Sheridan Officer Smuggled.
SAN FRANCISCO, November 6.—In a raid made yesterday on the rooms of George P. Burke in the fashionable St. Mark Hotel in Oakland, District Officer Robert McGinnis of the customs service and Lieutenant of Inspectors John T. Stone, obtained possession of $1500 worth of smuggled Chinese and Japanese goods.

The presence of the contraband articles in Burke's room was discovered through the energetic work of special agents who were sent here recently from Washington to put a stop to the operations of smugglers. In their investigations the agents have unearthed an ingenious and gigantic system of smuggling carried on by employees of the army transport service and which it is believed has been successfully operated for years. Unfortunately there is a technicality preventing the prosecution of Burke and others who have followed the same plan of defrauding the government. Burke, who is an employee of the commissary department of the transport Sheridan, was at his post of duty when the big vessel steamed out of the bay on its trip to the Orient yesterday afternoon. Shortly after beginning their work here some weeks ago, Special Agents Johnson, Tidwell and Smith learned that vast quantities of smuggled goods from the Orient had been shipped from Seattle to this city, and that the shipments invariably followed closely upon the arrival of an army transport in the Puget Sound city.

Suspicion pointed to Burke, and it did not take long to learn the method by which he had the goods brought ashore. The Sheridan in its trips from Manila to San Francisco touched at Nagasaki and Honolulu. Burke laid in his supply of trinkets and finery at Nagasaki. Reaching Seattle, he enlisted the soldiers in his cause, each taking ashore some of the goods, which are exempt from duty up to $100 valuation. Once on shore, the soldiers restored the goods to Burke, who had them shipped to Oakland. In Burke's rooms were found yesterday scores of rich silk jackets and kimonos and a varied assortment of valuable China and Satsuma ware. Burke could have disposed of it all at a figure far below the American market price and still have reaped a big profit. Under the law the government is entitled to confiscate the goods, but as Burke did not personally smuggle them in, there is no way of punishing him for his offense.

Customs officers declare that this method of cheating the government has been in operation for years. There is scarcely a returning transport that does not bring thousands of dollars worth of oriental dress goods and bric-a-brac into the country without the payment of duty. Until now, however, the exact method of getting the goods ashore has been a mystery which the customs officers could not solve.

Iroquois Is Black.
There have been transformations of warships in Uncle Sam's naval service, but none so radical as the U. S. S. Iroquois, the station tug of the naval station. From a white hull she has changed to one of black although her upper works are still the old buff color.

Shipping Notes.
The Asia left for San Francisco yesterday morning at eight o'clock. Tomorrow forenoon the Japanese cruiser Idzumo will leave for Yokohama. The China is due here on Tuesday morning from San Francisco. It is expected she will bring many passengers for this port.
