

To Musical People

"I am so pleased with the Aeolian that I want the very best. Is the Aeolian Grand enough better for me to change the one I have for it? If, in your judgment, the Grand is better, send me the best one you have. I want just the very best possible instrument to get for I have entered a new realm of existence since the Aeolian came, and I hope to influence others to share my pleasure."

"I had a number of my brother clergymen here yesterday, and they were enthusiastic over the music. I have become proficient enough to bring melody out of Wagner, so you can judge of the skill I have reached."

Comment on the above is hardly necessary. The enthusiasm of this gentleman is the rule and not the exception among those who own Aeolians.

Minerva Mirillo.

The new effervescent aperient for the Liver, Blood and Stomach.

Invaluable for persons of sedentary habits.

SOLD EVERYWHERE.

Minerva Mirillo

Is a mild and pleasant, but exceedingly effective aperient, keeping the blood pure, regulating the liver, clearing the complexion, removing gouty matter from the system, and generally warding off disease. Made from, and containing all the valuable properties of, ripe fruit. Prized by travelers, seafaring men, and residents in hot climates. A sure preventive of diarrhoea, and a delightful invigorator of the constitution. When used simply as an effervescent beverage, it has most salutary results. Valuable for all persons of sedentary habits, removing depression and head affections, and generally bracing up the nervous system.

A QUEEN CALLED BY AUTHORITY.

willingly employed in the same direction and so was her purse ever generously open to meet the needs of the worthy. Her moral plane was a high and exalted and comprehensive level and her constant aim was to have exemplified in the orders of the days and the comings and goings of all people of the nation the national motto. She practiced and encouraged Christian worship and observances and her charity was boundless and sensible. She was one of those rarest of women, who endeared herself to all other women. She deserved this, for she felt that the women of the land could not have too much done for them. Her mind evolved and her largess made possible the Kapiolani Maternity Home, one of the most useful institutions of the Islands. As the consort of the late King Kalakaua, Kapiolani was continuously happy and agreeable. She was a shining light of the court and a most harmonious, honest and well balanced political factor. There were complications and intrigues incidental to the throne atmosphere in a small country. But no matter what the situation, no matter what the charges or counter charges, no matter how strained the relations of factions, persons or parties, Kapiolani was always free and clear. Whatever influence she brought to bear in the field of the polity of the nation, the weight of it was for respectability and morality and for stepping from forlorn conditions to positions of hope and in the direction of the plannings of the best aspirations within the breasts of true men and women. At the coronation, in the month of February, 1883, Kapiolani was a notable and most creditable figure. She, by her correct bearing and her exhibitions of taste and her intelligent appreciation of all that was transpiring challenged the admiration of all classes. Kapiolani was an ornament to the royal household. Through her whole life she was equal to any development of circumstances, showing at times a marvelous strength of intellect and a grasp of affairs that well qualified her for her high station. In the social circle she was always courtly and gracious, an adornment to the finer gatherings and entirely at home in any assemblage.

THE NAME.

The late Queen Dowager was named for the aili who is known as the breaker of tabus against women, and whose invasion of the domain of Pele is thus described in Alexander's history. "Kapiolani, daughter of the great chief, Keawe-mauhihi, of Hilo, was one of the noblest characters of her time. Her husband, Naihe, called the national orator, was the son of Keawe-ahelu, of Kaawaloa, where they generally resided.

"Though at one time intemperate and dissolute, Kapiolani became an example to her countrywomen of virtue and refinement, and excelled them all in the readiness with which she adopted civilized habits and sentiments. "In December 1824 she determined to break the spell of the belief in Pele, the dread goddess of the volcano. In spite of the strenuous opposition of her friends, and even of her husband, she made a journey of about 150 miles, mostly on foot, from Kealakekua to Hilo, visiting the great crater of Kilauea on her way, in order to defy the wrath of Pele, and to prove that no such thing ever existed.

"On approaching the volcano, she met the priestess of Pele, who warned her not to go near the crater, and predicted her death if she violated the tabus of the goddess. 'Who are you?' demanded Kapiolani. 'One in whom the goddess dwells,' she replied. In answer to a pretended letter of Pele, Kapiolani quoted passages from the Scriptures, setting forth the character and power of the true God, until the priestess was silenced and confessed that Ke Akua, the deity, had left her. Kapiolani then went forward to the crater, where she was much surprised to find Mr. Goodrich, who had come from Hilo to meet her. 'Mr. Ruggles, having been for six months without shoes, was unable to come.' On the eastern brink of the crater a hut was built for her, in which she spent the night.

The next morning she and her company of about eighty persons descended over 500 feet to the 'Black Ledge.' There, in full view of the grand and terrific action of the inner crater, she ate the berries consecrated to Pele, and threw stones into the burning lake, saying: 'Jehovah is my God. He kindled these fires. I fear not Pele. If I perish by her anger then you may fear Pele; but if I trust in Jehovah and He preserve me when breaking her tabus, then you must fear and serve Him alone. ....' They then united in singing a hymn of praise to the true God, and knelt in adoration to the Creator and Governor of the universe.

Water at McBryde.

News was brought yesterday from Kauai that artesian well boring at McBryde plantation has turned out successfully and sooner than had been expected. Advice are to Mr. Dillingham and others heavily interested. The boring is on new land for cane. At a depth of 180 feet below sea level there has been touched a great reservoir. The flow is 12 feet above sea level and the water is of first quality in every way. A test was made for salt at once and not a trace found.

The McBryde company, by vote of the directors, has set aside the famous rich Lawai valley to go to settlers in fee in holdings of about an acre each. The idea is that these people will work for the company. They will be given land and houses on most liberal terms. It is finally settled that Mr. Conant is to be manager of McBryde plantation.

Freight Clerk Frank C. Poor is acting pursuer of the Kinau. Pursuer and Director Geo. C. Beckley is remaining over a trip in Hilo to attend to important business interests of his company at that end of the line.

THE RECENT CYCLONE

At Kirksville, Mo., dropped a KIMBALL PIANO

Through the roof of a house, after carrying it 1600 feet, landing it almost totally uninjured, while all the buildings in the vicinity were completely demolished. This clearly shows the solidity of construction of those Elegant Instruments. We have no cyclones to drop Pianos here, but have dropped the instruments to $100 per month so that any family of moderate means can own one of our KIMBALL or KROEGER Pianos.
