GRAVEYARD INSURANCE

Masonic Concern Takes Risk That Others Decline.

A contest over insurance money of $3000, less a small banking charge for collection, left by the late Allan B. Scrimgeour, occupied the attention of Judge Robinson most of yesterday. The amount was collected by the administrator, David Dayton, under two certificates of $2000 and $1000 respectively, issued by the Western Masonic Mutual Benefit Association. Cecil Brown appeared for the administrator, whose legal adviser he had been throughout. W. A. Whiting and Robins B. Anderson appeared for the creditors of the estate, and Royal D. Mead of Smith & Lewis for two nephews of the deceased. The last mentioned are Allan B. and Harold, sons of the late R. S. Scrimgeour, who died here a short time before his brother, whose estate is now the subject of controversy. They are just entering manhood and live at Oakland, Cal.

The creditors claim that the insurance money is part of the estate of the deceased for regular administration. On the other hand, the nephews claim, as sole heirs, to be entitled to the whole amount. Their reliance is on the wording of the certificates and the tenor of the by-laws of the Masonic benefit concern, which, it is claimed, make payment of the insurance to the heirs at law obligatory.

Mr. Brown testified to the advice and direction he had given to the administrator and to the collection of the money through the First National Bank of Hawaii, of which he is president. The drafts having been paid by the National Bank of Yankton, South Dakota.

Mr. Dayton gave evidence of his doings in the matter of correspondence, including a letter from Oakland warning him that he was subject to "fine and imprisonment" if he did not immediately pay over the money to the heirs. He answered a question, saying he did not inform the association that he was proceeding to collect the money as a trustee for the heirs.

John S. Walker testified that he was a partner of A. B. Scrimgeour and knew from personal discussion with him when alive that he sought life insurance for the benefit of his creditors. None of the regular insurance companies would insure his life, but a man named Woolley dropped into town representing the Western Masonic Mutual Benefit Association. According to the witness there was not much trouble in obtaining the two certificates of insurance already mentioned through Mr. Woolley's agency.

The insured man, it was shown by exhibits at the hearing, had paid but a little more than $50 in membership fees and premiums before he died.

THE LAST DAYS OF REV. T. L. GULICK

The friend, which was issued yesterday, contains the following about the last days and death of the Rev. Thomas L. Gulick, who accompanied the late S. T. Alexander to Africa:

Mombasa, British E. Africa, August 21, 1904. Dear Mrs. Gulick:— After three months' absence in the interior of this great continent Annie and I are back again here at Mombasa. I am pleased to report that we are both in very good health and are starting for South Africa. From Cape Town we will take a steamer to England and I hope to see you about the first of November next.

I wrote you at length from the north extremity of Lake Baringo after receiving the overwhelming news of poor Tom's death. The first news was stunning, but if anything, the sense of bereavement and loss has grown upon me. I can realize how lonely and sad you must feel without his kindly face and cheery presence. I feel now that I more fully appreciate Tom's worth. There is no one that will fill his place. During the rest of my brief life that remains to me, notwithstanding my family ties and friends, there will be an aching void which nothing can fill.

On the first receipt of the sad news my first impulse was to abandon my caravan and rush off to Kijabi, but on reflection I realized that there would be nothing gained by doing so. Tom was gone, and I could not bring him back to life again. I had gone to great expense in collecting a gang of men and provisions; more than that, Annie was with me and I had to consider her in the matter, so we concluded to leave out the trip to Lake Albert Nyanza, Ruwenzori and the Toro country, and visit only Gushen Gishu and Lake Victoria Nyanza.

Well, we have had two months of wild life. We have been among wild tribes and wild animals. We have heard the lions roar by day and by night and we have chased them and shot them, too. We have seen vast herds of giraffes and zebras. We have killed rhinos and elephants, besides specimens of most all the animals in this country. Annie will have skulls and skins by the dozen for the University of California. She has taken a great many photographs, too; several in which Tom appears, too; several which Tom appears, too; several in which Tom appears, too; several in which Tom appears, too.

She has taken a great many photographs, too; several in which Tom appears, too; several in which Tom appears, too; several in which Tom appears, too.

