Down With the Yellow Flag.

On motion of Geo. W. Smith, seconded by Dr. Emerson, the Board of Health decided yesterday afternoon to raise the "plague" quarantine on Monday morning next, provided "no further outbreak of bubonic plague occurs in Honolulu before that time."

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

It may be just to defer any opinion in regard to the Examiner's yellow article upon abused Tyrolese laborers, until Mr. J. A. Lucas, the agent has been seen and a statement made from some of the men. The Advertiser's statement that the men were starving in their own country is of the same color as its statement that men working on farms in St. Josquin valley in California are treated worse than the coolies are in Hawaii. The Advertiser naturally has a great deal of sympathy for "hobos."

If Mr. Harold Sewall should be appointed the first governor of Hawaii, we will take our political hat off to him and give him a hearty welcome, any man who can lay the claim—as Sewall can—to knifing Dole politically will be hailed with a hearty aloha by the Hawaiians. We do not say that Sewall is the choice of the Hawaiians, but even he is preferable to Dole, and with an assured two-thirds vote in the territorial legislature, a harmless body after all.

Arrangements are now being perfected to establish the followers of the "necessary evil" at Iwilei near the prison. The Marshal abandoned the original scheme of locating the unfortunates mauka of King street at Lele, owing to a pressure of public opinion. If the Marshal gives may to "public opinion" on every question, instead of using his own judgment he will hardly be fit to hold a responsible position under our territorial law. The new location however seems to meet with the approval of the citizens who understand the necessity of the evil and in a few days the Japanese and French women will be located at Iwilei under strict police regulations. Officers will be on duty day and night and the agents of the Board of Health will have an office on the premises. There will no longer be any parading through the streets of the fallen women and every thing will be carried on according to the most approved regulations of the leading cities in the world. If Marshal Brown succeeds in carrying out his program he will deserve the thanks and gratitude of the whole community.

In the Kamalo stock case for injunction of Hitchcock et al. vs. Huataca et al., an argument was held this morning before Acting Judge Silliman. After the hearing of arguments, the Court issued a temporary injunction restraining the sale of stocks until the termination of the proceedings now pending. Defendants asked that plaintiffs file a bond for $30,000, at which the defendants objected, stating that the present financial value of the stock in question does not warrant such a bond of so large an amount, but the Court ordered plaintiffs to file a bond in the sum of $15,000 in the course of the next two days. Davis and Henshall for petitioners, Robertson & Wilder for defendants.
