

her father to celebrate her 21st birthday. She had her choice of visiting Whitelaw Reid at the London embassy and being introduced by him at court or going to the Philippines with the Taft party.

The party will go to San Francisco by rail and sail from there in July, stopping enroute at Honolulu. A month will be spent at Manila and on the neighboring islands, and there will be a trip to Japan, about which the diplomats of the world are very much worried. They said that for the President's daughter to go to the Mikado's country at this time would do more harm to Russian prestige than the fall of Port Arthur.

It is said Miss Roosevelt does not care half as much about Russia's prestige as she does about Representative Longworth. Mr. Longworth is 35 years old and handsome. From July until October, when the party will return, they will be thrown together constantly.

Indeed, they have not needed the surroundings of shipboard to find a good deal of time to spend in each other's company. Miss Roosevelt will be with Mr. Longworth at the Benning race track last April, and he has been her escort on numberless other occasions.

A recent episode in which she figured with the dashing representative from Ohio was an automobile ride through Washington at such a terrific pace that a policeman stopped them. The chauffeur excused himself by saying that he thought he could go as fast as he liked when the daughter of the President was along.

Mr. Longworth is rich and comes of an old Cincinnati family. His aunt is the widow of General Anderson, of Fort Sumter fame. With his mother he occupies a handsome house in Connecticut avenue, where he frequently entertains the younger set.

Mr. Longworth was graduated from Harvard in 1891, from the Cincinnati Law School in 1894, and was elected to Congress a little more than a year ago. He is a republican. He is a member of the Chevy Chase and Metropolitan clubs.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Rawlins gave a week-end party on the other side of the Fall last Saturday and Sunday, spending the time at Captain Parker's place at Wailau, Koolau. A luau was one of the pleasures last Sunday. The guests were Captain and Mrs. Humphrey and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Church.

Miss Drusilla Marx has decided to prolong her visit in Honolulu. She will remain here another year before returning to Italy where she will resume her singing in grand opera. Miss Marx will take a limited number of pupils in voice culture while here.

They will visit friends in New York and the East, returning to California to remain some time in Los Angeles, thence to the boom mining district of Tonopah, Nevada, where the Captain has extensive landed interests. Finally the party will go to Tahiti per the Mariposa on July 1st and return to Honolulu next September.

Mrs. Emma Shafter Howard has paid Honolulu a short visit and has left for San Francisco by the Alameda. She is among the most prominent women in the United States. She has been for years one of the notable women, who, discarding the attempt to identify the sexes and retaining the ideals of domestic life, have nevertheless labored to secure their appropriate place in the broad field of modern civilization. Her father was Oscar L. Shafter, a great lawyer and a great man, who, in the State of Vermont and without personal effort of his own, became the most formidable rival of United States Senator Collamer. He was afterwards foremost in the work of adapting American institutions to the early conditions in California and became one of the justices of the Supreme Court of that State. From both sides of her house, Mrs. Howard has inherited moral and mental qualities, exercised in constant and fruitful labors, that render it simply proper that her stay in Honolulu should not remain unnoticed.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Victor Blue will spend the summer at Honolulu. Lieutenant Blue is attached to the Bennington, which will be stationed in Hawaiian waters for several months.—Chronicle.

Levin T. Jones, an engineer officer in the United States revenue cutter service, and Mrs. Jones were hosts last Thursday evening at a jolly card party given in honor of Miss Jessie Tuttle and Robert M. Armour, whose betrothal was recently announced. Although Mr. Armour has been a resident of San Francisco for about three years, he has little time to devote to social pleasures, and was consequently quite a stranger to all the people of the revenue cutter service who have known and claimed Miss Tuttle, the daughter of Captain Tuttle of that service, since her childhood days. Mrs. Jones decided that an initiation was due Mr. Armour, that he might be safely moored among friendly craft of that service, instead of allowing Miss Tuttle to drift away. A "revenue-cutter" card party was, therefore, arranged for Thursday evening, to which twenty-eight persons, all connected with the revenue-cutter service, were bidden. As an appropriate suggestion, red, white and green, the signal colors which are burned at sea to report a revenue ship, were represented in-decoration by fragrant carnations and crisp, delicate ferns.—Chronicle.
