THE WIRELESS TELEGRAPH SYSTEM IS NOT YET READY

WIRELESS telegraphic communication between the Islands of Oahu and Molokai is now an actual fact, and the manager of the system in these Islands, F. J. Cross, and his corps of experts are busily engaged in completing the system between the Islands of Hawaii, Maui, Molokai and Oahu. Kauai will be considered later, and Little Lanai will be left out altogether, according to the present plans.

The pole which was formerly situated at Kaimuki on this Island, has been removed to Waiālae, some distance down the hill and, as mentioned above, the connection between Molokai and this Island is now perfect.

It is not yet known when the whole system will be in perfect working order, it is impossible for anybody to say anything definite in this regard as yet. There is much that has to be done. There is one thing, however, of which the directors of the company feel positive, and that is that the system will be an entire success once it is in operation, and that it will be a paying affair.

Manager Cross was asked concerning the probable cost of sending a message by wireless telegraph from this to any of the other Islands when the system is in operation.

"You can send a message from this Island to Molokai now, if you like," said Mr. Cross. "I can't say exactly what it would cost, for the directors have not yet decided on any rate, but it would not be more than ten cents per word."

Mr. Cross was asked if he thought wireless telegraphy would be so perfected that it would be possible to telegraph from San Francisco to Honolulu before it would be possible to accomplish the laying of the cable.

"Considering the rapid progress which has already been made in the science of wireless telegraphy," answered Mr. Cross, "such a thing would not be at all impossible, notwithstanding the skepticism which exists in regard to wireless telegraphy. In two or three years, in my opinion, people will be wondering how they ever got along without the system. There is one thing absolutely certain, and that is that the matter is past the experimental stage, and we are satisfied that in a very short time it will be the message-sending system of the world."

HOLD UP ON IRON MOUNTAIN

Bandits Stop the Cannon Ball Express and Get Little.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 21.—News was received here tonight of the holding-up of the Iron Mountain cannon-ball express train, bound north, at Gifford, Ark., a few miles this side of Malvern Junction. The hold-up occurred at 7:29 o'clock and was participated in by half a dozen men.

The bandits had built a huge bonfire on the track, undoubtedly figuring that it would cause the engineer to bring the train to a standstill. He, however, fearing an attempted robbery, opened the throttle and sought to push through the obstruction. Several ties of which the fire was made, caught in the pilot and soon brought the train to a stop. Instantly three masked men ordered the engineer and firemen to leave the engine at once. Another robber went to the side of the large safe and ordered the conductor and ordered the four robbers were standing guard and occasionally firing a shot to frighten the passengers, their two accomplices entered the express car and ordered Messenger Samuel R. Avery to "step aside or get to the other corner."

The large safe was charged five times with dynamite, each explosion making a terrific noise and tearing off portions of the car. A large hole was bored into the door of the safe, but an entrance could not be effected.

The robbers finally announced that they had no more dynamite and then they gave up the task of forcing open the door.

Then, picking up the local express box and several packages, they ran to their horses, which had been hitched near by, and rode rapidly away. No attempt was made to disturb or molest the passengers, except for an occasional shot at an inquisitive passenger who peered out of a car window.

The Sheriff of Hot Springs county organized a posse and started at once in pursuit of the robbers. The train crew say the bandits are amateurs, as they acted at their work in a bungling fashion. All wore masks.

The train men say the small box carried off by the robbers contained about $500. It is positively known that the robbers secured several sacks of silver coin containing $50.

HE SAW A GHOST AMID THE COFFINS

Broker Savidge Has a Terrifying Experience at Night

William Savidge, real estate broker, had an experience a few nights since which scared him. Despite his long service on the coroner's jury and his being used to seeing dead men under all circumstances, he had a fright in a room filled with coffins which he will not forget. Darkness had set in when Savidge went for his horse and buggy which are kept in the rear of Williams' undertaking establishment. He had left a robe in the coffin room and had to grope his way through the morgue room to reach it. Cold drops of sweat reached out on Savidge's face, while his eyes were glued to the apparition which had suddenly sprung up before him. Two glowing eyes seemed to be riveted on him. Visions of all the dead bodies he had "inquired" during his long occupancy of the coroner's jury man's job loomed up before him. He was afraid to move. Nothing stirred. The odor of disinfectants which permeated the room gave a ghastly reminder that he was in the place of the dead.

Finally his courage came back to him and he reached into his pocket, found a match, struck it on his trousers and saw a Portuguese helper standing in front of him. Savidge laughed. It did him good, and then he saw how he had been fooled. A crack in the door leading to the office allowed a glint of light to stream through, and striking the Portuguese' eyes squarely had summoned up in Savidge's mind a ghost.

APACHE KID KILLED AT LAST

Mormon Priest Helps to Track and Destroy the Savage.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 22.—A special to the Globe-Democrat from El Paso, Texas, says that President Joseph F. Smith, of the Mormon church, who has arrived there accompanied by O. A. Woodruff and Seymour, after a tour among the Colonias in Mexico, reports the killing of the notorious Apache Kid in the recent Indian raid at Colonia Pacheco. Mr. Woodruff was one of the party that pursued the retreating Indians and assisted at the burial of the Kid. Among those who were apparently the leader and who was now positively identified as the notorious Apache killed, Mr. Woodruff said they will put in an application for the reward offered for him in the United States.
