WATERFRONT

CAPT. KELLEY HAD TURKEY CARGO

Captain Kelley is in town again. He reached here yesterday in his bark Mohican after a thirteen days' run from San Francisco. He brought Dr. Drew as a passenger. With the exception of a heap of trouble with a big cage of turkeys that the vessel had on board the trip was a fine one. The trouble with the turkeys was that part of them were seaisick. If all had been seaisick there would have been no trouble but it seemed that only the gobbler took the mal de mer and all of the hen-turks were in fine fettle throughout the voyage. Just after leaving the Heads the first gobbler got the sea fever. He reeled around the big cage like a drunken man and gobbled away as if he were in a fowl yard. He was evidently trying to strut but for some reason he could not put any dignity in the showing of his feathers. Then there was trouble. The hen-turks nagged at him in a teasing way and although this gobbler had previously been the king of the flock a lean looking bird easily took possession of the whole lot of hens. In succession every gobbler in the lot got seaisick and the same trouble occurred with each. Family relations got all mixed up. Fights were frequent and to end the troubles Captain Kelley, as ship's doctor, had to prepare a prescription to meet the difficulties. Kelley fed the turkeys on cracked ice for a week and now he is in trouble for he must explain how California turkeys get their combs frozen off while going from one warm country to another.

Both Steamers for New York.

The steamer Pennsylvania, Captain Boggs, arrived from Kaanapali yesterday afternoon. At that port the vessel had loaded 2900 tons of sugar and came to Honolulu to clear for New York. Captain Boggs is well known here. He made six trips by way of this port to Manila as commander of the transport Ohio during 1898. The Pennsylvania belongs to the same firm as the steamer Conemaugh, which is just finishing loading here. Both vessels leave in a couple of days for the same destination and will probably sail pretty close together all the way to New York. They are only medium sized carriers for the round the Horn sugar trade and will call at Coronel and St. Lucia to coal. It is understood that the vessels will remain on the Atlantic coast in future.

Maul Has Ca-go of Rails.

Steamer Maui was at the Pacific Mail wharf yesterday loading a cargo of three hundred tons of light steel rails for the Hawaii Railway Co. These are to be put ashore at Mahukona, to which place the Maui will sail at five o'clock Monday afternoon.

JOHNSON DISPLACES WILSON

Captain Sam Johnson assumed control of the Road Supervisor's department at 12 noon yesterday, vice Charles B. Wilson, whose services were dispensed with by Superintendent Holloway. The change was effected after the receipt of the letter, spoken of in yesterday's Advertiser, from the Republican Territorial Central Committee, containing the result of its deliberations on Friday regarding Wilson. The letter strongly endorsed Johnson.

Charles Wilson was notified of the result of the same meeting in a letter from the committee as follows: "I am instructed to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 21st inst., and would state that the Executive Committee of the Territorial Central Committee of the Republican party took no action at its meeting held this day regarding the continuance or non-continuance of yourself in office." Wilson made reply to Chairman Crabbe as follows: "Sir: I hereby appeal, under Article VI, Section 7, of the Rules and Regulations of the Republican party, from the action of the Executive Committee, had on the 19th inst., and on this day upon the matter of my continuance in the office of Road Supervisor, upon the following grounds, to-wit: "First. Upon the grounds set forth in my letter to yourself, dated January 21st, 1904, hereto annexed and marked Exhibit A, and made a part hereof; and upon the further grounds, namely: "Second. That the action of said Executive Committee upon said letter was illegal. "Third. That the action of said committee in proceeding to consider and decide said matter of my continuance in office in my absence, after the receipt of said letter, was illegal. "Fourth. That the consideration of this matter in secret session was illegal. "Fifth. That the final decision in secret session of any matter affecting the substantial rights of a Republican and the omission thereof from public record, is illegal."

Superintendent Holloway in a personal interview notified Wilson that a change in the Road Department was necessary and he thereupon deprived him of his office, conferring it immediately upon Johnson.

Wilson says that he intends to fight the action taken by the executive committee. Sam Johnson, who will be at the head of the combined road and garbage departments, on taking office, got rid of the "hoodoo chair." As so many of his predecessors have been unfortunate, and all have used the same chair, Johnson declined to take it, and freed it out of the office.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Ah Chong, a storekeeper on Fort street, was arrested last night by Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth on a charge of selling liquor without a license.

