Liquor Seller Ottman Released by Judge Humphreys--Pretty Mess May Follow.

W. C. J. Ottman, the Waikiki resort keeper who was fined $500 and sentenced to three months' imprisonment by Police Judge Wilcox recently for selling liquor without a license, walked out of the Circuit Court yesterday afternoon a free man. He owes his freedom to a ruling on the part of Judge Humphreys on a motion by Frederick W. Hankey, Ottman's attorney, for his client's discharge on account of error in the manner of his indictment. The ruling may result in the striking from the court docket of a large number of cases, hence the ruling is somewhat far reaching in its effects.

Mr. Hankey stated to the court that he had ascertained that in the lower court no complaint had been filed against his client, that the charge against him and his name were simply read from a book, and that a document was read wherein it was stated that the Deputy Sheriff had "reason to believe" that Ottman had been guilty of selling liquor without a license.

This, Mr. Hankey contended, did not amount to a complaint, as according to the statutes each man who is charged with an offense must be so charged in a written complaint wherein the offense is clearly and unmistakably set forth. In the present case the prosecution wished to file a new complaint against the defendant, but Mr. Hankey claimed that the Circuit Court had no jurisdiction of the case whatever, for the lower court had had no jurisdiction, no formal complaint having been filed in it.

Judge Humphreys consulted the statute for a moment and then ruled that the defendant was entitled to a discharge on the grounds mentioned by his counsel, and Mr. Ottman went out of the court room feeling better than he has for some days; than he has since he received that heavy fine with the prospect of going to the penitentiary added to it.

There is to be further plitika before the Ottman case is finished, so Mr. Hankey asserts. He has another card up his sleeve which he proposes to use if his client is rearrested, as will undoubtedly be the case. He states that the police judge has no authority to send any prisoner to the penitentiary for any offense whatever.

"The constitution expressly states," said Mr. Hankey yesterday afternoon, "that no man shall be found guilty of an infamous crime unless he be present or indicted by a grand jury. Now there are two kinds of infamous crimes, one of which is in its nature infamous, and one which lays the accused liable to punishment that will carry infamy with it, such as confinement in a penitentiary, being compelled to wear convict garb and being subject to such rules as exist in the Oahu penitentiary. My client is certainly not guilty of an infamous crime, as defined by the statutes, and yet he was sentenced to serve three months in the Oahu penitentiary, where he would have been compelled to wear the convict garb and would have been subject to the rules of the prison, which provide even that a man may be flogged for certain violations of prison rules."

"I contend that the police magistrate has no jurisdiction to inflict any such punishment. If we had a jail or other place of temporary confinement it would be different. But we have not, and every man who is sentenced by the police judge is sent to the penitentiary. This is contrary to the constitution of the United States, and I contend that he has no authority to do so."

Many of the leading members of the local bar have looked up the matter since it was sprung by Mr. Hankey, and the consensus of opinion seemed to be yesterday that he was right in his contention, so there will in all likelihood be a host of habeas corpus cases soon presented to the Circuit Courts.

HE WAS TOLD WHERE A MAN LAY DEAD

Officer Lambert of the Orpheum Makes Queer Discovery.

Officer Lambert, who preserves peace at the Orpheum theater, had a somewhat curious experience.

He was busily engaged watching the crowd filing into the theater when a man rushed up, grabbed him by the sleeve and breathlessly told him that he knew where a man lay dead. Lambert thought the man was crazy and told him so, but when he persisted in his story, the officer accompanied him to a lodging house in the vicinity.

Lambert found the door locked and looking through the transom saw a man lying motionless on a bed in the room. He thereupon burst open the door and found that the man, who was a Portuguese, was suffering from an epileptic fit.

A liberal application of cold water soon brought the sufferer to and he informed Lambert that fits with him were a matter of common occurrence. After reading him a homily on the indiscretion of indulging in fits behind locked doors, the officer departed to his duty of supporting the mauka wall of the Orpheum entree.

Another Report on Doan's Backache Kidney Pills.

If your poor back still aches,
If you toss all night racked in pain,
If you cannot bend over or straighten up,
Depend upon it, it's your kidneys.
And kidney disorder rarely leaves of its own accord.
Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are a good kidney medicine.

They cure kidney complaints.
This is how they fulfilled it with a Honolulu citizen:

Mr. A. J. Cahill, of Fort street, this city, night watchman in the employ of Messrs. T. H. Davies & Co., Ltd., says: "Whilst a young man I was a sailor and at one time worked for the Inter Island service. I was, however, obliged to give up sea life on account of severe suffering from my back and kidneys. For this I had tried various remedies, but the one which restored me to health was Doan's Backache Kidney Pills—procured at Hollister's Drug Store. They relieved me completely after years of suffering. If any one desires further particulars he may apply to me. I am to be found at Van Dorn's Ship Chandlery, Fort street."

