

JAS. F. MORGAN Auctioneer and Broker, 65 Queen Street, P. O. Box 594. Telephone 72.

"SHRINERS" PILGRIMAGE

(Continued from Page 3.)

They go back to their homes and do more good for Hawaii than all the newspaper advertising could ever accomplish.

"I was down at the wharf with my wife today when the Mariposa sailed for San Francisco. We never before witnessed so pretty and impressive a sight as the scene at the going away of the steamship with a large number of Honoluluans and visitors aboard.

"The music of the band and the lovely custom of giving wreaths of flowers—let's, I believe you call them here—together with the general importance which seems to be attached to the departure of a steamship, interested us very deeply, and left in our minds a memory we will never lose.

"We have visited the Palms—the grandest sight of all: we have visited Moanala; we have dipped in the Waikiki waters; we have experienced the comforts of the Meana Hotel, and we have made it a point to take in all the sights of your City.

"A party of us went down to the Ewa sugar plantation. We followed the manufacture of sugar from the beginning to the end. In places, the unbroken ground; we saw the land made ready to receive the young cane; we saw the young cane growing; we saw it at its full growth; we saw the laborers cutting the cane; we saw the cane taken to the mill; we saw it ground; we saw it boiled, and we saw it shoveled into bags and shipped.

"We went down the railway line and stopped at the Waiwala Hotel. That is a charming place, if there ever was one. You have an excellent railway service, better by far than we had expected.

"I am in the lumber business in Michigan, and was very much surprised, in talking with a lumber man here, to find that lumber is as reasonable in price as it is. I cannot explain it.

"It shall always be our hope to some day return to Honolulu. To enter once into the Paradise of the Pacific is to always want to come again."

Mr. J. J. Fisher, the baritone of the East, whose voice has gone out all over the earth in the records of gramophones, phonographs and other reproducing devices, expresses himself as being much surprised with conditions, socially, commercially and in many other ways, in Honolulu.

"I had no idea you were so up-to-date," said he. "We did not expect to find so many nor such an excellent class of white people here, and have been treated to several surprises all around. Along with your automobiles, electric lights, telephones and other modern conveniences, I see you have got the Edison sound-reproducing machines, and yesterday, while walking down the street I heard my own voice turned loose from a phonograph. I went in and found that my voice had preceded me by some five or six years. My voice is a great traveler, you know, and it keeps me busy keeping up with it. I did not know it had reached Honolulu. Indeed, this is a great little City, and I am sure pleasant memories will linger long with all of us who have left the delightful Islands behind."

"Honolulu? It is a veritable Eden. You can say anything you like in the praise of these beautiful Islands and I will say you have not said half enough. I think those who live here are not fully alive to the grandeur and beauties of the place; they all take it so calmly and accept the daily wonders of nature as the ordinary. It is all so new and fresh with us that we cannot say enough. Indeed, we are pleased more than we can say."—Mrs. C. B. Quigley, Grand Rapids, Mich.

"I have traveled far, and have never found so perfect a combination of all things beautiful and harmonious anywhere I have been. It is all splendid beyond comparison."—Miss Crawford, Flint, Mich.

"There is no city in the United States of the size of Honolulu so cosmopolitan, and with so great a present and future, commercial speaking. I have been greatly surprised in this City. I had no idea of finding so excellent a class of people, so much observance of fashion, such a band as the Hawaiian band, such schools, such churches. It will give us all much food for thought. I think Honolulu has a great business future, there is no doubt about it. Ten years hence there will be a new Honolulu. Its growth is bound to be rapid and steady."—Thomas E. Garrett, Grand Rapids, Mich.

"Honolulu is a little Chicago. Compared to its size and population, there is no city in the entire United States so active commercially or its equal in commercial possibilities."—John Mowat, Grand Rapids, Mich.

"Am I pleased with Honolulu? Well, I should say so! It's more like heaven than any place I have struck for a long time. Three weeks ago I came out of the snow in Michigan, and here I am in balmy climes and under sunny skies. The contrast is one that I appreciate. Honolulu is certainly all right."—C. L. Sherwood, Dowagiac, Michigan.

