

ANNUAL MEETING OF MISSION CHILDREN

The annual meeting of the Mission Children's Society was held Saturday evening at Punahou and was attended by about fifty members. Reports were read, appropriations made and officers elected for the year, W. R. Castle being made president.

Two hundred and fifty dollars was voted for a small printing press and outfit for Pleasant Island Mission.

Eloquent remarks were made by W. O. Smith, E. P. Wilcox, O. H. Gulick and A. B. Clark on the privilege and duty of this society in preserving the relics of the past years of missionary work. The music, in charge of Miss Castle, was particularly fine.

Do you know that tired feeling which comes with the end of the day's work? You don't feel it when your energy is concentrated on the task in hand but it comes over you when you leave the store or office, homeward bound. Your legs feel weak, your brain fagged and your stomach empty. In other words you are played out. A glass of beer and a bite of lunch at the CRITERION will fix you up and send you home in such shape that the wife and little ones will be glad to see you.

Johnny was at the opera for the first time, and the celebrated soprano was in the middle of her solo, when he said to his mother, referring to the conductor of the orchestra: "Why does that man hit at the woman with his stick?" "He is not hitting at her," replied his mother; "keep quiet." "Well, then, what is she howling for?"

SOME APT DEFINITIONS.

Misfortune.—Something utterly unfit for us but very suitable for our enemies.

A Delightful Man.—One who admires without boring, and amuses without tiring.

Happiness.—Something one always strives for, but rarely recognizes when attained.

Unhappiness.—Never wishing sufficiently hard for anything, to make it worth striving for.

A Good Heart.—Usually found in an uninteresting man or woman of whom nothing else can be said.

A Good Child.—One who knows when to show off, and when to stop. Who is neither forward nor shy; pert nor meek.

Platonies.—A friendship with a thrill of love in it, but in which the thrill is never allowed to take complete possession.

Tact.—An article much needed in society. Found occasionally in the possession of clever women, rarely discovered in men; and much scorned by the stupid and ill bred.—N. Y. Observer.
