When General Butler was Governor of Massachusetts he gave a dinner that became famous as Ben Butler's dinner and many a noted man has since had the same dinner prepared for him. The man who prepared Ben Butler's dinner is now connected with the Palace Grill and he proposes to duplicate Butler's dinner on Sunday, February 22, (Washington's Birthday). The bill of fare will include Cape Cod Oysters, Cape Ann Cod-fish, Chicken Halibut, Crimped Salmon with Lobster Sauce, Potted Mullet, Roast Turkey, Roast Beef and Lamb, and Potted Spiced Beef along with all the best vegetables which accompany a first class dinner; and the dessert will include that fine old New England dish, Blue Berry Pie, together with Green Apple Pie, Plum Pudding, Roll Pudding Cape Cod style, and Boston Ice Cream. And the best and most important of all is that this famous Ben Butler dinner will be served for only fifty cents. It will not only be the best dinner to be had in Honolulu but the cheapest.

COMPETENT JUDGES. Beauty Doctors Endorse Herpicide. Women who make a business of beautifying other women come pretty near knowing what will bring about the best results. Here are letters from two, concerning Herpicide: "I can recommend Newbro's Herpicide, as it stopped my hair from falling out; and, as a dressing it has no superior."

"Signed: BERTHA A. TRULLINGER, 'Complexion Specialist.'" "291 1/2 Morrison St., Portland, Ore." "After using one bottle of Herpicide my hair has stopped falling out, and my scalp is entirely free from dandruff."

MUSCLED MEN OF JAPAN CONTEST IN SAWDUST ARENA

It was a picture, out of the Farther East, with American trimmings in the way of gallery gods of assorted colors, and a big special policeman to keep them in order. You might have fancied that you were in a theater on the Bowery, to hear the gods shouting. You would have known that you were in far Japan, glancing at the floor of the place, and seeing there two bronze men splendidly muscled, and clad in as little as men could wear and still preserve a semblance of the conventions, straining and tugging, might against might, mass against mass, either to throw the other to the sawdust-covered floor, either to force the other out of the little ring, a circle of but ten feet marked on a platform perhaps twenty-four feet square. You would have known that you were in far Japan if you had glanced at the queerly figured banners strung all about the place, the heraldic devices of the men engaged in combat.

And, after all, it was the Japanese theater in the center of Honolulu, and it was the closing night of a week of bouts between clever amateurs and famous wrestlers sent from the plantations on the other islands to wrest the championship from the strong men of the metropolis. In the dim, smoky atmosphere of the place, it was a succession of strong pictures, instinct with vivid animalism. They were but splendid animals, the wrestlers, muscled like gladiators, and the announcer who got into the ring between bouts, and sang his little falsetto song about the glory of the men who were to compete, was the ape of the show.

The place was filled, with Japs, white men, natives; an orderly crowd, good-natured but enthusiastic, and if the decisions of the referee, clad in a golden green garment with wide sleeves like wings, were not always popular, at least the criticism was good humored, and there was always applause when a gentleman in a one-legged kimono, going by the name of "Cash Register" among the American spectators present, stepped into the ring to make his announcement of a new contribution for wrestlers, holding up the money given in an envelope as he read the donor's name.

One Japanese wrestling match is like every other. The wrestlers, stripped to a breech-clout, enter the ring from opposite sides, throw a little salt upon their bodies to ward off the devils, and then squat upon their toes, almost touching each other with their projecting knees. Suddenly, as cats spring, they try to seize each other, by the girdle, by the head, anywhere, so that the opponent may be thrown, or his hand touch the floor, or, in some cases, so that he may be pushed or lifted bodily out of the ring. It is most exciting when they throw off each other's hands, violently, when neither is touched and one man is thrown out of the ring without coming to a grasp. Then the crowd cheers, and money is showered upon the winner. It is exciting, too, when at the conclusion of separate bouts they line up in sides and, as fast as an opponent throws his man, another from the thrown man's side springs to the combat, and so on until five have been thrown in succession, when a prize goes to the successful man.

They kept it up last night until nearly midnight, and then there was a sort of professional dance, in which the wrestlers went about in a heraldic costume and received the congratulations of their friends.

MARITANA DRAWS LARGE AUDIENCE

The repetition of Maritana last evening at the Opera House drew a large audience in spite of the rainy weather and created the same favorable impression as when first presented. The performance was given under the direction of Mrs. Annis Montague Turner and Mrs. Edward D. Tenney for the benefit of the Hospital for Incurables and the Kapoliani Maternity Home. The same wealth of costumes which flashed so brilliantly from behind the foot lights on the first two presentations was apparent last evening, but most noticeable of all was the excellence of the solos and choruses. Mrs. Turner was in splendid voice and receive unstinted applause throughout the opera. Mr. and Mrs. Eleton, in their respective roles of Don Caesar and the boy Lazarillo, were favorites and the audience showed its appreciation of their singing by continued applause.