There will be no service in St. Clement's church this evening that all may attend the diocesan missionary meeting to be held in St. Andrew's cathedral.

Attorney General Andrews will bring suit during the week to wind up the affairs of the Fidelity Insurance Company. A receiver will be asked for, to be appointed by the Circuit Court, and the revocation of the company's charter will also be asked.

George Smithies is said to have entered the race for the Assessorship. Mr. Smithies is now the Deputy Insurance Commissioner, and previous to his present position, held a billet in the tax office. Theodore Lansing says he is not working for the place, although he is said to have the backing of Governor Carter.

It is said that Chairman Crabbe is considering a call for a primary election for a convention to select delegates to the national convention. If the call is issued it will be for April and the convention may be held in Hilo. It is quite probable that the convention would effect a re-organization of the central and executive committees of the Republican party.

Mrs. Owens' Last Writings.

The late Mrs. Francis E. Owens, who lost her life in the Iroquois fire, was a frequent contributor to the suburban Chicago press. The evening before the fire she wrote for the Woodlawn Observer an article from which this extract is made: "In all households some unlooked for change is liable to take place before the close of the year just opening. There may be a vacant chair at the 1904 Christmas board that was filled today. We may exclaim in our anguish, 'O! if I could but have known.' We only know that today is here and is our own to do and say as we please. The harsh word is quickly spoken and pierces the heart like a dagger. If in an unguarded moment one comes to our lips, let us nip it and prevent utterance." The Observer has an editorial tribute to Mrs. Owens headed, "Keep Her Memory Sacred;" and the Woodlawn Women's Club held a memorial meeting. Miss Ivy Owens, the surviving daughter, has brought a $10,000 damage suit against the proprietors of the Iroquois theater and the city of Chicago.

New Twins on the Waterfront.

Testimony was given before Judge Dole in the Federal Court yesterday afternoon which indicates that there is a new set of "Heavenly Twins" in the sailor shipping business on the waterfront. William McCarthy and Frank J. Turk are the twins. McCarthy was on trial for detaining the clothes of a sailor, William Fowler. For his defense, McCarthy put in the following document: "I hereby sell my—containing personal effects etc., to Turk and McCarthy for the sum of five (5) dollars. Should I at any time desire my clothes bought back, I agree to pay the above amount."

"WILLIAM FOWLER, "Seaman."

There was considerable argument as to whether this constituted a sale or was simply a scheme for getting around the law which prohibits the detention of a sailor's clothes. Judge Dole took the matter under advisement.

Dole Goes to Hilo.

The Hilo session of the Federal Court will be opened next Wednesday by Judge Dole. When the Kinau sails for Hilo next Tuesday the Judge will be accompanied by Assistant District Attorney Dunne, Deputy U. S. Marshal Frank Winter and Deputy District Court Clerk Hatch. With the grand and petit jurors from Honolulu the party will be about forty strong. Judge Dole expects to return to Honolulu about ten days after the hearing. Judge Dole thanked the trial jurors yesterday morning for their work during the session just ended.

Avoid South Africa.

H. B. M. Consul W. R. Hoare desires to bring to the notice of intending emigrants from this Territory to Cape Colony and South Africa that, owing to the present condition of trade there, no one without ample means or prospect of immediate employment, should think of carrying out such intention.

The Consul has been officially informed that numbers of skilled artisans and others have been thrown out of work, and that fresh arrivals accentuate the position; and he deems it his duty therefore to make this notification.

Special Music at St. Andrew's

Today being the Sunday in Convocation Week when all the clergy from the other Islands are in Honolulu, the following music will be sung at the 11 o'clock service at the cathedral: Communion service, Garrett in E flat; anthem, The Wilderness (Goss). In the evening at 7:30 the music will be Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, Winchester in F; anthem, The Wilderness, Goss.

Parish Reception.

A parish reception for the Bishop and visiting clergy will be held at the Sunday school room of St. Andrew's cathedral on Tuesday evening, 26th inst., and all are cordially invited to be present. Particularly is the invitation extended to the men of the parishes and others interested. A program has been arranged which will contribute to the enjoyment of the evening.