"There are just two places on this earth to live in—Redlands, California, and Honolulu. Of the two, Honolulu has my preference. Its delightful climate, the character of its people, its surroundings, the beauty of its scenery—cannot begin to name the attractions of the place. As to scenery, was the other day up to the Palms, and I have this to say: Though I have traveled much and viewed the finest scenery of the world, I have never seen anything to excel the beauty of the Palms. There is only one thing I don't like, and that is, perhaps, the matter of sentiment—I don't like the rapidity of civilization as manifested here; it grates on one's nerves to see the encroachments of modern civilization in Hawaii. The feast, or luau, which I attended yesterday, was a great novelty to me, one of the greatest novelties I have ever met with; yet there was that something which spoiled it all—the management of the white man, and the touch of civilization. These things, of course, must be the great march of civilization and the evidence of the white man's burden, but the survival of the fittest is ever a disagreeable thing to observe. Aside from this, as I said before, Honolulu is a paradise, and for tourists it is the ideal spot of the earth."—Dr. T. A. Wagner, Indianapolis.

"I was agreeably surprised. I had pictured it all so differently. I am ashamed to have thought so shabbily of so magnificent a City. Now that I have enjoyed its beauties and the charm of its peaceful atmosphere, I shall be long and long in its praises."—Mrs. J. Dickinson, Chicago.

"I have indeed found a treasure store in your Islands. I am much interested in your Islands, and the beautiful foliage of Honolulu's trees are beyond anything I have seen. I am also a tireless collector of curios, and am transported with delight in the offerings of Honolulu. I have brought with me my leaf-pressing apparatus and I shall be very busy so long as we stay."—Mrs. J. F. Moore, New York.

"When Honolulu gets in its electric car line and has a cheap means of transportation, and has some good big buildings, it will be a great City. These things are bound to come with its commercial importance. I am charmed with the climate and the people. However, some arrangements should be made so that a man may have accommodations of liquid refreshments if he so desires, particularly on holidays. Honolulu is too cosmopolitan and too modern to be spoiled by such bounds as there are in this direction. The price of drinks is something unexpected, and the restrictions in this direction are a bar to progress. I want to say something about that road to the Palms. I was up there and it reminds me very much of the splendid roads of Rome and Italy, where I have recently been. It is a magnificently constructed road, and the scenery is splendid. I never saw anything more beautiful."—Fred. Walser, Denver, Col.

"I am delighted with the City. Its nestling little cottages and homes beneath the vines and trees are so charming. I have seen many places that I like. I want an electric railway built, and I want my husband to buy me a beautiful home here."—Mrs. Fred. Walser, Denver.

"I am very favorably impressed with the Islands. Nothing could be more delightful in the nature of climate, conditions, and that counts a great deal with you. Besides, this City has a surprising class of people and is cosmopolitan enough to make one feel like hiding away whatever opinions one may have had of the Islands before visiting the Paradise of the Pacific. I can say no more than my friends have said, though no praise could exaggerate the beauties of the charming place."—J. C. Moore, New York.

"Permit me to echo the sentiments of all my friends. The universal opinion of all visitors must be essentially the same. Honolulu is a beautiful City and the magnificent Island is a fitting setting."—Dr. Barth, Grand Rapids, Mich.

"I wish our visit might be for three months instead of three weeks."—James Ross, Jamestown, N. Y.

"It is hardly necessary for me to say what I think of the Islands; I have enough confidence in their commercial future to have invested in property interests to a considerable extent. I lived in Honolulu for a number of years, but have not visited the Islands for fifteen years. In that time I may say that marvelous changes have taken place, and all for the better."—E. W. Tucker, formerly superintending engineer for Willard's Steamship Company.

"I am enjoying myself thoroughly. Honolulu is certainly the City to do that in. Any praise that one might bestow could only seem lame to those who have visited the little Eden in the middle of the ocean. If we might prolong our visit I am sure there are none among us who would not be delighted."—Benjamin Cramer, Grand Rapids, Mich.

"Two places I have seen since I began this trip that I would like to settle down in forever. One is Redlands, California, and the other Honolulu. Honolulu is even more beautiful and desirable than Redlands."—Dr. Bunting, Easton, Pa.

"I would say I pleased with most? It would be hard to say. Probably I am most pleased with the ladies, regardless of age, race or color. One thing is settled, I have frequently heard people say, 'What are we ever going to do with those Islands anyway?' I can tell them hereafter that the Islands can take care of themselves."—Wm. A. Schrieber, Grand Rapids, Mich.

"We have not found a beggar yet. That is a very strange thing. There haven't been any small boys asking for pennies, and we hear there is only one beggar in town. I am delighted with everything in general and can't begin to particularize. It would take too long."—Mrs. Schrieber, Grand Rapids, Mich.

