CONDITIONS OF LIFE

PROF. U. THOMPSON.

At a recent meeting Prof. U. Thompson, of Kamehameha Schools, read the following paper on "Conditions of Life":

Many of you have heard about and thought about most of what I have to say tonight. But the best of us need to be reminded many times. This makes repetition bearable.

I don't care very much whether you remember answers I may give to questions I may ask. But it is important that you keep the questions in mind and think out answers for yourselves. Such thinking may, in time, lead to action.

What do I mean by the conditions of life. To me, the conditions of life mean the chances we have to find regular employment and the pay we get for the work we do; the chances we have to associate with refined men and women, or with debased men and women; the chances we have to become educated, or to remain ignorant; the chances we have to keep in health, or to get disease; to spend our leisure hours in libraries and in healthful exercise, or in the saloons; to be useful, or to be useless.

Who made the conditions under which we live? Our conditions were made by every man and woman who lived before us; and we have done something to help make them for ourselves.

Are we satisfied with our conditions? I know neither man nor woman who would not improve his or her conditions, at once, if it were not so much trouble to do so. But to improve one's conditions means a lot of self-restraint, a lot of self-denial, a lot of self-sacrifice. The majority of men and women are not willing to pay the price; and the result is, our present conditions.

Do we realize that we are making the conditions for every one who is to live after us? Are we willing to leave the conditions just as we found them? The life of the average man and of all above him is one continuous struggle to improve the conditions for himself and for his family, so that his children shall begin life with better conditions than he found.

Then why do the conditions improve so slowly? Because so much of the struggle is along commercial lines. Men know how hard life is and bend every energy to get sufficient means to insure their children against the harder conditions of life.

Then should men give up the accumulation of wealth? No, I would accumulate wealth if I knew how. I wish all men could accumulate wealth. The trouble, or failure is, not in the struggle, for that develops character; nor with the accumulation, for that provides a fund to draw upon, and I cannot imagine too much wealth. The failure comes in the selfishness and in the narrowmindedness. A man is not self-said Lord Chatham, "is a plant of slow growth." People believe in things that they see, and in a broad sense they are right. What is sometimes called blind faith is not faith at all. There must be reason and fact to form a foundation for trust. In regard to a medicine or remedy, for example, people ask, "Has it cured others? Have cases like mine been relieved by it? Is it in harmony with the truths of modern science, and has it a record above suspicion? If so, it is worthy of confidence; and if I am ever attacked by any of the maladies for which it is commended I shall resort to it in full belief in its power to help me." On these lines

WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION has won its high reputation among medical men, and the people of all civilized countries. They trust it for the same reason that they trust in the familiar laws of nature or in the action of common things. This effective remedy is palatable as honey and contains the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. It quickly eradicates the poisonous, disease-breeding acids and other toxic matters from the system; regulates and promotes the normal action of the organs, gives vigorous appetite and digestion, and is infallible in Prostration—following Fevers, etc.—Scrofula, Influenza, Asthma, Wasting Diseases, Throat and Lung Troubles, etc. Dr. W. A. Young, of Canada, says: "Your tasteless preparation of cod liver oil has given me uniformly satisfactory results, my patients having been of all ages." It is a product of the skill and science of to-day and is successful after the old style modes of treatment have been appealed to in vain. Sold by all chemists.

fish simply because he tries to improve conditions for his family; nor narrow-minded simply because he concentrates on one line of thought. To me, a man is selfish when he does not include all mankind in at least the general plans for his family. And he is narrow-minded when his judgment does not show him that as long as there are men and women below the plane he chooses for his children, there are just as good chances for his children to go down as for them to remain where he places them. The law of diffusion is strong; and it extends to human beings. The man who tries to improve conditions for his children and leaves other children under conditions that degrade, does not insure his own children against degradation and want. Degraded men and women drag down all within their reach; and they can reach a long way. Being in a part of the city by themselves does not confine their influence to that part.

Do you say, let them get out of their conditions, let them improve their own conditions? Do you not find it very hard to improve your conditions? But you have incentives to struggle, to persevere. You have assistance and encouragement. Take your successful business men, your successful professional men. They are men of courage and brains and determination and endurance. Yet, in most cases, struggle as they may, success is not assured before they have spent half their courage and endurance. And many struggle on till nearly all of life is gone before they really succeed. True, some of them were born under unfavorable conditions, yet succeeded. But such men inherited, from some source, near or remote, genius,—the one element in human nature that knows no conditions. But these are few in number. Most successful men had favorable conditions in whole or in part. Most men and women, born under unfavorable conditions, do not have half a chance. Bad blood, bad influences, bad sanitation, bad air, poor food, ignorance, dirt, vile companions, lack of incentive, a narrow horizon! The best of us need constant encouragement and constant help.

