APPEALS ON INCOME TAX
Assessor Pratt Carries Cases to Supreme Court.
 J. W. Pratt, tax assessor for the first division, has filed in the Supreme Court six appeals from decisions of the Tax Appeal Court on income tax cases. The particulars are as follows:
 E. O. Hall & Son, Ltd., appealed on $10,320.60, under the exemption clause of "losses otherwise actually incurred," being a loss incurred by the failure of the Kona Sugar Co., Ltd. The court below sustained the appeal.
 The First American Savings & Trust Co. of Hawaii appealed on $13,981.47, under the clause of "actual losses incurred in trade," being a loss incurred on a note of M. W. McChesney & Sons. The court below sustained the appeal for the full amount.
 The First National Bank of Hawaii appealed on $24,275, under the clause of "actual losses incurred in trade," being the amount of a loss of $19,275 on a note of M. W. McChesney & Sons and a loss of $5000 by depreciation in the market value of certain United States bonds. The Tax Appeal Court sustained the appellant as to the note, but the assessor as to the bonds.
 Castle & Cooke, Ltd., appealed on $26,233.19, under "actual losses incurred in trade," the loss stated having been caused by the collapse of the Hawaiian Automobile Co. The appellant was sustained for the full amount.
 C. Brewer & Co., Ltd., appealed on $3887.28, under "losses otherwise actually incurred," of which $3843.88 was lost on a note of the Kona Sugar Co. and $43.40 on A. B. McClellan account. The appellant was sustained on both items.
 The Western and Hawaiian Trust Co., Ltd., appealed on $663.50, under "losses otherwise actually incurred," for a loss incurred in a certain foreclosure sale. The appeal was sustained for the full amount.

DISCIPLINE OF JAP SOLDIERS
 people truly are like mosquitoes and fleas—they bite, but what's that? It just itches a bit, that's all. It doesn't kill."
 Most Samurai, it is true, did not rise to the magnanimity of a Count Katsuj; they erred more on the side of killing too much than of killing too little, but the killing did not come from a thirst for blood, but from a sense of honor—over-sensitive at times—from the daring of courage, and from the sternest sense of duty and loyalty.
 The whole training of the Samurai went to the building up of his character—not to the cultivation of his intelligence, or his tastes as such. Religion and theology were left to the priests. Science was outside his sphere. Literature was to him a pastime, while philosophy he regarded only as a practical aid in the formation of character. The Samurai was a man of action, and so his training was chiefly in fencing, archery, jujitsu, horsemanship, and the use of the spear. He learned calligraphy, ethics, literature and history. But a mind stored with information was not greatly admired. The Samurai valued decision of character, not superiority of intelligence; and all their education and training had this practical end so much in view that the Samurai became the best fighting unit of the Orient, if not of the world. His code might almost be summed up in the words of one of them, for it was, indeed, to know "how to die when it was right to die, how to strike when it was right to strike," for which the Samurai strove. This is the spirit, which, handed down through generations of dead warriors, forms today the training at the back of the Japanese officer.

CARE OF JEWELS.
 People who have jewels should remember that if turquoises are wet they are apt to lose color. Pearls should be exposed to light and air as much as possible, but not to dampness. Opals must never be exposed to great heat, or they may crack and fall from their setting. Don't forget this when warming your hands at the fire if you happen to wear an opal ring.

W. C. T. U. DRINKING FOUNTAIN AT CENTRAL UNION CHURCH
Local Branch Plans for One to Cost About $75.
"Endless Chain" Movement Against the Cigarette Habit Condemned.