CARTER'S HAWAII TOUR

under lease to Akina, a Chinese, who has it in rice cultivation. Not all of the 3500 acres of course; for the greater part of the land is unavailable for cultivation, being both rocky and hilly. It is now inaccessible by sea. The present lease expires some time this year, but it is safe to say that the Bishop Estate offer will not be accepted. Akina also wants a new lease on Pololu Valley and the adjoining valley.

A KAMEHAMEHA DITCH.

From Pololu the party rode back a few miles where was shown a ditch of the workmanship, supposedly of the time of the first Kamehameha. It was as much of a work of art as some of the more pretentious wooden and stone tunnels of today, and in those days served its purpose very well. The ditch, or rather tunnel, for it is dug through solid earth and in some instances hard lava, is several miles in length and is hollowed out at a depth of thirty or forty feet. Stone and wood instruments were used in the work, and it must have required years to complete it. The ditch level was reached by digging out a hole, hardly large enough for one man to work comfortably, and he dug on through to the next excavation. There are dozens of these large holes and a stream of pure water still runs through the ditch.

AT THE KOHALA CLUB.

The next stop was at the Kohala Clubhouse, where the party rested for an hour. All along the way natives on foot and on horseback were met and every now and then the Governor stopped to greet children or old men and women, who placed leis of malle and roses about his neck.

THE LUAU.

The luau was a most elaborate affair, the party arriving there about eleven o'clock, the Governor being given a noisy demonstration by the assembled natives. Old Honolulu friends were met in the person of Senator Kaohi and Representative Kaniho, both members of the present legislature, and Deputy Sheriff Stillman, formerly court interpreter for Judge Humphreys. Other men notable at the gathering were W. P. McDougall, Judge Atkins, O. P. Tulloch, Henry Hooke, A. K. Eldridge, R. K. Naipo, and others equally prominent. The girls of Kohala Seminary, with the teachers, all clad in the pretty blue dress of the school, were on hand in a body. They were responsible in a large measure for the decoration of the court house and for the luau, which was gotten up on one day's notice.

The interior of the court house was hung with malle and ferns, and the tables were covered with ferns, while at each place was a fiery red hibiscus. The good things to eat were piled upon the spread of ferns; poi, roast pork, fish and all the usual Hawaiian delicacies, being dishes in plenty. The Rev. S. W. Kekuewa, chaplain at the regular session of the House, said grace, while everyone stood.

Governor Carter with Secretary Atkinson sat at the head of one of the side tables, while in the center were the bright young ladies of the seminary. The tables were set in a square with the girls in the center. Five different times were the tables filled, and over one hundred were accommodated at each sitting. But the supplies lasted through to the end. After several hours of feasting the crowd gathered outside the court house and were given an opportunity to tell of the needs of the district.

KANIHO TALKS.

To Representative Kaniho, the well known author of the famous lady-dog bill, was given the honor of presiding at the meeting. He introduced the Governor in a few brief remarks.

CARTER TALKS IN HAWAIIAN.

Governor Carter talked both in Hawaiian and English, H. L. Holstein acting as interpreter for the English speech. The natives were immensely tickled at being addressed in their own language and they applauded vociferously.

"I have been appointed as Governor of the islands. As you see I am a young man; I have not a full command of the Hawaiian language, but I can understand it better. I am working for the best interests of the country and I know that I can rely on you for your assistance."

THE ENGLISH ADDRESS.

"I am exceedingly gratified to have the first public reception ever tendered to me as Governor of Hawaii, given almost exclusively by Hawaiians," said the Governor, "because I feel that I am afraid or bashful as when among white people. I feel a good deal as you feel and you must not feel shy with me. If any of you come to Honolulu, go upstairs in the Capitol building and I will be glad to see you at any time. (Three cheers and applause.) "That's the boy," said the crowd. "He's our boy."

