

THE PACIFIC Commercial Advertiser WALTER G. SMITH - EDITOR. MONDAY MAY 13

The scheme to merge the judiciary into one body was drawn up by a Circuit Judge who wanted, by that means, to become Chief Justice.

According to the British budget the Boer war has cost $755,000,000, or twice what the Crimean war caused Great Britain to expend.

An esteemed contemporary remarks that the debt habit in Honolulu is due to emulation. In a way this is so of all debt habits.

THE TOURIST TRADE.

The question of why the Hawaiian tourist trade is falling off suggests to the Advertiser the following answers:

1. The fashion of travel, which once set so strongly towards Hawaii and Japan, has changed. The reasons why the attractiveness of Hawaii has been lessened, are summarized below;

2. Hawaii has an unmerited bad name for epidemics. Tourists are commonly health-seekers, and people interested in sending them to other places have, at their tongue's ends, the magnified story of our cholera and bubonic plague visitations.

3. Honolulu has also a name for political turbulence which the change in its flag has not yet erased.

4. Much of the charm of Honolulu went with annexation. The pageantry of the old court attracted people here, and that is no more.

5. What is to be done? Would it pay to try and get the tourist trade back again? Will such trade return of itself? Certainly the correction of errors in public opinion would be worth while, but a stern chase after a lie is the longest chase any one can make.

But above all, Hawaii would profit most if it ceased to bother about tourists and put in its best looks to get white settlers for its vacant and inviting acres.

HOUSE HAD NO SESSION BUT THE SENATE WAS LIVELY.

Senator Kalaauokalani moved to spread the communication upon the minutes, which carried. So far, everything seemed to be lovely, but ere long the trouble commenced, and the longer the discussion grew, the warmer it became.

Senator Carter opposed the motion, as being a pure waste of time. The experience with the committees at the regular session, ought to serve as a warning to the members of their uselessness.

He suggested special committees be appointed on sections or items in the Appropriation bill, over which disputes might arise.

Cecil Brown wanted to go ahead and discuss the bill. The items over which disputes would arise could be referred, if necessary, to special committees.

"Standing committees are needed," continued "Oily," "in order to give the outside districts a fair show, for if there were no standing committees appointed Honolulu would get the kernel and the outside the shelly."

The longer "Oily" talked the more excited he got until finally he was rapping his desk so hard that it threatened to ruin that valuable piece of furniture.

"What would have happened," said "Oily," making an upper cut at space, "if Oahu had been made a county? They would have been the whole thing!"

Senator Baldwin seemed to try to win the favor of the Independents. He favored the appointment of committees.

He contended the salaries of the head officials should not be as much under the present Government as they were under the republic. Senator Baldwin gave a personal experience that happened during the monarchy, when he was a member of the Ways and Means Committee.

The whole business resulted in a larger pay roll than ever, notwithstanding efforts made to reduce expenditures.

Senator Kalaauokalani seems to have developed a "bump of aggressiveness" lately. He was continually jumping up like a jack in the box, interrupting different speakers, seeming to prefer Carter for his exhibition of contrariness.

The President finally put an end to the senseless disputes and speeches on the question by announcing the different committees as follows:

1. Committee on Ways and Means—Senators D. Kanuha, G. R. Carter and H. P. Baldwin.

2. Committee on Judiciary—Senators C. Brown, Wm. White and C. L. Crabbe.

3. Committee on Public Expenditures—Senators G. R. Carter, H. P. Baldwin and D. Kalaauokalani.

4. Public Lands Committee—Senators J. D. Paris, J. T. Brown and L. Nakapahu.

5. Committee on Agriculture and Forestry—Senators H. P. Baldwin, J. D. Paris and L. Nakapahu.

6. Committee on Public Health and Education—Senators N. Russel, W. C. Achi and J. E. Kaohi.

7. Committee on Printing—Senators D. Kalaauokalani, W. C. Achi and I. H. Kahilina.

8. Committee on Accounts—Senators C. L. Crabbe, D. Kalaauokalani and J. T. Brown.

9. Committee on Military—Senators G. R. Carter, I. H. Kahilina and D. Kanuha.

10. Committee on Rules—Senators C. Brown, Wm. White and N. Russel.

Senator Baldwin moved the committees be printed on a suitable card in the English and Hawaiian languages. Carried.

