

THE V-A-S-E.

From the madding crowd they stand apart,
The maidens four and the work of Art;
And none might tell from sight alone
In which had Culture ripest grown—
The Gotham Million fair to see,
The Philadelphia Pedigree,
The Boston Mind of azure hue,
Or the soulful Soul from Kalamazoo—
For all loved Art in a seemly way,
With an earnest soul and a capital A.
Long they worshipped; but no one broke
The sacred stillness, until up spoke
The Western one from the nameless place,
Who, blushing, said: "What a lovely vase."
Over three faces a sad smile flew.

And they edged away from Kalamazoo.
But Gotham's haughty soul was stirred
To crush the stranger with one small word.
Deftly hiding reproof in praise,
She cries: "'Tis, indeed, a lovely vase!"
But brief her unworthy triumph, when
The lofty one from the house of Penn,
With a condescension of two grandpas,
Exclaims: "It is quite a lovely vase!"
And glances round with an anxious thrill,
Awaiting the word of Beacon Hill.
But the Boston maid smiles courtesee,
And gently murmurs: "Oh, pardon me!
I did not catch your remark, because
I was so entranced with that charming vase!"

—James Jeffrey Roche in Life.

The large demand for Vases has induced the Pacific Hardware Co. to place on sale at their Bethel Street Department, an invoice intended for the Holidays:
Fine Cut Glass, Bohemian Glass, Florentine Faience, Majolica, etc., etc., in every variety of design and shape.

PICTURES FROM POEMS

The Dreams of Fair Women in Life.

Pictured scenes of long ago, dreams of loveliness and life, made to stand out beneath the high lights of the stage, materializations of the fancies of the dear old poet of red blood and the good things of living, all combined to make the pictures presented by the Kilauea Art League last evening at Progress Hall more than acceptable to a large audience, and how well they were appreciated was testified by the applause which greeted the tableaux and their accompaniment.

Upon a stage limited by blossoms and greens, adorned by draperies and backed by a picture of a Persian garden, with flowers and a white tower, there were shown a number of representations of scenes which live in history and fancy. The pictures brought out some of the loveliest of women and manliest of men, and through all there ran a series of songs and an accompaniment by H. Macfarlane, which gave color to the whole. The pictures, due in the main to the work of Mrs. Bird and Artist Wores, were most successful, and the singing of Mrs. Annis Montague Turner, who rendered the "Flower Song from Faust, and several of the descriptive lines to the Persian scene, of Arthur Wail, and the recitations of Dr. Humphris added much to the completeness of the evening's entertainment.

The opening pictures, the Seasons, gave a taste of the perfection of portrayal to follow. Dainty Spring, the awakening of the year, showed Miss Scott, Miss Widdfield and Mrs. Brock in faintest shades, looking for the coming of the new life, which took fuller perfection in the deeper draperies of Summer, represented by Mrs. Brock, Miss Cunha and Miss Giffard. Autumn, with riper beauty, and winter, cold and white, showed in varying poses Mrs. S. E. Damon, Mrs. Humphris and Miss Bishop, and the cycle was ended.

Mrs. Mott-Smith Bird and Mr. Tarn McGrew, in the Pygmalion and Galatea tableaux, the sculptor and the statue, and the coming to life of the marble beauty, combined grace of pose with clear conception. Miss Widdfield as Marguerite, at the wheel and standing looking into the future, brought out the brightest spots of the Faust legend. Four fair women in truth were there in the living of Tennyson's Dream, Mrs. Bird as Helen, the Grecian maiden, Mrs. Damon as Rosamond, Miss Cunha as Cleopatra and Miss Giffard as the daughter of Jephtha, with tambourine and flowers, made a quartet which was worthy the place. Miss Scott as Ophelia, the flowers in her hair and about her, lived the part, and as Esmeralda Mrs. Humphris, with mandolin, displayed wonderful conception, perfect pose and delicate beauty.

Scenes in a Persian Garden, pictures shown before the backdrop of flowers and fruits, showed Mrs. Arthur Brown, Mrs. C. H. Hayes and Miss Cunha, Mr. C. G. Potter, Mr. A. G. Hayes, Mr. Gerrit Wilder and Mr. Irvine, in a series of pictures which brought out the meaning of the couplets of Omar. The music which was used in accompaniment was that which served the same purpose during the representations in the East, and it was to be regretted that the recitative was done without shading or appreciation of the feeling; that the words of the dreamer were voiced as in monotone, the deeper meaning lost.

Eleven scenes there were, each posed with effect and portrayed with appreciation of meaning. Perhaps the most effective was the tenth, where the Angel of Death offered his Cup, Miss Cunha and Mr. Wilder as the contemplative ones, showing true artistic strength in pose. Mrs. Brown, amid the roses red, showed as well excellent judgment, and the effect was heightened by her dark beauty amid the highly colored surroundings. As well the familiar "Book of Verses Underneath the Bough," done by Mrs. Hayes and Mr. Wilder, was truly effective in its pose, the entire series being one of the very best things done here.

The hall was filled, and every one appeared to be more than pleased with the pictures, the only drawback being the tooing of a practicing band in too close proximity to the hall.

Dysentery causes the death of more people than smallpox and yellow fever combined. In an army it is dreaded more than a battle. It requires prompt and effective treatment. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has been used in nine epidemics of dysentery in the United States with perfect success, and has cured the most malignant cases both of children and adults, and under the most trying conditions. Three Eyes
Cannot, possibly, be found exactly alike in every particular. Especially is this true of defective eyes—eyes needing glasses. Even a different measurement in the two eyes is quite common. One eye may be perfect and the other short-sighted; or they may have different degrees of the same defect, or a different defect.
Is it any wonder then, you have never found a glass you could see through? Try us—we'll find you a glass if you need it; if not we'll tell you so.

When You Call and Leave a Card ...

and that card is shoddy, one you should be ashamed of:
WHAT IMPRESSION do you leave behind?
You say you don't care; yes, but you should care. You cannot afford to be careless about the kind of card you use; it does make a difference, whether you believe it or not.
Besides, there's no excuse for using the wrong kind; as the right kind, barring the first cost of the engraving costs no more than the wrong. We have two presses constantly going, doing nothing but turning out the RIGHT kind of card, the kind that will not be criticised.
You will have no reason to be ashamed or fear criticism if your cards are made by us.
