TUESDAY, APRIL 16

The voice was the voice of Wilcox but the hand was the hand of Humphreys.

Somebody has deprived comic opera of a rare treat by not being here to dramatize the Legislature.

Let us hope that Aguinaldo's oath of allegiance to the United States will hold him longer than did his $400,000 oath of allegiance to Spain.

It is entirely safe to say that no more official furniture will be sent to private residences and that what has gone there will come back.

A glimpse at this Legislature gives all the assurance any one needs to have of the necessity, which culminated in 1893, of a change of government here.

The eagerness with which the vealy little Bulletin rushes to the defence of the desk beneficiaries is only matched by the absurdity of the defence made.

The missing witness in the Gill case has arrived at San Francisco, ex. Rosamond. The question of who paid him to go away is still open, a decision-or confession-on that point not having been handed down.

The aggressive course of the allies will be to blame if all China now flames in revolt. By their looting, their sentences and their raids, the allies have alarmed the whole people of the Mongol Empire and a reign of terror may result.

Since Wilcox's return the Queen has had little chance to be heard in the politics of the Home Rule party, but it is likely that the conspiracy to turn the Hawaiian vote over to Sewall and Humphreys will bring her friends to the front with their battle axes. Liliuokalani is not ready to see her people fooled and plundered to make political capital for carpet-bag office-seekers.

It is indeed rather tough that the Legislature should allow the purchase of material for its secretaries, and allow them to take this material to their homes so that the work can be completed promptly and transmitted to Congress in proper form by Secretary Cooper.-Bulletin.

Think of Meheula engaged in putting the journal of the House in "proper form for Secretary Cooper." That would be a spectacle fit to place on the vaudeville stage.

We may all be stern democrats, heartily disdainful of the effete monarchies, but we do not like to be without our Imperial Potentates, our Grand Exalted Rulers, our Sacred High Priests and our Nobles and Knights. Without these glittering personages life in a republic would seem arid and dull, but after all the republic is safeguarded by them. President Hadley's Emperor will not arrive at Washington in twenty-five years save over the dead bodies of a million of our lodge room nobility who would rather fight and die, no doubt, than to make way for the real thing.

Wilcox did not quite dare to spring his trap last night but he showed the Home Rulers what it was. The Delegate has apparently taken a contract to deliver the Hawaiian vote to Humphreys and Sewall, in return, as it is said, for the promise of a fine Consular position in Italy. Whether the pledge of some Republican support for the $10,000 gift enterprise goes with the deal we cannot, at present writing, tell. This evening the Home Rule leaders will vote on a formal proposition, but unless a night's sleep has changed their minds they are not likely to accept it. The Queen and her party are bitterly opposed to the whole proceeding.

Elsewhere in these columns will be found a fishery interview, wherein an Eastern man says that, if modern nets were used in these waters, fish could be so abundantly caught as to bring down their price to the old figures. We hope the theory would work out in practice but, judging from the experience of such commercial anglers as Captain Sass, we have some misgivings. The Captain says that, on the banks where edible fish are plentiful, the sharks also teem, and that when one of these monsters gets into a net, good-bye net. The strands are simply torn to pieces and the smaller fish get out with the big one. If the gentleman interviewed can solve this shark difficulty he will be entitled to a further hearing.

It is a pity that the striking employes of the Honolulu Iron Works cannot settle their differences with the company and prevent the sending abroad of the $100,000 worth of work which the company is about to transfer, owing to the inability of getting the work done here. If, as is stated, the claims of the strikers have been reduced to a demand for the dismissal of one employe who is distasteful to them, it would seem to be in their own interests as well as in the interests of the community, that such a comparatively insignificant point should be abandoned. A round hundred thousand dollars is no inconsiderable sum to send abroad at this time. If the strike is settled it may be held here; if not this amount will be paid to foreign machine shops.

The excuse made on behalf of Meheula, Secretary of the House, for his share in the desk transaction, is that the property was to be charged against his private account. What business the Territory has to lend money or credit to Meheula, nobody knows. As for Cayless, who also got a desk and typewriter, he gives a better reason, which is that he had the desk and machine sent home because he intended to do his work there. Doubtless the Governor would have been glad to provide desk room in some of the public buildings for both Meheula and Cayless if he had been asked. But it was their desire to have these nice things at home. It need surprise no one if the Senate, which accepts the responsibility for the unheard-of disposition of the public furniture, would next install electric lights and easy chairs at its Secretary's house. Evidently it is better to be a legislative employe than the iceman.

MUST WAIT FOR CASES.

Treasurer Lansing has caused consternation in the ranks of those who have bills against the Government by the issuance of a By Authority in which he gives notice that payment on all warrants will be deferred after this date, excepting warrants for salaries and payrolls.

The Treasurer also states that deferred warrants will have to be presented at his office to be registered and will draw interest from the date of registration at the rate of five per cent per annum.

By this it will be understood that the warrants for expenses of the legislature, actual running expenses of that body including of course warrants for their compensation as members of the Legislature will be paid, but all other warrants will be held up.

The Treasury is not empty but if all the warrants which are now being issued by the Legislature were cashed at once there would be little left to pay the salaries each month of the employes of the government. As these salaries include those of the school teachers throughout the Territory it can readily be seen that there would be a great amount of distress amongst government workers.

Hawaiians Entertain in Mid-Ocean.

On board the steamship China, which sailed from this port for San Francisco recently, there was, it will be remembered, a large party of Hawaiians on their way to the Buffalo Exposition. On April 6th, in mid-Pacific ocean, they gave a most delightful concert on board. "To think of hearing good Hawaiian music, 1600 miles from home," writes Paul Isenberg, one of the passengers on the China, from San Francisco, "was delightful and all the passengers enjoyed it. We collected a little over $75 for the natives and they were glad to get a little pin money." The following is a copy of the program of the entertainment, sent home by Mr. Isenberg:

Kilpatrick May Return to Coast.

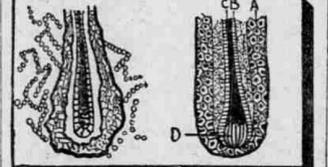

It has been decided not to transfer the troops aboard the transport Kilpatrick at present, but to keep them there for the next six days and stay in quarantine.

The vessel will be required to remain outside of the harbor. In the event of the smallpox again appearing, some other measures will probably be taken. Major Robinson, the depot quartermaster, had considered chartering the schooner Mary E. Foster for the purpose of making it a temporary abode for the troops of the Kilpatrick while the transport was being fumigated. This plan did not meet with the approval of the commander of the troops on the transport, however.

Nothing has been absolutely decided as yet. The transport may return to San Francisco, or the Mary E. Foster may yet be chartered. Developments during the next six days will probably decide what is to be done. The strictest quarantine is being observed so far as the Kilpatrick is concerned. Absolutely no communication is allowed between those on board and those who go alongside the vessel on the water tenders or coal barges. The transport will be coaled and supplied with water where she lies.

While the coaling and putting aboard of water is going on the authorities will have ample opportunity to watch any developments. As only two cases were taken from the Kilpatrick when she arrived here, and no more cases have occurred, there is a good chance of the disease not appearing again. In case of the disease spreading, the vessel would be obliged to put back to San Francisco, unless the Mary E. Foster or some other craft was secured as a place of temporary abode.

The steamer Claudine is to be run every ten days, instead of weekly, owing to the possibility of sending the Helene to the Coast for repairs. It is not yet finally decided, however, whether the Helene will be sent to San Francisco. Captain Nicholson will take the boat to the Coast in the event of her going.