But what can be done. Change the conditions. For whom, for the children. But the men and women. Let them go. You can't change them. For years, for ages, for—I don't know how long, reformers have spent their strength trying to reform men and women; and have left the conditions to degrade the children into a new crop of the same kind of men and women for later reformers to spend their strength upon. Individuals have reformed. The masses have remained where they were. Saloons and slums are strong schools. Debauched men and women are strong teachers. And as long as these schools are open and the teachers illustrate every step they teach, children will develop as they are taught.

I have been strongly influenced in this matter by reading a little book, called "Merrie England," by Mr. Blatchford. Here are some of the thoughts he gives us on Environment: "Give the people healthful homes, human lives, due leisure and amusement, pure meat and drink, and drunkenness will disappear. While there are slums, while men have so few pure pleasures, while they are undertaught, and while the wealthy brewer can open his poison dens at every corner, it is useless to preach temperance. The late Dean of Manchester spoke like a man of sense when he said that if he lived in the slums, he too would take to drink. Put a number of well disposed people into bad surroundings and compel them to stop there. In a century you will have the kind of people you now find in the slums. Take now a lot of people from the slums and put them in a new country where they must work to live, and in a generation you will have a prosperous and creditable colony. What is the reason. Men are made by their environment. To tell the people they shall have help and love when they quit their vices, is like telling a sick man he shall go to the sea-shore as soon as he gets well.

"Why do the middle and upper classes take so much trouble with the nursing and education of their children? Why do they instill into their young minds principles of honesty, of industry, of virtue, of culture, of cleanliness, of sobriety? Is it not to insure their mental and moral and physical welfare?"

"It seems, then, that even the children of the educated, honest, industrious and virtuous parents, need to be carefully trained and guarded to keep them from falling into idleness and vice. But the child of the slums has none of this. His lot is poverty; his pleasure is in drunkenness and gambling; his future is gloomier than his horrible present. You talk about the virtues! These poor creatures have neither food nor rest, nor air nor light. Now I say give them food and air and light; give them education and give them hope, and they will cease to be vicious and improvident."

REPORT ON M'BRYDE

The Estate Will Be Increased 800 Acres.

Crop Shows Marked Gain Over Others.

W. D. McBryde Retires From the Directorate and T. R. Keyworth Succeeds Him.

The annual meeting of the McBryde Sugar Co. was held yesterday morning. The following officers were elected: President, D. P. R. Isenberg; vice-president, B. F. Dillingham; treasurer, F. M. Swanzy; secretary, T. Clive Davies; auditor, Donald M. Ross; directors, A. M. McBryde, Albert Wilcox, R. W. T. Purvis, J. M. Lydgate and T. R. Keyworth. The only change from last year is the retirement from the directorship of W. D. McBryde, and the election in his place of T. R. Keyworth, formerly auditor, and the choice of Donald M. Ross as auditor.

The report of Manager Stoddart tells of the improvements made during the year and general progress of the plantation. The manager says:

"At this date we have 4,200 acres in cultivation and propose taking in for this year an additional area of about 800 acres which will make the total area in cane this fall about 5,000 acres. In addition to this amount the plantation holds 1,500 to 2,000 acres available for cane.

"Of the area now in cane, 1,000 acres were brought in this last year, 750 acres of which were reached by crossing the Lalaw Valley.

"There was some considerable hesitation about taking this step particularly on the question of putting a railroad across Lalaw valley. The proposition involved the building of three large reservoirs, an expensive piece of railroad work, some eight miles of ditches, over 400 feet of tunnel, considerable fluming and stone clearing and otherwise the expense of bringing into cultivation over 1,000 acres of virgin soil.

"To accomplish this necessitated encroaching upon the reserve of bonds held by the company beyond the original plans of the Directors, but the result has more than justified the step, utilizing as it has a fine expanse of good land, subject to frequent trade wind showers and bringing into use the waters of the Kekeke and Alpo gulches hitherto going to waste and connecting up the rest of the plantation with the Koloa lands where the McBryde Sugar Company has been for some years cultivating over 450 acres of good land and giving the Koloa Sugar Company two-fifths of the sugar for grinding the same. Beginning with the next crop this cane will all come to our own mill.

"The crop for 1902 yielded 8,235 tons, 1,700 pounds, of which 923.10 tons were ground at the mill of the Koloa Sugar Company for which service it was paid out of the yield 371 tons, 1,280 pounds.

"The crop of 1903 now being harvested and consisting of 1,074.19 acres of plant, 434.36 acres of long ratoons and 560.36 acres of short ratoons, is estimated at 12,000 tons. At this writing some 5,300 tons of this yield has been harvested and as it has thus far overrun the estimate, it may be taken for granted that the 12,000 tons will be realized.

"The crop of 1904 consists of 1,475 acres of plant, 455 acres of long ratoons, and 470 acres of short ratoons—total area 2,400 acres which at this date is estimated to yield 13,500 tons.

"The crop of 1905 and now being planted will consist of about 1,200 acres of plant, 1,200 acres of long ratoons, and probably about 300 acres of short ratoons. With a large percentage of long ratoons available for the first time in this crop, it should show a material increase over the preceding crops where short ratoons have of necessity (pending the development of an extensive acreage) figured so largely.
