HOLSTEIN TRIES TO STOP TIME KILLING

The Senate Gets Into a Tangle Over Recess Appointments, but the Matter is Amicably Adjusted at Last.

The Senate was up in the air for a little time on Saturday because of a tangle about the Governor's recess appointments, because the members could not agree upon how much executive business should be made public. For a time it looked as though there would be a breach of the peace, but the trouble passed in a motion to take a recess—and at the afternoon session the difficulty was all smoothed over.

The House made a serious effort to shut off the time killers, Mr. Holstein of Hawaii leading it in the interest of the dignity of the majority. And although he only gained a partial victory, it was a victory in the right direction. Nothing will be gained by open play for an extra session, and Mr. Holstein is right to try and check it. The people will hold the majority responsible.

LEGISLATURE—FORTY-FIFTH DAY.

THE SENATE.

The Senate got itself pretty badly tangled up at its Saturday morning session with the recess appointments, but came out of the trouble in the afternoon and did a pretty good day's business after all.

At the opening of the session of the Senate the House transmitted a resolution authorizing the Superintendent of Public Works to expend $35,000 already appropriated for the purpose of the construction of a county building at Wailuku. The resolution was given to the Public Lands Committee.

The Judiciary Committee reported favorably on House Bill 107, legalizing assessment of costs of proceedings in chambers. The same committee reported favorably on House Bill 153 to separate prisoners convicted of crimes from misdemeanants.

The same committee reported favorably on House Bill 94, providing for widow's right of dower. All the reports were laid on the table to be considered with the respective bills.

The Miscellaneous Committee reported favorably on the bill providing for the examination of farmers.

For the Special Committee on House Bill 68 and Senate Bill 176, Lane reported on the two measures. These are the bills for the examination of leper suspects and the committee reported that as the measures were to the same purpose and as the House Bill had already passed third reading, it was recommended that the Senate bill be tabled. Dickey did not concur in the report.

Lane introduced a bill regulating corporations, and Dowsett one amending the law relating to the Department of Public Instruction. Both passed first reading.

THE EXECUTIVE SESSION.

Then came the executive session, and a pretty shindy following it, during which the Governor's veto message of the bill changing the holding of terms of the Circuit Court on Hawaii was entirely overlooked. As the veto goes over for more than twenty-four hours, it will be sustained under the rules.

Senator Gandall, under suspension of the rules, moved the reconsideration of House Bill 103. This is the bill fixing the pay of jurors.

All trouble over the recess appointments had vanished at the afternoon session, and the Achi resolution to reveal the names of the appointees not confirmed was passed without a word.

Achi offered the following:

Whereas, in the month of June, 1903, there was paid into the treasury, through the Department of Public Works, the sum of $761.36 from the sale of public lands, which said amount was deposited in the treasury and treated as a governmental realization, when in fact it should have been placed to the credit of land sales special deposit; and

Whereas, as the period in which it was received is now closed, and the treasurer has not authority to transfer said sum to the account to which it should have been credited; therefore be it

Resolved, That the treasurer of the Territory is hereby authorized to make the proper entries and transfer from current cash to land sales special fund the amount of $761.36.

This was a joint resolution, and was adopted without dissent.

ORDER OF THE DAY.

The Revision Committee reported amending Senate Bill 86, the Iverymen's lien bill, and also reported Senate Bill 110 properly amended. This is the jury bill, and it was sent to the Revision Committee along with the Iverymen's lien bill to have its English corrected.

Lastly, the Revision Committee made a similar report on Senate Bill 112, putting domestic animals under the jurisdiction of the Board of Agriculture. All these reports were laid on the table to be considered with the respective bills.

Dowsett introduced a bill to encourage the extension of electric railways on Oahu. Passed first reading.

And then, at last, the Senate got to the order of the day on the third reading of Senate Bill 96, the act relating to the appointment of district magistrates. The bill passed.

Senate Bill 111, the act to provide a boarding school for girls in Kona, on third reading, was indefinitely postponed.

Senate Bill 116, to maintain boundary marks, on third reading, passed, no vote being cast against it.

Senate Bill 120, an act making appropriations for the Department of Justice, passed without dissent. This is the bill that covers the expenses of the Jones murder trial, among other things, and carries total appropriations amounting to $11,500.

House Bill 156, providing for the extension of terms of Circuit Courts, on third reading, passed without dissent.

Senate Bill 115, the insurance taxation bill, was read right through and passed second reading, after a long squabble. It will be read for the third time on Monday.

Dowsett introduced a bill to establish a legacy and gift tax. Passed first reading and went to the Printing Committee.

Hayselden presented a report from the Conference Committee on House Bill 84, affirming the Senate amendments. The report was adopted, and the Senate adjourned until 9 a. m. on Monday.

THE HOUSE.

Once more the use of the Hawaiian language caused trouble in the House of Representatives. It occurred Saturday morning when, after House Bill 168, the liquor license bill, had been read through in English, Kaniho, the solitary Home Ruler, wanted it read through again in Hawaiian.

Holstein, who happens to be one of the most valuable members of the House, at once protested.

"This," he said, "is a most unusual request. The motion is simply one to waste time. Let us be plain about this matter. The member who has just made this motion has had a copy of the bill in Hawaiian before him during the reading in English and he has paid no more attention to it than the man in the moon."

KANIHO, OF COURSE.

Kaniho made a protest and was supported by Broad, who also wanted all of the 59 sections read through in Hawaiian. The Hawaiian translation differed, he said, and members could not understand the bill unless it should be properly translated.

