LIGHT ON LIFE.

Shed in the Police Court Yesterday.

FUN AND PATHOS ARE REVEALED

An Expert Discourses Interestingly on Bottled Beer.

In the Police Court yesterday morning Shikushigay was charged with having committed assault and battery on Mrs. C. M. White, his employer, by thrusting her against a fence with his hands. Complainant testified that on Saturday last she told the man with the curly name to water the plants in her hot house, whereupon he became incensed, and committed the assault. Mrs. White said that never in her life had she seen such an angry man. When she struck the fence the shock to her nerves was so great that she partially lost her senses. The man, she feared, would kill her, and his irate manner towards her caused her to shudder.

Complainant appeared to be very much wrought up on the witness-stand, at times about to the verge of the hysterical.

The prosecuting witness swore that during the trouble defendant kept on saying "money, money money," but stated that she did not know what he meant. Defendant and his wife were paid $7 a week for their labors. "What had language did he use?" queried Attorney Long, who appeared for the defense.

"Well he said 'money, money money,'" was the answer. "I guess you know what that means," Mrs. Hoogs, a neighbor of complainant's, was the next witness. She said that she also had never seen a man in such a rage as defendant was when he crowded Mrs. White against the fence.

"When I went over to see what the trouble was all about, defendant told me to go to a hot place," testified Mrs. Hoogs. "He was flourishing a pair of socks," she added.

"Was there anything in the toes of the socks?" asked His Honor.

Witness didn't think that there was. Mrs. Shikushigay stated that Mrs. White tried to drive her husband away with a broom because he refused to do some hard work. Her husband never laid his hands upon complainant, she said. Defendant testified that he had to work from 4 a. m. until 8 p. m. for $3.50 a week. A child of his, he said, suffered from sore eyes, and he asked for a week's vacation in which to properly care for his baby. On Saturday morning Mrs. White told him to water the plants in the hot-house, but as he had been working hard since 4 o'clock and wanted to take his child down to the doctor's, he refused to obey instructions, at the same time asking for certain wages due him.

Then, witness testified, Mrs. White told him to get out and tried to drive him away with a broom, saying that she would pay him nothing. On hearing this witness told her that he would go to the police station and enter a complaint. He denied that he struck or in any way molested complainant.

Attorney Long said that Mrs. Hoogs on her own admission was seventy-five yards away when the trouble took place and stated that there was a five-foot fence dividing the grounds of the two houses. He could not see how one woman could have seen the other, seeing that neither of them was much over five feet tall.

"It was a picket fence," explained Judge Wilcox. "and could be easily seen through."

Judge Wilcox said that there was a great difference between the Anglo-Saxon and Oriental standpoints as to an assault on a woman. One showed such an assault to be not a very serious affair, while the other revealed a radically different view of the matter. He imposed a fine of $20 and costs as a lesson to defendant and other employes who might have grievances against their mistresses.

Carl Wildeman was charged with having committed assault and battery on Mrs. H. K. Tripp. It appeared that on Monday night, defendant, while under the influence of liquor and in the company of other boisterous spirits, met complainant on the street, embraced her and pushed her down.

High Sheriff Brown said that had defendant been in his sober senses, he would never have done what he was charged with doing. He stated that defendant was a friend of his and that he hated to have to prosecute him. He was to blame, however, and justice must be meted out.

Complainant stated that she wanted Mr. Wildeman deterred from similar conduct in the future, and added that although an apology had been tendered it was not until after the warrant of arrest had been issued.

"This is one of those unpleasant cases which I hate to have come up," said Judge Wilcox. "Complainant is a woman against whom a word of reproach has never been breathed and is the wife of a most respected citizen. A great hulking policeman stood by and saw the assault committed and when complained to, said, 'Who is she, anyway?' Probably because she was a Hawaiian woman. No arrest was made until a warrant was issued."

"I object to the reputation given the officer," exclaimed the High Sheriff angrily. "It is as bad as the recent incident in the Circuit Court when Warden Henry suffered on the word of a convict."

"Mrs. Tripp is very far removed from a convict," snapped the Judge heatedly as he imposed a fine of $25 and costs. John Powell, charged with malicious injury, was called over the coals for previous failure to appear. His bail had been declared forfeited, but on the appeal of his attorney the case was reopened.

Defendant explained that he had waited for an old woman to call for him. "The Judge may be an old woman," said the Magistrate, "but the old woman you waited for isn't the Judge."

Raphael, charged with having sold liquor without a license, was fined $100 and costs.

Manuel Menise, an informer, delivered expert testimony.

"Do you know what beer is?" asked the prosecution.

"Yes, I been drink beer."

"What is beer?"

"Ranier."

"What does it do?"

"When you put him in a glass, a lot of white things come up."
"What happens when you drink one bottle?"
"You feel good."
"What happens when you drink two bottles?"
"Your head goes round."
"What happens when you drink three bottles?"
"You go to sleep under the table."

When the prosecution tried to open a bottle of "evidence" with its fingers, ten corkscrews were proffered by the legal fraternity present in half that number of seconds.

Witness was handed the bottle to sample, which he did thoroughly and well, stating, when he had emptied the bottle that he had no hesitation whatever in declaring the contents thereof to be beer.

Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth swore to having purchased the liquor at defendant's house in Kakaako.

Other cases disposed of were: William Larsen, cruelty to animals, March 13; ten drunks, $2 and costs; Ah Kwan, gambling, March 13; John de Souza, Noah Kalua, Solomon Keola, Kane, W. Nelson, larceny second degree, March 13; Chang Chong, heedless driving, $5 and costs; John Powell, malicious injury, March 13; H. S. Bailey, untreating, reprimanded and discharged; Man Yok, gambling, $10 and costs; Ko Young, gambling, March 14; Kaahue, rape, March 13; Naaauo, leaving hack unattended, $5 and costs.

SOFT, GLOSSY HAIR.

It Can Only Be Had Where There Is No Dandruff.

Any man or woman who wants soft, glossy hair must be free of dandruff, which causes falling hair. Since it has become known that dandruff is a germ disease the old hair preparations that were mostly scalp irritants have been abandoned and the public, barbers and doctors included have taken to using Newbro's Herpicide, the only hair preparation that kills the dandruff germ. E. Dodd, Dickinson, N. D., says: "Herpicide not only cleanses the scalp from dandruff and prevents the hair's falling out, but promotes a new growth. Herpicide keeps my hair very glossy."
