The People will have Hood's

Mr. Dorman's Experience "My boy, now 9 years old, had Scrofula in one eye from the time he was a baby; discharging all the time. Of late we have been giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it has done all that medicine can do. The Scrofula has disappeared, and his eye is healed up and well."

Hood's Cures

fully believe Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine in the market. I keep a general store, and it is not a trick to sell Hood's Sarsaparilla for the people will have it. I sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than all other medicines together and the store would not be complete without it. My wife has also been entirely cured of Scrofula by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I am heartily thankful for what it has done for us." JOHN DORMAN, Shy Beaver, Pa.

Union Party of the Hawaiian Islands

For the promotion of the best interests of the people of all the Hawaiian Islands and for the organization of a party having only this object in view, the following is adopted as a declaration of the principles upon which the organization to be known as the "American Union Party" is to be established, and upon this platform we invite the co-operation of every friend of good government.

1st. REPRESENTATIVE GOVERNMENT.—The American Union Party is unalterably opposed to any form of monarchical government in the Hawaiian Islands, and declares its full allegiance to the Provisional Government, endorsing the proposal for a constitutional convention looking to the extension of popular representation in the Government.

2d. POLITICAL UNION.—We declare our leading principles to be the accomplishment of a political Union with the United States of America and the maintenance of a stable and honest Government.

3d. PUBLIC LANDS.—We favor such legislation as will promote the occupancy of all public lands, including those heretofore known as "crown lands," by small holders, and foster the development of varied industries, believing it to be of vital importance that "many acres" should be for "many men."

4th. CITIZENS' RIGHTS.—We declare that all citizens are equal before the law, and we are opposed to monopolies or privileged classes, favoring participation in the Government by every loyal citizen and declare for a liberal suffrage law that will, first of all, guarantee a vote to every man who rendered satisfactory service in the military or police departments of the Provisional Government.

5th. IMMIGRATION.—The evils of Asiatic immigration are so apparent that we declare in favor of its prohibition by positive and prudent methods, declaring in favor of such American, Portuguese or other European immigration as shall supply the necessary labor and furnish the country with permanent settlers.

6th. PUBLIC WORKS.—We favor the immediate establishment of a comprehensive system of public improvements that shall be of permanent value to the country and afford needed employment to the laboring classes, but we declare against importation of labor and material of any kind whatsoever for use on public works which can be obtained in the home market, and materials which must be obtained through local dealers in open competition.

7th. PUBLIC OFFICES.—We hold that no person should occupy any position of trust or profit under the Government who is not loyal to the same.

8th. PRISON LABOR.—We oppose the employment of prison labor in any mechanical pursuits.

9th. TAX SYSTEM.—We favor a revision of the tax system whereby all property, improved and unimproved, shall be taxed on an equitable basis.

10th. LABOR.—We declare that in the Constitution and in legislation thereafter the rights of the wage earner should be fully considered.

11th. EDUCATION.—We favor the enlargement of the scope of the free school system to the end that a university course may be available to the youth of this country.

12th. TELEGRAPHIC LINES.—We favor the establishment of an inter-island as well as a foreign cable system.