After leaving Entebbe we went direct to Kijabi and spent four days with the Hurlburts. I was amazed to find that Mr. Hurlbert had not written you the particulars of Tom's last illness. I took it for granted that he would do so. At my request he sat right down and wrote you. Annie has taken photographs of the house and people and of the lovely spot where Tom rests, which we will take to you on our return. Where Tom rests is indeed a beautiful spot, but, oh! the inexpressible sadness that came over me as I looked on his grave. I almost wished that I slept beside him. "Oh! for the touch of a vanished hand and the sound of a voice that is still."

I was very much pleased with the Hurlburts. They are kindness itself and most devoted people. I felt at home the moment I came under their friendly roof. All the children, five in number, are very interesting. If I love ever dwell in a home it does in that. I concluded from all that I could learn, that Tom did not suffer much, except for a brief period when the inflammation set in. He was cheerful and happy, and expected to get well. His sudden break-down and entire collapse I do not understand. I always thought he had more vigor and vitality than I. Of the two, I thought he would last longer. Without doubt, his bowel trouble on the way to Nairobi, must have had something to do with it. I remember that while we were at the Nakuru station, we took a walk down to the lake, some four miles distant, and Tom seemed quite exhausted by the trip. I begged him on this occasion, not to attempt the trip to Baringo unless he felt fully equal to it. I am satisfied that he felt that he ought to give it up, but poor fellow, he wanted to be with us and join in the fun. Later on his hip gave out, and I started him back in a stretcher, but he had not been carried many miles before he concluded to return. If he had come back then, I think his life might have been saved.

I have been gathering his things together. His baggage I will send as freight through Anderson and Mayer to Alexander & Baldwin, 82 Wall Street, New York, who will be instructed to forward it to you. Hoping to find a letter from you at Cape Town, I remain as ever, Most sincerely yours, SAMUEL T. ALEXANDER.

Notes from letter of Rev. Charles E. Hurlbert of Kijabi to Mrs. A. W. Gulick, of August 16, 1904. Mr. Hurlbert went to the Kijabi station on June 10, to meet Mr. Gulick whom he found quite prostrated. He had consulted physicians at Nakuru and Kaivasha, all of whom agreed that he only needed rest and milk diet to be all right in two or three days. The train was run two miles near to the mission station, and Mr. Gulick was carried the remaining half mile in a hammock. He was delighted to find rest among friends, felt quite comfortable, and rested well that night. On the morning of the 11th he was very cheerful, and asked many questions about the missionary work. But in the afternoon the bowel trouble recurred with much pain, and temperature 102 degrees. The pain was promptly relieved by hot applications. Mr. Hurlbert at once sent a messenger to the mission doctor, who was 24 miles away. Dr. Henderson lost his way in coming, and did not arrive till 11:30 p. m. of Sunday, the 12th, when Mr. Gulick was quite comfortable. He seemed much improved, on Monday and took broth with relish. On the 15th, at noon, the doctor pronounced the disease absolutely under control, and that his presence was no longer needed. But about 4 p. m. the patient experienced a sudden change and fell into a rapid collapse from which all possible restoratives only slightly rallied him.

He was buried on the 16th in a lovely spot under the cedars and wild olives. Besides Mr. Hurlbert and the doctor, Messrs. Stauffacher and William Judd were present to bear the coffin. Mr. Hurlbert addressed the whites and Dr. Henderson the natives, and "after prayer and song, 'Jesus calls us o'er the tumult of our life's wild restless sea,' we laid the body to rest."

Owing to desire to keep the patient quiet, and to expectation of his speedy recovery, all statement about Mr. Gulick's own family had been postponed, and Mr. Hurlbert was able to report his death only to his companion, Mr. S. T. Alexander, then far in the interior. Not until two months later did Mr. Alexander's arrival cause the letter to Mrs. Gulick to be written.

An Enjoyable Outing.

The most attractive day's outing is that afforded by the excursion down the railroad line. The HALEIWA LIMITED, a first-class train, leaves Honolulu every Sunday morning at 8:22 o'clock making the run in two hours, the rate for round trip being only $2.00. From 10:22 a. m. until 8:10 p. m. is spent at the beautiful HOTEL HALEIWA, with fresh and salt water bathing, tennis, golf drives and walks, shooting or fishing and you are back in town at 10:10 o'clock in the evening.

FUTURE SPANISH KINGS.

