

VENDERS OF BAD MILK

Food Commissioner Makes Report for Year.

HAWAIIAN SALT NOT INJURIOUS

Reports Shows All Milk Below Standard During the Year Just Ended.

The report of Food Commissioner Sherry, submitted yesterday to the Board of Health, contains a list of every seller of adulterated milk in the Territory. The list covers the entire year and is worthy of preservation by milk users.

Table with 2 columns: Vendor Name and Butter Fat percentage. Includes Makatani, S. Nabrigo, etc.

Below is the portion of the report showing milks below standard during the month of June, and also for the entire year, ending June 30th:

Ten of those mentioned above are now either out of business or amalgamated with others.

Six samples of canned corn were examined for the presence of saccharin, and one sample found to be sweetened with this drug.

There are many brands of this article on the market, and it is very likely that there are others sweetened with saccharin.

A sample of Huyler's Glycerine Tablets was found to contain cocaine—0.63 grain per tablet.

Two samples of Carnation Evaporated Cream were found to contain 4 and 5.1 per cent butter fat respectively.

A sample examined some months ago contained only 2.5 per cent. This article evidently varies considerably and is without doubt made from milk from which part of the butter fat has been removed.

A sample of Hawaiian salt, submitted by Mr. Tracy, was examined and found to contain nothing injurious.

A PORTO RICAN VAGRANT JAILED

On the evidence of a native woman, to which was added the testimony of the police detectives, a Porto Rican named Frank Labreri was sent to jail yesterday as a vagrant. He was shown to be a procurer, who spent his time from morning until long after darkness had settled over the city in soliciting white men for a Porto Rican woman.

Labreri's testimony as given on the witness stand was given with the usual Porto Rican disregard for "telling the whole truth and nothing but the truth," as required of him in his oath.

He endeavored to show that during his two months' residence in Honolulu he had "worked." His labor, according to a Portuguese saloonkeeper, consisted in being paid a dollar now and then as a "spy." The Portuguese evidently tried to shield the man, and could merely state that Labreri had been retained as a "witness" in a certain mysterious "case," and that once in a while he was given money.

Labreri said at first he had worked at the Portuguese' place as a gardener, but his story was completely upset by the alleged employer.

Labreri amused the court and audience by endeavoring to show to the judge that he was always provided with money by pulling out a small handful of coins and smiling victoriously at the deputy sheriff.

He also stated that he paid his own board and room rent, bought his own clothes and other necessities of life, but was careful not to mention the source of his income.

Ten other Porto Ricans were given sentences varying from two to six months at hard labor in Oahu prison as vagrants.

So Different

Lots of Clams Like This, But so Different—Local Proof is What Honolulu People Want.

There are a great many of them. Every paper has its share. Statements hard to believe, harder to prove.

Statements from far-away places. What people say in Florida. Public expressions from California. Ofttimes good endorsement there. But of little service here at home. Honolulu people want local proof.

The sayings of neighbors, friends and citizens. Home indorsement counts. It disarms the skeptic; is beyond dispute.

This is the backing that stands behind every box of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is a case of it:

Mr. Cyrus S. Edison of Kapiolani Park, this city, says: "I am at present a teamster and came to the Islands fifteen years ago. Previous to that I drove a stage coach in the United States. These occupations necessitating my being out at all seasons were no doubt the cause of my kidney disorder. I had the ordinary symptoms of this complaint, and resorted to a host of things to cure it. All of them failed to do so, however, and when I had almost given up hope I heard about Doan's Backache Kidney Pills and got some at the Hollister Drug Co.'s store. They did indeed relieve me and I am quite satisfied with the benefit they have given to me."

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers; price 50 cents per box (six boxes $2.50). Mailed by the Hollister Drug Co., Honolulu, wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

EX-QUEEN DISHEARTENED AT NEGLECT OF CONGRESS

Wilcox Could Get Her None of the Money He Promised---Dillingham's Plans---Theatrical People Who Are Known Here.

(Special to The Advertiser.)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—Queen Liliuokalani arrived here this morning with the several members of her party, and is staying at the California Hotel. The former monarch was expected to be here last night but the Ogden train was late and did not pull into Oakland until early this morning. The Queen was driven at once to the California, and beyond sending word that she was wearied with the journey, would not grant any interview. Colonel George Macfarlane, who usually looks after her affairs on the mainland, is on his way to New York. He told me before he left that he did not expect to return to San Francisco for three weeks or more. I understand that the Queen is thoroughly disheartened over the failure of her efforts to secure an appropriation from Congress for the confiscation of the crown lands of Hawaii, but that she is determined to make another fight at the coming term of Congress. If she does not succeed then, or at least get encouragement, she will abandon the struggle and return to Honolulu to live out her life.