Senator Carter announced, under rule 18, he would present a resolution Monday to give committees one day in which to consider a question, as he did not want to experience any more such tedious delays as marked the committee work during the regular session.

Senator Carter moved to adjourn, which was seconded by Kalaauokalani, but before the President could put the motion, Achi moved to take up the Appropriation bill and consider it, item by item.

The first thing considered was the section referring to pensions, all of which were stricken out, after some horse play had been indulged in.

The salary of the chief clerk to the Territorial Secretary was reduced from $3,600 to $3,000.

The next item to be considered was the assistant clerk, at a salary of $1,800. This section passed after a little sparring had been indulged in. The recording clerk's salary, at $2,000, started the racket of the day.

Senator Carter moved that the item be referred to the Judiciary Committee in order that there might be an investigation as to what the duties of the recording clerk are.

This started Kanuha, who began talking very rapidly, and from what could be learned, he intimated that all the recording clerks had to go was to ride around in carriages and have a good time.

Paris asked for a verification of his statement. Kanuha replied that "he knew they did not have anything to do," and that ought to be sufficient grounds for striking out the item.

Senator Carter said, in order to keep peace in the family, he moved to refer it to the Ways and Means Committee.

The salary of electoral registrar at $1,200 per annum, was then taken up. Senator Carter said, as it seemed to be in order to strike out everything, this section should be so treated.

Achi moved it pass, which carried. The messenger's salary, at $1,200 per annum, was left untouched.

Senator Carter then said, as they had shown such a wonderful lot of intelligence in the discussion of the above items, it would be a good thing to adjourn, for if there was any further tax put on their brain-power it might result disastrously for them.

The Senate then adjourned at 12 m. until this morning at 10 o'clock.

REV. G. L. PEARSON'S MORNING SERMON

Pledges Are Easy to Make But Are Difficult to Redeem.

"Pay Your Debts" was the subject of Rev. G. L. Pearson's sermon last evening at the Methodist Church.

The credit system of the commercial world has attendant evils as well as advantages. The chief evil is the ease with which debts can be contracted.

Horace Greeley's advice, backed up by his successful experience, is worth following: "Hunger, cold, rags, hard work, contempt, suspicion, are disagreeable; and debt is infinitely worse than them all."

John Hancock once sprang from his seat in the House of Representatives and exclaimed in a piercing voice, "Mr. Speaker, I have found it; I have found the philosopher's stone; it is pay as you go."

Many people need to know that debts have a moral obligation. They may indeed be forgiven and thus dissolved, but repudiated never.

There are debts other than pecuniary which we should pay. Pau had received so great grace in his knowledge of Christ that he felt himself a debtor to all who know not Christ.

Now in the enjoyment of these blessings we should not live a selfish life, indifferent to social and civil conditions about us, but should render the best service possible to the commonwealth.

Men are debtors to the church. Its influence for good on civil and social conditions, its life as the source of spiritual blessing, make all men its debtors.

Men are debtors to the State for protection in his rights for the avenues of business and social success, for the culture of the schools and a hundred other things.

Nothing Tastes Good

And eating is simply perfunctory—done because it must be. This is the common complaint of the dyspeptic.

If eating sparingly would cure dyspepsia, few would suffer from it long.

The only way to cure dyspepsia, which is difficult digestion, is to give vigor and tone to the stomach and the whole digestive system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cured the niece of Frank Fay, 106 N. St., South Boston, Mass., who writes that she had been a great sufferer from dyspepsia for six years.

Hood's Sarsaparilla made her well.

Promises to cure and keeps the promise. Don't wait till you are worse, but buy a bottle today.