"I am not saying much but thinking a great deal. This is the most beautiful spot on the earth. There could be no improvement so far as the favors of nature are concerned, and man is keeping pace with the rest of the world here in the Paradise of the Pacific."—G. F. Kuhles.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

"I wish to compliment Honolulu on its hospitality. It is a rare and pleasant thing to meet with such hospitality as is found in this City. I have observed that you have no beggars, and apparently a very small percentage of the 'undesirable' class of people. I had expected differently. In the Bahamas and other islands similarly situated, the traveler is besieged with beggars of all ages and sizes. Absence of mendicants, is a very agreeable feature of your most agreeable City, with which we are all, without exception, charmed and delighted."—C. C. Philbrick, New York.

THE REGALIA WAS GORGEOUS

"Aloha Temple of the Ancient Order of the Mystic Shrine has probably the most gorgeous regalia ever sent out from our factory," states Noble John A. Wolcott of Dowagiac, Michigan.

"It is a very valuable set and condescending that we had but three weeks in which to design, cut and complete the costumes before the caravan was headed across the continent for this beautiful Mecca of yours, I believe we did very well indeed."

Noble Wolcott is the general manager of the J. A. Wolcott Company, of Dowagiac, manufacturers of society and military supplies, and furnishes regalia for every secret organization known in the United States. The firm is in its infancy, but has made itself felt and has entered into competition with older firms in a manner which has carried it along successfully since its inception.

The officers of the manufacturing concern are nearly all with the present caravan and stand high in the Imperial Councils. F. W. Lyle, the president of the company, is also president of a Dowagiac bank and one of Michigan's representative business men. L. E. Wood of the same place is the vice president; Eugene Gilbert, treasurer. Mr. Wolcott, however, carries on the business personally, and is the only active worker among the officers.

The factory employs an average of 185 to 200 persons, and there is very little slackening up of the work from one end of the year to the other. Mr. Wolcott has been engaged in the regalia business for the past sixteen years and formerly traveled for one of the largest houses in the United States. He has had a wide experience in this line of business, which he says is always good.

Not only are the visiting Shriners proud of the regalia which was brought here for Aloha Temple, but the members of the local Temple indicate in many ways that they are tickled to death over their fine costumes. They are made of the finest of silks, satins and Persian fabrics and are thoroughly in accordance with the ritual. Mr. Wolcott designed each costume and blended all the colors. The whole regalia cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $2,500, a pretty good asset for the newest of the temples dedicated to the very ancient Arabic order.

It is only under extraordinary circumstances that the mysterious regalia of the Shriners is exhibited to the vulgar gaze, but Aloha Temple and the visitors were very glad to show off to the populace of Honolulu on the occasion of the Shriners procession, and the rich costumes were admired by all who saw them.

Aloha Temple, now being formally recognized as a portion of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Mystic Shrine, can make its own merriment and conduct its own initiation of novices without outside assistance. It is proposed to have initiations at regular intervals, when six likely looking victims who have obtained the necessary degrees in Masonry will be lured to the fearful ordeal. The number is limited in the desire to save enough novices to furnish fun for some time to come. It is rumored that Prince David and Colonel Sam Parker will be invited to become participants of the next "Ritual of the Rope."

WILLARD E. BROWN. FRANK HALSTEAD HALSTEAD & CO. Stock and Bond Brokers

money advanced on sugar securities. 921 FORT ST. TEL. MAIN 133

Corporation Notices. PIONEER BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION.

THE REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING of the Pioneer Building and Loan Association will be held at the Chamber of Commerce on MONDAY EVENING, April 1, 1901, at 7:30 o'clock. Payments are required in gold.

A. V. GEAR, Secretary. ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

AT THE REGULAR ANNUAL meeting of the stockholders of E. Peck & Co., Ltd., held this day, the following officers and directors were duly elected for the ensuing year:

James L. McLean, President. W. Wolters, Vice President. E. Peck, Treasurer and Manager. C. C. Conradt, Secretary. N. E. Gedge, Auditor.

The above officers constitute the Board of Directors. C. C. CONRADT, Secretary. Honolulu, March 29, 1901. 5317

NOTICE AT A DIRECTORS' MEETING OF the Honolulu Market Co., Ltd., held March 27, 1901, D. H. Davis was appointed manager of the above company, vice L. A. Rostin, resigned.

