JAPANESE EMIGRANTS

Why the Bars Were Put Up High.

THE DECREE EXPLAINED

More About a Transaction Which Deeply Interests the Planters of These Islands.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—The Japanese Government has informed the Treasury Department through its legation here that it has issued an order restricting emigration to the United States which will practically be prohibitive.

While in the Pacific Coast States in recent political conventions vigorous protests in the form of resolutions have been adopted against allowing such numbers of Japanese to come into this country, the Administration has nowhere been blamed for lack of vigilance.

The Japanese Government having been informed of the feeling which the recent influx of Japanese has created in certain parts of the United States, promptly recognized the harm which this prejudice against Japan and the better classes of Japanese would do, and took such steps as were necessary to settle the matter.

The order has gone into effect and immediately upon its promulgation, a special meeting of the Governors of the prefectures in Japan was called.

It will be very easy to effect a settlement of the Japanese immigration question. In fact, this new order practically prohibits emigration to the United States from Japan.

It recognizes the fact also that the class of objectionable people who have been coming here are taken for the most part, not from the prosperous country, but from the city slums.

working a systematic scheme of some sort for inducing ignorant Japanese to embark for this country.

"The Japanese Government would make a decided protest against any legislation prohibiting immigration from that country on the part of the United States, as the treaty is very specific in regard to the matter, and I think that its co-operation to help this Government to carry out the wishes of the American people would be construed as a very friendly act and it is intended as such."

A LIE, SAYS SENATOR HOAR.

He Denies That He Has Been in Correspondence With Aguinaldo.

BOSTON, June 29.—Senator George F. Hoar refutes the statement of Buencamino, the Secretary of the Philippine Government, that he has been in secret correspondence with Aguinaldo.

"It is a lie, an infernal lie! The only correspondence I ever had with a Filipino was while I was in London. This correspondence was confined to a request and a refusal. Some Filipino was living in London at the time, expressed a desire to call upon me. Their letter was courteous and my answer was in the same vein. I told them that under the circumstances I did not consider that it would be proper for citizens of the two countries to indulge in any special intercourse whatsoever. I declined to receive them."

GROWTH OF HONOLULU.

Delegate Castlego, Philadelphia Tells of the Prosperity of Hawaii.

BOSTON, June 29.—The Hon. William R. Castlego, a delegate to the Republican National Convention, is in Boston. He says the people are gratified with the recent Government bill and that there is a remarkable increase in population.

B Company's Smoker.

The "smoker" given by the members of B Company, First Regiment N. G. H., in their room at the armory last evening, was well attended and was voted a huge success.

THE STEAMSHIP TICKET TAX IS A MOST INEQUITABLE MEASURE

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The promulgation on Tuesday of an internal revenue ruling on the steamship ticket tax question, and its revocation the next day, has been the subject of much inquiry at the treasury.

It appears that the attention of the treasury authorities was brought yesterday to the fact that the new ruling had gone out, by a protest from some of the great steamship owners, who declared that they crowded upon the alleged action of the agents who had been collecting separate taxes and paying a heavy one on a group of passengers, and that any agent found playing this trick would be summarily discharged.

An Impressive Opening Performance of the Most Famous of Biblical Dramas.

OBERRAMMERSAU, May 28.—It is naturally supposed that the World's Exposition at Paris is the means of all traveling Americans this summer. It is to

CHARACTERS IN THE PASSION PLAY.

This year's production of the Passion Play, at Oberrammersau, introduces some new representatives of principal characters. The part of Christ is taken by Anton Lang, who is peculiarly fitted for it because of his striking resemblance to the picture of the Savior.

to destroy Christ. Dathan approaches Judas and bribes him with priests' money to betray where Christ will pass the night. This leads up to the arrest, trial and crucifixion.

There is no need to do more than mention the history of this decennial event which marks the landmarks in the lives of these simple Bavarian peasants. As far back as the twelfth century a Passion play had been performed here, but the wars of the sixteenth century put an end to the performances.

The play commenced yesterday with Christ's entry into Jerusalem. From the back of the stage the "folk" came slowly, waving branches, chanting a march chorale, one of the most successful pieces in the Passion music.

mergau remained untouched. A vigorous quarantine against the outer world kept it safe until one Casper Schuebler, who had been working in a plague-stricken village nearby, returned to see his wife and little ones. In two days he was dead, and before a month was over eighty-four of the villagers had perished.

The author of the present version was the parish priest Dalsenberger, who died about twenty years ago at the age of 83. He stripped the play of everything ignominious or farcical, cutting out entirely the part of the Devil, who, up till then, as in all miracle plays, played the comedy role, exciting much hilarity as he tore open the bowels of the suicide Judas and produced therefrom strings of sausages.

The framework of two buildings which are being constructed in the old district of Chinatown has caused considerable discussion among builders and property owners.

One building on Queen near Kekaulike street belongs to the City Mill Company, whose plant was utterly destroyed by the fire of January 20. The other has been reared at the corner of Beretania and River streets, the permit for which was issued to William Sawidge.

Taking into consideration the fact that operations had almost been stalled in commencing the erection of a new Pantheon block, an Advertiser reporter questioned Dr. Pratt, city sanitary officer of the Board of Health, under whose direction the permits are authorized or not, as the case may be.

This agreement, which is attached to every building permit issued by the office of the Superintendent of Public Works, reads as follows:

In consideration of the granting of this permit to erect a building, I hereby agree to carry out the provisions made in the quarantine notice published May 15, 1900, which reads: "That no building erected upon such premises shall be occupied until the sewerage system is in working order in such district and the buildings are properly connected with same and further that no cesspools shall be excavated or used upon such premises."

No permit will be granted unless the builder, owner or whosoever takes out the permit. This will effectively shut off any attempt to make living quarters upon the once infected soil of Chinatown, inasmuch as the Board of Health is yet strongly opposed to the upheaval of the earth, fearing that it will be the cause of the reappearance of the disease.

Builders on Infected Soil Cannot Occupy Houses Till System Completed.

The framework of two buildings which are being constructed in the old district of Chinatown has caused considerable discussion among builders and property owners. Especially is this true in view of the Board of Health having given out an ultimatum in regard to new buildings erected on former infected areas where the new sewerage system has not been put in.
