QUARTERS OF THE HEALANI BOAT CLUB.

QUARTERS OF THE MYRTLE BOAT CLUB.

OARSMEN TO ROW

Reds and Blues Will Bend the Blades Today.

Everybody should go to the waterfront today to witness the Regatta events. That they will be worth seeing goes without saying for each year adds interest to the annual aquatic maneuvers in Honolulu harbor. There is room for all. The wharves are big and long; the boat houses are always open to friends, there are small boats enough to carry scores out upon the water, and the launches and other craft not actually participating in the events will have their quota of spectators. It will be a Red and a Blue day. The popularity of the two boat clubs about evenly divides the display of Red for the Myrtles and Blue for the Healanis, and the harbor will therefore present a pretty sight with its mass of waving color. The first race begins at 9:30.

THE BOAT RACES.

The regatta committee has changed the schedule of races in that the pair-oared race will be rowed No. 14 at 2:30 p. m. and the intermediate six-oared barge will be rowed No. 17 at 3:35 p. m. The Myrtles have entered two crews for this event, and as their crews have been in training the race is practically a gift to them, although the Healanis will probably put in a crew for sport's sake. The Healan club has been at a great disadvantage because of the fact that they have only one racing barge and that one in exceedingly poor condition. The club is to be heartily congratulated on putting in so many crews under the circumstances. The races promise to be the best ever rowed on the harbor, there will be more of them than usual and all will be more closely contested.

The senior race is a toss-up—a poor start or a poor turn may mean defeat. The crews have been rowing nightly over the course making practically the same time, and there has never been a difference of more than a few seconds, one crew having the best of it one night and the other crew the next.

The junior race looks like a safe event for the Myrtles. Bert Webster for the Blues has been ill and his going in practically at the eleventh hour has put the crew back, and now Charles Murray is suffering from a strained arm, which necessitates Harrison going in as a substitute. The talent seems to prefer the Healan Freshmen, although the Myrtles have a much better body swing. The intermediate race is unquestionably Myrtle. The Pair-oar is guess-work. Paul Jarrett and Dan Renear are tried veterans, but they may be tired from rowing in the senior race in the forenoon.

The complete list of competing crews is as follows:

Healan Boat Crews—Senior Barge: Stroke, Paul Jarrett; 5. Dan Renear; 4. C. H. Tracy; 3. H. E. Murray; 2. Fred Damon; bow, Gaston Boisse; coxswain, Chas. Reynolds.

FLAG BEDECKED HARBOR IN READINESS FOR REGATTA DAY

Amongst the yachtsmen who will participate in today's races there is a keen rivalry expressed, but truly sportsmanlike, and each class will make every endeavor to present to the public gathered upon the fringing waterfront a pretty exhibition of white-winged maneuvers. The Malolo which did so well in the fourth class on July 4 will today compete in the third class. The third class interests the larger number of yachtsmen in the club and with the number of entries enrolled some keen sport is anticipated.

W. E. Lee, owner of the yacht Maria, yesterday entered the following protest: "I protest against the yacht PIP entering the fourth class race because she is a second class boat and was formerly the Marion."

PARSONS TO PLAY POLO AT PARK

A brilliant match of polo is anticipated when the Blues and the Whites meet today on the grounds in Kapiolani Park race track. The Blues will have as one of their members John Parsons, the well known English polo player who participated in the Coronation match game at Hurlingham, England. Parsons has been on Hawaii during the week but is expected to arrive here for the game. During the past week the grounds have been subjected to alternate wettings and rollings until a noticeable improvement has been made. This will be continued for another week when the grounds will be in almost perfect condition for the best kind of playing. As today is a holiday the polo players hope to see the field fringed with polo enthusiasts, and not the least of these are the social matrons and debutantes.

The teams which will contest today are: Blues—C. S. Doie, 4; Geo. Angus, 3; R. W. Shingle, 2; John Parsons, 1; substitute, Irvine.
Whites—A. F. Judd, 4; S. E. Damon, 3;

Game starts at 3:45 p. m. sharp.

WEDAY VS. KAMINSKY

Big Fighters Enter the Roped Arena Tonight.

Tonight at the Orpheum theater Jack Weday and Phil Kaminsky will again contest for championship honors with the mts. Both of these hard-hitters have been training for the past month in a creditable manner and each will enter the ring tonight hopeful that the ten-round contest will indicate which is the better man scientifically and physically. Paddy Ryan will be the referee for this main event. The sale of tickets has been large and a packed house will undoubtedly witness the fistic carnival. The preliminary events are a six-round glove contest between Bennet and Peterson of the U. S. S. Iroquois and a five-round contest between Spider Jackson and Delylie. Manager Walsh hoped to secure Billy Woods as referee for the preliminaries, but the "pneumatic wonder" has decided not to take the responsibility and a referee will probably be chosen from the ringside.

W. F. Dillingham, 2; Geo. Potter, 1; substitute, J. P. Erdman.

Referee, Allan Dunn; timekeeper, W. C. Diekey.

Game starts at 3:45 p. m. sharp.

KAMINSKY IS HOPEFUL.

KAMINSKY.

In my last encounter with Jack Weday I believe it was shown that it was neither a lack of science or gameness, but a lack of hardiness, which occasioned my defeat. Acting upon this belief I have left nothing undone to put myself in the best physical condition possible. I was fortunate in having been able to secure the services of that old master, Billy Woods, and to him I am indebted not only for my vastly improved condition, but also for much knowledge of the art, that in my last battle was totally unknown to me. I go into the ring on Saturday night fully realizing what a victory will mean for me, and should I meet defeat, I cannot lay it to any other cause, than that I have met a better man.

PHIL KAMINSKY.

WHAT WEDAY SAYS.

JACK WEDAY.

Although I have once defeated my present opponent I have not in my preparation for this fight measured him lightly, for it was apparent to me that with proper training he would be a greatly improved man. My training has been faithful and vigorous and I feel fit for the battle of my life. I have heard good reports as to Kaminsky's condition and improvement, and I only hope that the reports are true, for I feel perfectly confident I can defeat him when he is at his best, and I only hope that Saturday night will give me an opportunity of proving it.

JACK WEDAY.