The meeting of the W. C. T. U. yesterday afternoon was attended by less than half a dozen members, and the business portion of the meeting was therefore very informal. The president, Mrs. J. M. Whitney, announced that it was Willard day, a day observed by every W. C. T. U. organization in memorializing the departed leader, Miss Willard.
 Mrs. Whitney read a few of Miss Willard's most pertinent remarks on temperance and gave some data concerning the W. C. T. U. movement in general.
 It was reported that the plan for placing a W. C. T. U. drinking fountain at the Central Union church corner was progressing, and the cost has been estimated at $75.
 One of the members, previous to the meeting, exhibited an "endless chain" card, ostensibly relating to a movement against the cigarette habit. The member stated that her attention had been recently called to this special chain on the ground that it was spurious and had so advised the lady who had sent her a card urging her to notify four of her friends, etc. The card was as follows:
 A National League has been formed against the cigarette habit, and a mammoth petition is to be sent to Congress, containing clause and address, that a law shall be passed, prohibiting the sale of cigarettes to minors. Will you please send a copy of this card to four of your women friends, signed by yourself, and this card to M. S. Coval Society, Philadelphia, Pa., enclosed write your address. Do not fail to do this, otherwise the chain would be broken, and the object for which this is written would be defeated. No money asked for. Please be prompt.
 With reference to this "endless chain" Josiah W. Leeds makes the following statement in the last issue of the Union Signal:
 Information was given by the writer some months ago relative to the chain letter scheme professedly in promotion of a mammoth petition to Congress against the sale of cigarettes to minors. It was shown that this chain had been running on for quite awhile without accomplishing anything except to increase the sale of stamps and postal cards, the mail matter not being received as addressed in Philadelphia and not being called for, and largely going down to the dead letter office. Meanwhile the chain continues to run, and effort and expense to keep it going are thrown away. Within a few weeks it has been publicly stated that benevolently disposed people in the country had taken up the aforesaid scheme to help, as they hoped, the general good.
 Desiring to ascertain to what extent the scheme was yet active, a request was sent last month to the dead letter office at Washington for specific information. Reply has been received from First Assistant Postmaster General Wynne, that inasmuch as no record is kept at the dead letter office of ordinary letters which do not contain enclosures of intrinsic value, the inquiry had been transmitted to the Philadelphia post-office. Following is a copy of the report thereupon submitted to the department by Postmaster Clayton McMichael:
 "Referring to your communication of December 23, inviting attention to an enclosure from Josiah Leeds, 528 Walnut street, this city, and to postal card accompanying it (a chain letter sample), addressed to Deborah Leeds, West Chester, Pa., relating to mail addressed to imaginary titles in Philadelphia relating to an effort to prohibit the sale of cigarettes to minors, etc., you are respectfully advised that this mail was originally addressed to 'United St. James Society, 1423 Chestnut street.' Now it is received addressed to about one dozen different titles among them the following: 'The U. S. Moral Society,' 'The U. S. Naval Society,' 'U. S. Normal Society,' 'U. S. National Society,' 'U. S. Marshall Society,' 'National League Moral Society,' 'U. S. Ward,' etc.
 "About nine thousand pieces of mail each week are received at this office for this society, of which about six thousand and five hundred pieces are sent to the dead letter office weekly, which includes about two thousand postal cards. The balance is card mail and is returned to writer. The first return of this matter to the dead letter office was made August 1, 1902, and included but one hundred and fifteen pieces."
 Now, if we add the product of this irresponsible mail device during the four months succeeding the date just given, while it was rapidly receiving accelerated momentum, to the product for the year 1903, it would probably be fair to assume that the rate at which the scheme is now working would have averaged the 9,000 pieces for each week of the twelve months. This would give us a total of 468,000 pieces of mail matter, and all "accomplishing nothing." It is to be hoped, with this public showing, the effort to break the chain will be successful. It would appear to be the place of the government to give general notice through the Associated Press that the "chain" has no responsible owner, and that the public need not purchase its stamps and postal cards just for the pleasure of keeping it moving.

LEAP YEAR BALL LAST GAY FUNCTION OF THE SEASON

Last but not least of the gay social functions of the season, before Lent shall cast its shadow, was the Leap Year dance given last evening at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel. The lanais were picturesque in their decorations of Oriental lanterns, flags and greenery, added to which was the kaleidoscopic dazle of beautiful gowns worn by the gayest of Honolulu's society set.
 All conditions of the ballroom etiquette were reversed, for the only wall-flowers on this occasion were the gentlemen, the ladies taking upon themselves, pro tempore, the guise of gentlemen in that they sought out partners for the waltz, deux temps and the fascinating figures of the cotillon, escorted the manly sex to their seats, and chose the dim corners for tete-a-tetes. The punchbowl was the possession of the fair sex, and woe betide the man who so much as dared offer to escort fair maid or matron to its brimming depths, for the toasts were given by the women. When a dance was struck up by the Hawaiian orchestra there was a swishing of silks and satins as the gentler sex tripped through the hallways and out upon the rear verandas in search of their partners.
 It was one of the merriest gatherings in Honolulu in many a day or night, and being the last social function for forty days to come, the most was made of the opportunity to have a good time. Dancing began late—it was about ten when the opening waltz was started—and the last measures were not trod until after the stroke of midnight. It was a pretty scene upon the Waikiki lanais and in the parlor where the guests danced. Row upon row of Oriental lanterns suspended from the ceilings, danced in the light breeze, almost keeping time to the tripping feet upon the floors. Flags, maile and flowers completed a beautiful tropical scene. Punch and refreshments were served on the Ewa lanais.
 The cotillon figures were pretty and unique, one being the "Heart and the Arrow." The ladies formed upon the floor as the outline of a huge heart. A line of gentlemen, making the arrow, darted through the heart and partners were carried off as the arrow sped its course. The dancing programs were on red heart-shaped cards, and the ladies chosen by the gentlemen for the "Gentlemen's Privilege Dance," wore small hearts suspended about their necks with white baby ribbons.
 The guests were received by Mrs. E. D. Tenney, Mrs. Percy Benson, Mrs. C. C. Perkins, Mrs. Mary Gunn and Mrs. Wilder. They were assisted by Mrs. Paul Neumann, Mrs. King, Mrs. H. R. Macfarlane, Mrs. Helen Noonan, Mrs. Belle Jones and Mrs. George W. Macfarlane.

LANDSLIDE OF PUNCHBOWL FILLS UP A LOWER ROAD
 During the heavy storms of last week there was a landslide on the Makiki side of Punchbowl which stripped the old volcano of several tons of earth. The debris slid down the hill and filled up the lower road which leads from Pensacola street to the United States Experiment Station.
 The earth gave way on the upper, or regular, Punchbowl drive. A retaining wall was undermined and forced out of position by the floods. The earth behind this then broke loose and rolled down the hill, clearing a path several rods in width.
 The Experiment Station force removed the debris from the road yesterday afternoon and it is again open for traffic.