Holstein pointed out that it made no difference whether the Hawaiian version should be correct or not, as the English version held.

Meanwhile Governor Carter was lurking behind the hat rack.

AND BROAD.

Broad made a heated speech, saying, in effect, that if the bill were not translated the Hawaiian people would be ignored.

Sheldon pointed out that the amendments to the bill had been read and adopted by the House and that the very members now protesting had voted for the same amendments.

Finally a compromise was effected by having the amendments only read in Hawaiian.

On Harris's motion the bill passed as amended, Kalino, Mahikoa and Nakuina voting "Aole."

CARTER'S VETO.

The presentation of Governor Carter's veto of House Bill No. 7, was among the most interesting incidents of the morning session. It ran thus: "To the Legislature of the Territory of Hawaii—

"Herewith, I return House Bill No. 7, entitled 'An Act to amend Section 1644 of the Revised Laws of Hawaii,' which I am unable to approve.

"This bill relates to Circuit Court terms, and provides among other changes the following:

"In the Third Circuit, the December term at Kailua is done away with, and in its place the term is to begin in November, and to be held at Waiohina, Kau.

It must be evident to all that the accommodations for witnesses, jurors, attorneys, etc., at Waiohina are entirely inadequate, and the landing is an exceedingly difficult one.

Three terms for this Circuit Court is at present considerably in excess of the real needs of that district, and the Territory is not in a position financially to stand the expense in connection therewith. And furthermore, holding a term at Waiohina would necessitate the erection of a court house.

The change in the time of holding terms from December to November in the Third and Fifth Circuits is perhaps a wise one, but the bill as a whole involves too great an expenditure of public funds.

On motion of Andrade action on the veto was deferred until Monday.

PAUL SMITH'S PAY.

The matter of the payment of Capt. Paul Smith as policeman at Iwilei was brought up by Coelho, whose motion that the matter be investigated by the Police Committee was adopted.

Broad introduced a resolution asking that the Committee on Public Lands investigate the matter of the compact between Weis, Fargo & Co. and the Oahu Railway & Land Co., by which the rates on small freight had been greatly increased, and that a bill be drafted to safeguard the interests of the people. The report was adopted.

ROUTINE MATTERS.

The Committee on Public Lands and Internal Improvements recommended the tabling of the petition presented by Sheldon from residents of Waimoa, Kauai, praying that water pipes be laid from Waimoa to Kekaha. The report was tabled to be considered with the appropriation bill.

The Education Committee reported favorably on the petition to appropriate $2500 for a 2-room school house on the Kaunama road.

There was a divided opinion in the report of the Finance Committee on Sheldon's bill to authorize the conclusion of a contract with the Inter-Island Telegraph Company. Harris, Nakuina and Fernandez recommended the passage of the bill granting the wireless subsidy. Rice and Kaloopu did not concur.

The Health Committee reported favorably on Senate Bill 100, requiring that all rules and regulations of the Board of Health must have the consent of the Governor.

The Health Committee presented a report requesting that the President of the Board of Health furnish a detailed statement showing the cost of running the Kalaupuna store for the two years to December 31 last in order that the House may deal intelligently with the question between the convenience of the lepers and the suggestion that the store be turned over to be run by private parties.

Holstein introduced a bill exempting from taxation for five years all property real and personal used in the production of rice. The bill was read a first time by title.

Holstein introduced a bill amending the act relating to driving or riding over bridges faster than a walk. It imposes a penalty of $5 for infraction of the law provided that such penalty shall not be imposed when no signs have been placed on such bridges.

Senate Bill 23 (Brown), to provide for the establishment of a High School at Hilo, passed third reading.

SECURE THE LAND FOR POPULATION

Editor Advertiser: There is a decided impression prevailing here that the government should throw open to settlement the lands now under lease to the H. S. P. Co. when the lease expires one year hence, and a settlement association has been formed of the most substantial residents of the district to obtain this object if possible. The plantation, learning of such a move, has circulated a petition, with its employees as signers, for a renewal of its lease. Those who at least pretend that they desire to increase the permanent population of Hawaii by encouraging the small holder seem to have forgotten or overlooked the fact that Hawaii in its sugar has its most important resource and that unless some means can be found to let the small farmer have a chance to reap some of the benefits, as in beet culture, in other countries, it is nonsense to expect any great increase of population.

The farmers who would settle here are not those that are inclined toward experiments in products that take money and time, with probable risk of failure, but I can assure you that if the promotion societies will use their influence to insure that any capable farmer can be certain of a piece of government land tributary to a sugar mill, where he can put in his labor with profit, they will find the returns much greater, and more permanent than they will ever obtain from pretty pictures, asking tourists as they pass by to look at our snowy slopes.

All this can be assured if the resolution passed by the Republican Club of this district last February could in some form become a law. It was to the effect that all government lands should first be opened to settlement before any lease of them could be legally made. What is there against such a law? It seems to me as though it would be the only one that would benefit the country, plantations and settlers alike. Under the Organic Law, if I understand it right, no agricultural land can be leased for a longer period than five years, and in such case it could be of no value to plantations, as it would not allow of one crop of plant and ratoon cane being harvested. The only way, then, that they could obtain these lands would be by calling them something else than agricultural, and the people of this district, at least, will exhaust every effort before a fraud of that kind can be consummated.

L. S. THOMPSON, M. D., A Member of the Society Petitioning.