"The new administration is one that desires to serve the people. We are public servants, I am the servant of you all; you see that any servant who has so many masters cannot do things to please all of them, but I hope to please the hapanul (majority) and if there is any public servant, any man drawing a salary from the Territorial government that treats one of you, the humblest of you, in a way improper and without due consideration, I will consider it a favor if you will let me know, for we will have none of those men in the employ of the government. "The law is not out of the reach of the poorest and most humble man, nor is the richest and most powerful above it. "After I am through here, I want to hear from you, the people, I do not want to monopolize all the time but there are a few things I want to know from you—I wish to know what your wants are. "The new administration does not have the wisdom of the old, but I hope it will have the energy to bring prosperity and wealth to Hawaii in a larger measure than in the past. I want a legislature next time that will work with the executive for the best interests of the people of Hawaii. The representatives you have already sent, have come back and told you of the difficulties they have met there. Now I want to make those difficulties as light and easy as possible for them.

There are a great many important improvements and laws that we require and we need all to work together. I want to give the representatives that you send there the benefit of the experience I have gained in handling your affairs—at the same time I want from your representatives the knowledge that they will bring of your wishes. We want besides our schools and good roads, law and order maintained, and we also want if possible some reduction in the expenses and the lightening of the burden of taxation. "When I look around and see you all, you representative men of the soil, you men who labor, it gives me the greatest satisfaction to be among you. "The object of my visit is to get acquainted with you. It is easier for me to come to you than it is for you to go to Honolulu. I want to meet you, get acquainted with you and find out your needs. "I hope that during my administration, Divine Providence will so guide my acts that when I retire at the end of four years there will be many of you Hawaiians who will feel that the Territorial government is a good government—is one that satisfies and pleases you. And I hope that you will be patriotic and help me in every way you can. "Now to you old gentlemen that are in this audience, with your gray hairs to which we all show respect—born under the Hawaiian flag, reared under it, and filled with an aloha for it, I say to you that I respect the aloha you have for it and if you want that flag to be your Territorial flag and fly over your buildings, I say let it fly; but we say also to you that a change has come here, and the wisest and best men believe that change is for your benefit.

TALK WITH ROOSEVELT.

"In one of the few conversations I had with the President of the United States, Theodore Roosevelt, he said to me, 'I want an administration in Hawaii that respects, satisfies and pleases the people of that country who were born there. I want the children born in Hawaii to grow up to respect and revere the Stars and Stripes; and so I say, I hope at the end of my four years, I will find Hawaiians—grown-up young men, who, when asked what they are, will not say as so many of them say, 'We are Hawaiians,' but will say, 'We are Americans,' and a part of that great union which has done so much to raise humanity up and done so much for the races of every color and every age and every clime. "Now as I close I will be very glad indeed if Mr. Holstein will call on some of you to tell me of your wants. Do you want new roads or new wharves, or new schoolhouses or new buildings? Or do you want new homesteads—or what? "I want to again thank you for the hospitality you have shown. It is characteristic of Hawaii. Their hospitality is equalled by no other people and I want to tell you that no matter what comes I will not forget you nor the way you have come out here today. It gives me the greatest encouragement and if the Hawaiian people will work with me I will do everything in my power for their benefit. Our delegate in Congress was a schoolmate of mine and it gave me the greatest of pleasure to help elect him. Now that he is in Congress it gives me great pleasure to write to him and give him all the assistance I can. I believe he will accomplish as much in Congress as any individual can. Aloha." (Prolonged applause.)

SOME PILIKIA.

Na'ili, a native, next had the floor, and talked of the needs of the valley beyond Pololu which he said was in "pilikia." He evidently didn't like it because the party didn't go there and investigate.

SENATOR KAOHI TALKS.

Senator Kaohi said in part: "Let us not take into consideration the fact that the Governor is the progeny of a missionary. He was born in Hawaii and is a Hawaiian and we should do all we can to help him."

WHERE IS COUNTY ACT?

"I want to ask one question," said Ben, a native who had no other name. "That is, why was the County Act knocked out? Can the Governor explain that?" "I only wish I knew," replied the Governor. "If I knew I might find a way of changing it, because I have always stood for the County Act—I always believed the government was too centralized; and if we can get a County Act through Congress we are going to try and do it. If we fail in Congress, like the man who falls down, we can only get up and try again."

"HE IS WITH US."

"I have heard the governor's answer," said Ben, "and I can see he is with us for county government and I trust my impertinence will be pardoned." Joe Hussey also spoke in Hawaiian, saying that as the governor favored the district as the first one to be visited he knew he would help the people of Kohala.
