

BROWN HEARS FROM M'DUFFIE

High Sheriff Brown stated last evening that he did not hear any particular news on the Nippon Maru from Special Officer Arthur McDuffie, who was dispatched to the coast to apprehend, if possible, the absconding territorial treasurer, Wright. McDuffie, upon arrival October 6 at San Francisco, immediately sought out Chief of Police Wittman and presented his credentials, and asked the chief for his assistance in locating Wright. The chief promised him all the aid possible. McDuffie states that after leaving quarantine, nothing had been seen of Wright but it was believed he had taken a train "south." The news of the theft of the territorial funds was published broadcast on the mainland, and photographs sent to the police in all the large cities. The high sheriff stated that McDuffie will remain on the mainland until he hears again from the local department, and it is probable that his stay there will lengthen out for a few weeks. If Wright has gone to Mexico and McDuffie gets upon his trail, he is to keep after him and get into communication with the local authorities and a request will be sent to President Roosevelt to request the Mexican government to arrest Wright. "I have not been authorized to offer a reward for Wright's arrest," said the high sheriff last evening. "The offer of a reward would certainly stimulate police officials in the states to keep a closer watch for him than before. McDuffie had not seen Superintendent Boyd up to the time of the departure of the Nippon Maru."