BEN BUTLER'S DINNER.

It Will Be Served Today at the Palace Grill.

"What shall I have for Sunday dinner," is a question that puzzles every housewife. Under its new management the Palace Grill, on Bethel street, proposes to solve this question for Honolulu people. And besides new management every thing else about the Palace Grill is new, such as table linen, silverware, kitchen furniture and all that goes to make a restaurant clean and attractive.

When General Butler was Governor of Massachusetts he gave a dinner that became famous as Ben Butler's dinner and many a noted man has since had the same dinner prepared for him. The man who prepared Ben Butler's dinner is now connected with the Palace Grill and he proposes to duplicate Butler's dinner on Sunday, February 22, (Washington's Birthday). The bill of fare will include Cape Cod Oysters, Cape Ann Cod-fish, Chicken Halibut, Crimped Salmon with Lobster Sauce, Potted Mullet, Roast Turkey, Roast Beef and Lamb, and Potted Spiced Beef along with all the best vegetables which accompany a first class dinner; and the dessert will include that fine old New England dish, Blue Berry Pie, together with Green Apple Pie, Plum Pudding, Roll Pudding Cape Cod style, and Boston Ice Cream. And the best and most important of all is that this famous Ben Butler dinner will be served for only fifty cents. It will not only be the best dinner to be had in Honolulu but the cheapest.

Change in Masters.

TACOMA, Feb. 11.—George M. Rolph, secretary of the well known firm of Alexander & Baldwin, San Francisco shipowners, is in the city looking after two vessels which the firm now has at this port, the British ship Kinross and the British bark Antiope.

Captain Murray, master of the Kinross, which is now wheat-laden in the stream for Yokohama preparing for sea, has resigned his position and will be succeeded by Captain George H. Campling, who comes out from New York to take the vessel. Mr. Rolph is looking after the change in masters.

Aids to discrimination: Doctor—"James, did that lady in the waiting-room come in her own coach or a trolley car?" Servant—"Trolley car, sir." Doctor—"Thanks, I couldn't tell from her dress whether to prescribe three months at Newport or sulphur and molasses"—Puck.

GRAND JURY MAKES A FINAL REPORT

The grand jury for the February term made its final report to Judge De Bolt yesterday. The report was signed by all members but George Markham, who wanted to make a minority report. He was told by the court that he would be discharged with the rest of the jurors, but could file his complaint on Monday.

The grand jury returned fifty-four true bills, and referred to its record as a response to Judge De Bolt's request for an investigation of the numerous robberies and burglaries. Thanks were returned also for the services of E. C. Peters, Deputy Attorney General.

Judge De Bolt yesterday denied the divorce in the case of H. W. Flint vs. Nina Flint, holding that sufficient cause had not been shown. The libel was ordered dismissed.

The von Hamm-Young Company has sued Wong Kwai for $444.08, alleged to be due on a note.

Judge Robinson heard the case of J. M. Vivas vs. Mele Akoni yesterday, and found for the defendant. Suit was brought for a $50 attorney's fee.

Hiroshi, convicted of selling liquor without a license, has applied for a new trial. Judge De Bolt ordered Otto Winkler to pay to his wife, Lelani Winkler, $12.50 alimony weekly pending the hearing of the case.

THE QUIET MAN IN THE CORNER

S. W. Gillilan in the Los Angeles Herald. I lingered o'er a checker game a night or two ago; The one who played against me seemed to have no ghost of show; I had a bunch of lusty kings that strutted all about And bullied my opponent's man, who dared not venture out. 'Way over in a corner shrunk a timid little man Who stayed right in his station ever since the game began. He watched my crowned heads marching by with banner and with song. And seemed to be discouraged over standing still so long. But pretty soon an opening occurred two blocks away. And not another moment did that little fellow stay. He bounded o'er the board and took three kings in one reel swoop. Then landed in my king row with a wild ecstatic whoop. You've known these quiet fellows that just sat around and thought And never made a noise while the other raged and fought; 'The whole community had come to think of them as dead. Or else so very near it that their hope of fame had fled. The chaps with recognition for their portion pose and strut. And seem to overlook the man who keeps his talker shut. But some day, when most every one's 'lookin' t'other way, This quiet fellow sees a chance to break into the play. He reaches out and grabs things that the others had ignored; He puts into the life-game all the energy he's stored. Through all the years of silence. So you'd better not forget The still man in the corner, for he'll reach the king row yet!