EDGAR HALSTEAD, President. L. SCHWEITZER, Secretary. 5317

MEETING NOTICE. A SPECIAL MEETING OF THE stockholders of the Pioneer Mill Co., Ltd., will be held at the office of H. Harkfeld & Co., Ltd., on April 6, 1901, at 10 a. m., to consider the matter of an increase of the capital stock and the amendment of the by-laws.

5317 F. KLAMP, Secretary. ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

AT THE ADJOURNED ANNUAL meeting of the stockholders of the Waianae Co., Ltd., held this day, the following officers and directors were duly elected for the ensuing year:

G. N. Wilcox, President. J. O. Carter, Vice President. J. M. Dowsett, Sec. and Treas. Henry Holmes, Auditor.

Directors—G. N. Wilcox, J. M. Dowsett, J. O. Carter. J. M. DOWSETT, Secretary. Honolulu, March 25, 1901. 5315

THE MELROSE, King Street Board and rooms; all modern comforts; electric lights; mosquito proof; a quiet, refined home. King street cars pass the door. Prices moderate. Telephone 381 Blue.

To Lovers of Coffee

Having completed arrangements whereby we are, again, able to roast and grind our Coffee under our personal supervision, we take pleasure in announcing to our Customers, and the Public generally, that we are now able to furnish them with

"May's Coffee" of the high-grade that earned for it the unrivalled popularity it enjoyed.

"IT'S NAME IS A GUARANTEE OF PURITY AND QUALITY." Give it a Trial.

HENRY MAY & CO LIMITED.

TELEPHONES, MAIN 22, 24, 92. P. O. BOX 386.

FOR Harness, Harness Repairing and Carriage Work GO TO Honolulu Stock-Yards Company, Ltd.

... A NOTED COLLECTION OF Oil and Water Color Paintings

Selected With Great Care by WILLIAM MORRIS

The Well-Known Critic Connoisseur ON EXHIBITION

AT THE ART ROOMS OF THE PACIFIC HARDWARE CO. LIMITED. Fort and Merchant Streets.

This Exhibition will be open for about three weeks, COMMENCING SATURDAY, MARCH 3, under the personal supervision of MR. MORRIS.

Sanitary Plumbing AND SEWER CONNECTIONS A SPECIALTY

Cornice and Galvanized Iron Work

AT JOHN NOTT, 85 KING STREET, TEL. BLUE

Received by S. S. Zealandia

NEW GOODS! Shirts, Suspenders, Gents' Underwear, Neckties, a fine assortment, at

K. Isoshin KING STREET, ABOVE BETHEL Next to Castle & Cooke.

Auction Sale HOUSE OLD FURNITURE

ON THURSDAY, APRIL 2, AT 10 O'CLOCK A. M.

At my salesroom, 65 Queen street, I will sell at Public Auction a large assortment of HOUSEHOLD FURNITURE AND FURNISHINGS.

Large mirrors, rugs, Clothing, hats, Silk goods, etc., etc.

JAS. F. MORGAN, AUCTIONEER.

Auction Sale Koa Furniture

ON WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3, AT 10 O'CLOCK A. M.

At my salesroom, 65 Queen street, I will sell at Public Auction some choice pieces of KOA FURNITURE.

A very handsome black walnut bookcase. A handsome wardrobe, etc., etc.

JAS. F. MORGAN, AUCTIONEER.

Auction Sale PALMS AND FERNS

ON WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3, AT 10 O'CLOCK A. M.

At my salesroom, 65 Queen street, I will sell at public auction for account of Mr. S. M. DAMON and Mr. W. M. GIFFARD.

A very large and very choice selection of RARE AND VALUABLE PALMS, FERNS AND HANGING BASKETS, ETC., ETC.

JAS. F. MORGAN, Aucr. AUCTIONEER.

Auction Sale WOODEN BUILDINGS

ON WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3, AT 12 O'CLOCK NOON.

At the premises of M. Reis, 319 Queen street, near Richards street, I will sell at Public Auction

1 good one-story cottage. 1 good two-story cottage. Large two-story barn and stables. 2 store buildings, sheds, etc.

Part of these are covered with corrugated iron. Buildings to be removed within ten days from date of sale.

JAS. F. MORGAN Auctioneer and Broker

65 Queen Street. P. O. Box 594. Telephone 72.