Call—The Fourteenth Cavalry, which left early in the month for Manila, has been having a delightful trip across the Pacific, according to the latest accounts received from the enthusiastic company on board ship. There has been a concert every evening and bridge has been the order of the afternoon almost invariably. Among those entertained during the day at Honolulu were Captain and Mrs. Sterling P. Adams, who were the complimented guests at an elaborate luncheon given at the Moana Hotel by Mrs. James R. Pourie, the charming wife of Captain Pourie, U. S. A. Fourteen guests were seated at the circular table, which was decorated in yellow chrysanthemums. A large basket of the flowers occupied the center of the table, and as yellow was the chosen color, in compliment to the cavalry, the place cards were adorned with yellow ilima leis. The hostess wore a maize colored lingerie frock with a large picture hat, while the guest of honor was charming in a white lingerie gown.