Among the passengers on the steamship Sonoma, which carries this letter, is Franz Wilcox, one of the greatest violin masters in all the world. He is en route to Sydney to give a number of concerts.

B. F. DILLINGHAM.

B. F. Dillingham, who has been staying at the Occidental Hotel here for several weeks past, may return to Honolulu shortly or may go East for a long sojourn there. He is head over heels in financial matters and is sanguine of success in certain big deals intimately affecting Hawaiian securities. Dillingham must have the reputation for the most liberal philanthropy for not a day passes during his temporary residence here that he is not approached by some stranded Islander or alleged Islander, and besought to tide the unfortunate over the shoals of poverty. I doubt if anyone could get Dillingham to talk on this subject, but I have been so frequent a witness of his largesse that I have concluded he is a "good thing."

Only yesterday I saw a shabby but honest looking man pluck Dillingham by the sleeve and give him the gladdest hand I ever saw extended. And Dillingham, though with his free hand filled with papers, bonds and letters, and his mind crammed with figures for presentation to a certain banker, yet sat him down and listened to the tale of woe poured out by the pleading applicant. All he wanted was a few hundred dollars to see him safely back to his beloved Hawaii, from which he swore by the memory of the fat pigs of Hamakua never to stray again, no matter if a new Klondike was discovered in Alameda county. Dillingham did not know him, he said, but surely he remembered the big luau given by so-and-so in such-and-such a year? Well, the glad-hand man had sat right

THE CONSECRATION OF THE NEW BISHOP OF HONOLULU

SAN DIEGO, July 2.—In St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Rev. Henry Bond Restarick was today consecrated as Bishop of Honolulu.

The established church of Hawaii, when the stars and stripes were raised, was the Anglican Episcopal church, but steps were taken immediately to turn it over to the jurisdiction of the Protestant Episcopal church of America. On the 1st of last April the transfer was made by the Archbishop of Canterbury, through his representative, Bishop Alfred Willis of Honolulu, to William Ford Nichols, Bishop of California, who had been designated to receive the jurisdiction by Thomas March Clarke, the senior bishop of the American jurisdiction. Bishop Restarick was appointed to the new position created by the transfer of the jurisdiction on the 17th of April and announced his acceptance a little later, after a conference with Bishop Nichols and Bishop Johnson of Los Angeles.

The service today was notable in the history of the Episcopal church, and of special interest to Southern California, being the first consecration of an Episcopal bishop in the south, and the second in the state. While only three bishops are necessary, six were here for the ceremonies, three from California and one each from Arizona, New Mexico and the Southern Ohio diocese. The only disappointment of the day was the absence through a part of the services of Bishop Moreland of Sacramento, who missed train connections and did not arrive until noon. The attendance, which was by invitation and filled the church, included many of the Episcopal clergy of the state and most of the pastors of the local churches. The decorations of the church were simple, the only effort in that direction being in the sanctuary and about the altar.

The day opened with an early celebration of the holy communion at 7:30 opposite Dillingham at that feast and recalled clearly having passed him the pot a second time and handing him the limu twice. And though the financier had not the faintest recollection of the luau, the limu or the man himself, he straightway began to plan to accommodate the gladhander and to send him back to the land of his youth.

THE NEILL COMPANY.

Everybody who saw the Neill Company on its second trip to Honolulu will remember Mary Elizabeth Forbes, the tall and willowy blonde maiden who played the smaller parts. Her girlish innocence and beauty, together with her charming naivete, made her a universal favorite. Now she is to be a theatrical star. As leading lady in her own company she will make her debut on September 15 at Santa Rosa and will tour the West under the management of Scott Seaton, the clever actor who played with the Neills. Miss Forbes is a niece of Edythe Chapman—Mrs. Neill, in real life—and is only a year or so out of Elmira College. She has been with the Neill Company during that time and has improved greatly. She will play Barbara Fritchie in the play of that name, the part taken so ably by Edythe Chapman. Wilford Roger will be her leading man, and Charles Astor Parker will direct the presentation.

Neill will have an interest in four companies next year: The Neill Company which was in Honolulu, the Neill-Frawley Company which will play in Manila, a stock company at Portland, Or., and the company which Miss Forbes will head.

Neill will head, Neill has suffered a good deal financially by his trouble with the lodge of Elks at Spokane, when he refused to receive the impact of the stuffed club twice, and while he asserts his rightful stand in the matter, yet he feels that the affair was most unfortunate for him. He has since the Elks row joined the Woodmen of the World, the Eagles and other similar orders to counteract the influence of the Elks' boycott. Especially in the smaller towns have the Elks made it plain that they resent the statements made by Neill that the Spokane initiation was not of the kind which a gentleman should endure. Neill, however, is firm in his argument, and hopes some day to have matters thoroughly straightened out.

