

"BOYHOOD'S HAPPY DAYS" IN TOWN

New Song by Raymond C. Brown of the Immigration Office.

"Boyhood's Happy Days" is the title of a new song just published by Punney & Eutsler, Columbus, O., composed by Raymond C. Brown, of the U. S. Immigration office of Honolulu. The illustrated cover which is the work of Allan Dunn, represents a sleepy stream near an old mill with trees overhanging the water, under which are shown two boys on the bank ready to go "swimming." The arrangement is by A. R. ("Sonny") Cunha. The first verse runs thus:

"I've been thinking of the old home where my boyhood fled fast,
I've been thinking of the old haunts far away.
Of the lanes, the fields, the valleys, of the hills, the stream, the wood,
I've been thinking of my boyhood's home today.
I've been thinking of the time when the school day hours were o'er,
With my jolly boon companions young and gay;
We would stroll away together with no thought of future times,
In the sunshine of our boyhood's happy day."

Refrain:
"But now the scenes have all been changed, the playmates dead and gone;
The old home long since fallen to decay,
And the sweetheart of those golden hours now sleeps beneath the sod,
But my heart goes back to boyhood's happy day."