You should get the same medicine which helped Mr. Cahill. See that the full name DOAN'S BACKACHE KIDNEY PILLS is on the wrapper and refuse any imitation.
Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are sold by all chemists and storekeepers at 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50, or will be mailed on receipt of price by the Hollister Drug Co., Honolulu, wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

HOW IT BEGAN

The Early History of Kawaiahao.

Way the Church Gained Over the Natives to Christianity in the Twenties.

The following is in part the sermon preached Sunday evening by Rev. W. D. Westervelt of Kawaiahao Church, on the beginnings of that institution:

"When the first of the twelve bands of American missionaries came to Honolulu in 1820, regular Sabbath services were started at once. These were held sometimes in the open air, and sometimes in the most available grass houses. The church sacraments were at once instituted and regularly observed by the mission band. In fact, there was an organized church from the beginning. This had been transplanted from Boston to Honolulu. On the 15th of October, 1819, the organization of the Mission Church for the Hawaiian Islands was perfected in Park Street Church, Boston, and was composed of the missionaries who were soon to set sail on the brig Thaddeus for the unknown experiences of the far away Sandwich Islands. The members of this church were Messrs. Bingham and Thurston, ministers; Dr. Hoiman, physician; Whitney, Ruggies, Loomis and Chamberlain, teachers, and their wives. Five children in the Chamberlain family, and three natives, Thomas Hopu, William Kanui and George Humehume, son of Kaunuaui, the king of Kauai, were also a part of this missionary force.

This missionary church, carried to Honolulu, became the foundation upon which the Kawaiahao Church was built in 1825. After nearly five years' instruction, an association of twelve or fifteen native females was formed in January, 1825, for the purpose of guarding and saving the native women. Among them was Queen Namahana. About a month later a number of serious men putting off their heathen habits united in a similar association for improvement. Kalanimoku was one of the leaders in this movement. In 1829 these associations numbered about 1,500 females and 1,100 males in Honolulu alone, with branches established on the other islands.

"In the early part of the year 1825 a company of perhaps a hundred Hawaiians desired baptism. Many of these were not considered sufficiently instructed to be given the responsible position of church members before the eyes of such a population of foreigners as was then found in Honolulu. It was feared that they would not be steadfast. However, a small number were accepted for an additional six months probation. They were examined for probation in June and on December 5, 1825, the first Sabbath of December, they were baptized and received into church membership, thus forming the first church organized in the Hawaiian Islands. The original papers of this organization, with the signatures of these first members are now to be seen in the collection of Kawaiahao Church papers, held by Rev. H. H. Parker.

"Most of these first members were of the very high chief class, although some of them were noble men from the common people. The list was as follows: Kaahumanu (queen), Kalanimoku (governor), Namahana (queen), sister of Kaahumanu; Lounui, Kapule, Kaku, Kauliahoue and Richard Kaulaia. Kapulani, the queen who defied the goddess Pele on the brink of the great crater, was received a few weeks later at Kaawaloa, and Kalakua (queen) and sister of Kaahumanu, was received at Lahaina, Maui. Kaahumanu, Namahana and Kalakua, the three were all queens of Kamehameha I. Kaahumanu was regent of the Islands, and Kalakua was governor of Maui. This was the beginning of Kawaiahao Church seventy-five years ago."

"DEAR HEART, WHERE HAST THOU WANDERED?"

Dear heart, where hast thou wandered?
What happier regions stay
Thy lingering feet, whose coming changed
My winter into May?
Now all our slopes are burgeoned
In summer's lavish mood,
And deep within the grove the thrush
Has belted the solitude.
The laurels set the hillside
With many a spectral light;
Seen through the dusk, they stand like
Nymphs,
Expectantly in flight.
But somehow thou dost linger,
Implacable, afar,
Though high within the twilight sky
Gleams cold our trysting-star.

The brooks we loved still murmur,
Though now through dells of gloom;
The very hills have lost with thee
Their moiety of bloom.

Still, each leaf whispers of thee;
In every path once trod
By thy dear feet, thy spirit yet
Speaks from remembering sod.
—L. Frank Tooker in the Century Magazine.

An Alsatian newspaper reports that near Sennheim the other day several trains were delayed and one train had to be divided into two sections because the tracks had been made slippery by thousands of crushed centipedes.

Weak Lungs

When your throat and lungs are perfectly healthy you needn't worry about the germs of consumption. They don't attack healthy people. It's the weak, debilitated, inflamed membranes that are first affected. Hard coughs and colds weaken your throat and lungs and make consumption more easy.
If your lungs are weak

Scott's Emulsion

is the best remedy you can take. It soothes and heals and gives tone and strength to these delicate membranes. In this way you can prevent consumption. And you can cure it also if you haven't had it too long. Keep taking it until your lungs are strong and your weight restored.