FREDERICK WARDE.

Frederick Warde and company are at the California theater for a run of seven weeks, and have been well received during this, the opening week. They are playing "Francesca da Rimini." The newspaper critics differ in their appreciation of Warde's acting. The Chronicle says in part: "Mr. Warde has for many years been the best Lanciotto. The part was one of Barrett's greatest pieces of work, and Mr. Warde brings to the role the virility and intensity it needs, with the experience of half a lifetime of study. It is an impressive performance, convincing on its stronger side, and on the side of Lanciotto's love for Paolo not lacking in tenderness and pathos. Judith Berolde is a striking figure in Francesca. She has been associated in our minds with more heavy dramatic work, but she has the poetry and the passion of the woman, and she carries out the illusion. Mr. Hanley, crude and uneven in Paolo, handicapped by an unmusical voice, still plays the young and handsome lover with admirable spirit. There are some ragged edges about the performance, but some remarkably strong acting. Barry Johnston's study of Pepe is excellent, and his delineation has many points of unusual force and art. He was not heard very distinctly last night at times, but that is a matter of more accurately gauging the theater."

The Post says: "Frederick Warde is back again, after some years' absence, and brings to us a revival of that intensely dramatic love story, 'Francesca da Rimini,' which of late has stirred the pulse of author and poet, offering as it does a fruitful theme for the pen of the most fanciful, the most artistic, the most forceful and romantic. Warde has changed in nothing since we saw him last. He has had the part of Lanciotto all to himself and has become identified with it. He is the same stately, self-conscious actor, with a dash of the romantic, a touch of the heroic, a volume of the dramatic and an artistic desire to rush to the footlights and talk finances with the audience. Twice last night he told the people how glad he was that he had a good house, and hoped that it would keep up."

The Bulletin said: "Mr. Warde's Lanciotto lacks somewhat the bitterness, the stern fiber, the gloom that one has been apt to associate with the character. It is a sweeter, more lovable Lanciotto he paints, the victim of high Providence, but little warped in nature. Sympathy is immediately created and perfectly held for the character by the actor in his sad and simple nobility. The conception is further marked by a thorough consistency and balance, and is notably free from the sagacity that sometimes mars Mr. Warde's work. As always with this actor, the part is richly read, the sonorous and well-modulated voice being a continual pleasure to the ear. Perhaps the church scene leaned slightly to rant, but the scenes with the malicious jester on the eve of the couple's marriage with Paolo in the first act, where he cries to heaven in his sorrow, and more than all the last scene with his helplessly sinning wife and brother, the actor's efforts were luminous with reserve and measure."

I called on Warde last evening to have a chat with him about his impressions of Hawaii, but he said that he was so busy just then in arranging the evening's performance he would have to be excused. He asked me to drop in again, which I shall do.

MIZNER NOT IN COURT.

A paragraph in the Chronicle of a day or two ago may have some interest for Advertiser readers. It is as follows: "J. F. O'Neill, a twenty-three-year old youth, whose home is in New York, and whose particular reputation is to the effect that he is a student in the Columbia University Law School, president of the well known Columbia Law School Criminal Club, and since Saturday a guest of the Palace Hotel, was arrested last night and committed to jail on a charge of disturbing the peace of a conductor on the Sutter electric car line. This youth and an accompanying named Mizner were, according to their version of the affair, sitting on the lower step of the car, when the conductor came out and ordered them to be seated elsewhere. They say they made no reply, but the conductor aimed a blow at them that missed and struck a woman passenger, so they say. Then they told the con-

THEY WILL REMAIN.

The bump of reverence is overshadowed by the bump of intelligence in the 20th century man and woman. Old things are not preserved simply because they are old. Whatsoever is no longer useful must get out of the way. Nevertheless, progress that is not intelligent will not be permanent. We shall continue to breathe air, drink water and eat bread. There will be no "improvement" on the great essentials of living, and we do not want any. Babies will come into the world as they have from the beginning, and people will die out of it as they have done since the world began. Let us not run away with the idea that all of our treasured opinions are to be upset. Through every change, all standard articles which, like WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION have builded a reputation on honour and good service, will hold their place. This effective remedy belongs to the past, the present and the future. It is not only up-to-date but ahead of date. For Wasting Diseases, Impaired Nutrition, Influenza, Lung Troubles, Impure Humors in the blood with resulting skin affections, etc., it possesses the confidence of physicians and the people everywhere. It is not expected to fail; it never does fail. The formula after which it is made is an inspiration. It contains the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. It is palatable as honey, and yet so medicinal as to be effective from the first dose. Professor Reddy, of Canada, says: "I have much pleasure in stating that I have used it in cases of debility and have found it to be a very valuable remedy as well as pleasing to take." "It cannot disappoint." Sold by chemists.