The Infanta Eulalia of Spain, who made so agreeable an impression when she visited this country on the occasion of the Columbian exposition at Chicago, with her pretty coquetry and the insignificance of her husband counted in, has determined to bring up her two sons, Alfonso, and Luis, not in Spain, but where they may learn quite different things from those that priest-ridden country can teach. They have been for six years at Beaumont college near Windsor, a Roman Catholic Eton, as it were; and now she has sent them to Heidelberg university. The boys are now respectively 15 and 16 years old, and trained in British and German athletics, they are better men than Spain could turn out with its still medieval methods. If either of them should succeed to the crown of Spain—and that is quite possible—there might be a great improvement in the Spanish monarchy. Though, after all, the queen regent, during the minority of King Alfonso, has given a fair example of regnant genius.

RED LINE BOATS STOP AT FANNING

The Vancouver Province of Wednesday had the following interesting note about the present trip of the steamer Moana:

The fears of the Dominion Government postal authorities that if the steamships of the Canadian-Australian line, plying between Vancouver and Sydney, were allowed to call at Fanning island the mail service would be disadvantageously affected, appear to have been groundless if the voyage of the steamship Moana may be used as a criterion.

The first call at Fanning island, the bare little rock which forms a resting place in mid-Pacific just above the Equator for the British Pacific cable, was made by the steamship Moana on Sunday. A message stating the arrival and departure of the Moana was received from Fanning island to-day via the British cable. The Moana reached Fanning island on Sunday morning and left after a stop of a couple of hours, during which time supplies of mails were sent ashore to the cable operators. Six calls per annum on north-bound trips are to be made at Fanning island by the Canadian-Australian liners. Notwithstanding the run of two hundred miles out of her regular track to call at Fanning island the Moana is on time and she is scheduled to touch at Honolulu to-day and to arrive here a week from to-morrow.

The Moana is coming from Sydney this voyage under command of Capt. John Gibb, who succeeded Capt. Carey, who retired some months ago when the vessel was laid up at Sydney for an overhauling. This will be the first call of the Moana at this port for many months. While off the route the Moana was replaced by the steamship Manuka, which made three trips on the run.

Capt. Gibb, although long in the service of the Union Steamship Company on the coasts of New Zealand and Australia, is making his first acquaintance with the ports of call on the Canadian-Australian route. He had never been at Brisbane previous to taking the Moana in there on his present trip. All the other ports of call were likewise new to Capt. Gibb, but notwithstanding he is making the best of time. At the Hawaiian islands the Moana will take on 500 tons of raw sugar consigned to the British Columbia Sugar Refining Company at this port.—Victoria Colonist, Nov. 19.

O. S. S. SONOMA GETS AWAY LATE

The Sonoma resumed her voyage to the Colonies shortly before three yesterday afternoon. Upon her arrival here she was expected to get away at nine in the morning, but delay in getting out the freight held her up.

The Sonoma had about 800 tons of freight for this port, there being about a dozen buoys for Captain Niblack, the Lighthouse Inspector.

The delay in getting out the freight was caused by the poor judgment of the stevedores in San Francisco. Sydney freight was piled on top of that for this port, and another fault was in putting the majority of the freight in one place, necessitating slow work. Work on unloading began at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and went on steadily until the time the Sonoma sailed.

Through passengers were hanging around from nine o'clock in the morning, waiting for the vessel to sail. The band was not in attendance and the long wait was extremely monotonous. Only six passengers joined the Sonoma at this port.

Shipping Notes.

The Maui is at the Bishop slip being overhauled. The Petrel left San Diego for this port Nov. 26th and should have arrived before this. The small island schooner Kaukae-aouli is on the ways being coppered and generally overhauled. The Nihaui arrived very early yesterday morning from Anahola. After getting rid of her freight she went to the Bishop slip.

The Erskine M. Phelps shows signs of getting ready to leave. The first coat of white paint is now being put on over the red. The bark Kalulani sailed Thursday for the coast with the first sugar of the new season. She did not take anywhere near a full load. The Iwalani is being overhauled preparatory to a trip to Midway with a cargo of supplies for the marine guard that is to be stationed there. She will not depart for a week at least, as the supplies arrive on the Alameda next Friday.

There are 12,541 bags of sugar on Kauai ready for shipment divided as follows: K. S. M., 1000 bags; V. K., 800; Mak., 5380; G. & R., 366; McE., 675; K. S. Co., 4300. Practically all the plantations are now grinding. Two Pacific Mail steamers are due this morning, the Mongolia from the Orient and the Korea from San Francisco. The Korea brings two days' later mail. The Mongolia has 1200 tons of freight for this port and can take on 125 cabin passengers if necessary.
