

J. T. WATERHOUSE.

This week we cater to the people and supply their needs. You know what our prices are on ordinary occasions; this week it will be an extraordinary one, and prices in some instances are cut in two. We have the goods and more are to come --we want room more than we do money-- you want the goods.

We have a big stock of heavy felt saddle cloths, especially adapted for gentlemen's saddle horses. Brown dress linen in extra widths. Pillow linen 40 and 50 inch-wide. Oriental lace in cream and white. Maltese lace and insertion, assorted widths. Hawaiian flags from 18 inches to 24 feet long. Pearl buttons for white coats and vests. These have the shank attachment and are removable.

A large stock of extra size traveling shawls, admirably suited to inter-island journeys and volcano trips. State room and overland trunks in endless variety. Chiffon in all shades, mull; fine woolen and cotton blankets. White brocade silk. Brown linen holland. Stair linen, made especially for covering hall or stair carpet.

We will make a run on these goods for one week-- they are the "needs" of many people.

WANTED TO STAY

Mrs. Anna Gertz Refused to Vacate Premises.

Deputy Marshal Hitchcock Had an Interesting Time--Unfortunate Woman Given a House.

Deputy Marshal Hitchcock had his hands full when he went out to Kawaiahaio Lane yesterday morning with a writ of possession and told Mrs. Anna Gertz she must vacate the premises occupied by her for many months.

It will be remembered that the place was purchased at auction by Mrs. F. J. Forbes some time ago. This, however, was not Mr. Hitchcock's first visit to the place. He went out Wednesday and told the lady in question that she must vacate on the following day. This caused a tempest and Mrs. Gertz after calling every Government official every pet name she had learned since her childhood, ended by saying that she would remain in the house and no one could make her vacate. The Deputy Marshal walked away.

Yesterday morning, he walked back again but this time it was with an eye to business and with assistants. The lady was again asked if she intended to vacate and again came the answer in the negative. With this she said she would go inside and tie up the bundles. A sudden movement and a blank door stared the Deputy Marshal in the face. The door opened by an impetus from the outside, and Mrs. Gertz faced the law. The Deputy Marshal held out the writ, which the lady grabbed and tore into pieces. She had no time to trample the bits under her feet, for she was gently lifted into the air and deposited on the porch in the outside bracing air.

Officer Espinda led her out into the street while the Deputy Marshal and his assistants tied up the bundles and placed them outside for the drays to remove. In the meanwhile Mrs. Gertz took a walk toward the sea. One of her children cried out: "Please, do not let mamma go down toward the sea. She will jump in." The police officer saw that she took the opposite direction, walking into the Executive building yard, she was about to go into the building proper when the officer who had followed, again stopped her.

After this Mrs. Gertz quieted down and was taken to the police station from whence she was released shortly afterwards. In the meantime she became quite calm and talked sensibly. Judge Carter took pity on the unfortunate woman and went personally to the German Consul and members of the German Benevolent Society, with the result that a house on Hahaione street, near the home of Robert Parker, was secured for her and her family, where she will remain temporarily or until it can be found definitely what can be done.

SHARKEY'S RECORD.

His First Six Contests Came Off in Honolulu.

Jack Langley, British marine, Honolulu, April, 1894, eight rounds.

"Rough" Thompson, champion British Navy, Honolulu, May, 1894, three rounds.

"Rough" Thompson, champion British Navy, Honolulu, May, 1894, one round.

Nick Burley, professional pugilist, Honolulu, June, 1894, eight rounds.

George Washington, professional pugilist, Honolulu, July, 1894, two rounds.

Billy Tate, American marine, Honolulu, July, 1894, four rounds.

"Sailor" Brown, professional pugilist, Vallejo, Cal., August, 1894, two rounds.

Nick Mulvihill, professional pugilist, San Francisco, August, 1894, 20 rounds.

During 1895 Sharkey met and defeated a score of heavy-weights in and around San Francisco, and when Joe Choyinski returned to the Coast, an eight-round contest was arranged between them. Choyinski was to knock the sailor out in eight rounds. He failed, and Sharkey was awarded the decision. He next met and defeated Jim Williams, the champion of Utah, in quick order.

Jim Corbett, visiting San Francisco last May, was a sailor man's prowess with his hands, and agreed to meet him for four rounds. The contest took place on June 28 last, and at the end of the fourth round it was called a draw.

Sharkey is expected to arrive in Honolulu next Tuesday. He has quite a number of friends here, especially among the football men, who will be glad to meet him again.

Is Not a Chinaman.

A week or so ago Ah Sam, not a Chinaman, but a negro with a Chinese name and a good knowledge of the language was arrested for assault and battery on Hulupii, a native of twice his weight. The affair grew out of a drunken brawl in the rear of Engine Co. No. 5, when Ah Sam struck the native with an iron bar.

The case came up in the police court yesterday. Ah Sam, a brother of Ah Sam, was one of the witnesses, and upon taking the stand, Benjamin Zablan, acting as clerk in W. J. Coello's place, and Lee Chong, the Chinese interpreter, stood up at the same time. The latter administered the oath in Chinese and just as he finished, Zablan started to give it in native, for he really did not know what Lee Chong had been about. Just at this moment Ah Sam answered "yes" in Chinese and took the wind out of the sails of Zablan. He refused to speak Hawaiian, although perfectly familiar with the language, but chose to stick to the Chinese. The case of Ah Sam was finished yesterday and defendant was found guilty.
