Probably the Advertiser is not in favor of the building of sidewalks because there is no sidewalk trust in which its owner is interested.

The federal court will find plenty of work ahead in breaking up the lumber trust, plumbers' trust, (whee) trust, liquor trust and numerous other trusts that have been carefully fostered by the government of Hawaii.

How many of the residents of Honolulu are opposed to the building of sidewalks and the paving of streets after the exhibition of the past week? Before Honolulu can expect to make much progress towards becoming the Pacific metropolis nature intended her, she must lift herself out of the mud.

The Territory of Hawaii is soon to have a visit from an expert from the Division of Forestry, Department of Agriculture. This fact was announced yesterday morning by Dr. Walter Maxwell at the meeting of the Planters' association. It is intended to have an expert from this department detailed for permanent duty throughout the islands.

The Star, which claims to be a republican paper, has yet to publish the republican ticket. Is it true that the Star proposes to hold part of the ticket and support a fusion ticket of its own just as soon as the time for filling nominations expires? It will be remembered that the Star was quite insistent that the republicans and democrats should fuse and its controlling stockholder is known to be violently opposed to every nominee on the ticket not always known as an active "missionary."

John Colburn, the democratic leader, and Prince David, the democratic candidate for congress, are employing several hundred Chinese carpenters and contractors on work for them at Hanalei. The Hawaiian-American workmen are asking why it is that these democratic leaders, who loudly proclaim their love for the working man, prefer to employ Chinese? Why give work to the Asiatic and leave the Hawaiian-American to get work from the republicans? Is it because democracy loves the man and republicans the dollar?

Now that it seems apparent from the decision of Judge Humphreys in the Kamalo Sugar company case that the promoters must give up their ill-gotten gains for promoting, some of the men who have been putting up money on assessable stock in Oahu and Kihili are asking why the promoters of Oahu should have taken to themselves $250,000 of paid-up stock for land that cost them $700,000 and why the promoters of Kihili should have paid themselves $1,500,000 for land which cost them only $92,000. Some of the small stockholders who have been putting up money for supposed improvements on these very expensive plantations are beginning to wonder if the assessments have gone the way of the one-half of the stock which was paid up—into the pockets of the promoters?

In an interview in another column Louis Kanneke, assistant postmaster, calls attention to the fact that people of Honolulu now have the benefit of special delivery of letters by the payment of the fee for the ten-cent special delivery stamp. The special delivery system was established in the United States about ten years ago and while originally it applied only to cities having free delivery, it has been extended until now it applies to third class offices; that is, all offices having an income in excess of $1,000. Special delivery stamps cost ten cents each and if placed on a letter, or paper, or package, in addition to the regular postage, insure the special delivery of the package at once. The special delivery is much patronized in the larger cities, especially in reaching people in the suburban towns, being oftentimes quicker than messenger boys. Patrons of the mail here who desire quick answers to their letters sent to the mainland can expedite them very much by adding a special delivery stamp to the postage and having one placed on the answer by the correspondent in the States. People desiring to reach friends in distant sections of the city of Honolulu can do so in very short time by merely placing a ten-cent special delivery stamp on the letter in addition to the regular postage and dropping it in the postoffice. The writer has oftentimes found the special delivery system much quicker than messenger service.

A MOST PERNICIOUS SYSTEM.

Vice in that section of New York city known as the east side, which embraces the section of the city east of Broadway and south of Fourteenth street, has become so open and notorious under that great democratic organization, Tammany hall, that the ministers of the city supported by the New York Herald, Evening Post and one or two other papers, are waging vigorous warfare against it. The condition has raised the question as to the best methods of suppressing and controlling vice and the opinions expressed substantiate the views expressed by this paper that the licensing of vice, as at Louisville, and conducting it under police protection is the most infamous system ever devised. It licenses and fosters the worst and most debasing form of slavery ever known, just as it is doing in Honolulu today. A correspondent of the Post, writing on the question, says: "While sympathizing cordially with the strictures of the Evening Post on the conduct of the Tammany police, as brought out at the Episcopal convention, I feel that exception should be taken to the statements that what now goes on is 'worse than the licensing of houses of ill-fame' and that 'in the case of the latter nobody is harmed except those who visit such places voluntarily.' The licensing of such places lowers the whole moral tone of the community and not the least of its bad results is that where it has prevailed for any length of time the police are always in league with the brothel-keepers and are a hindrance rather than a help to efforts to rescue young girls from a life of vice. At the recent international congress on the white slave trade facts were brought out which would have been incredible if the evidence had not been irresistible. Governor Roosevelt wrote in a letter published in the July Philanthropist:

"At one time I used to acquiesce when people said that the evil should be licensed for the purpose of controlling it. Since you call my attention to the result in Paris and Belgium I have made some inquiries and I cannot sufficiently express my horror of the system."

BUT IT'S DIFFERENT NOW.

One of the planks in the democratic national platform of 1890 on which the democratic nominees of that year appealed for support reads as follows:

"That the democratic party are in favor of the acquisition of the island of Cuba on such terms as shall be honorable to ourselves and just to Spain at the earliest practicable moment."

This declaration is interesting just now; it asks for such terms as are "honorable to ourselves and just to Spain." Not a word about first asking the consent of the Cubans. Not a word about the terms being just to the inhabitants of the island. Not a word about the title to the island belonging in reality to the Cubans rather than to Spain, such as is being talked by Bryan with reference to the Philippines.

When the democratic platform of 1890 was adopted the theory of the consent of the governed had not percolated into the democratic creed. It would, of course, have been ridiculous for the democrats to have intimated that the consent of the Cubans was necessary before the United States could take jurisdiction over the islands, as proposed, when at the same time the democratic south was holding four millions of negroes in slavery regardless of their consent.

Some of our democratic friends, like Brother McClanahan, for instance, might with propriety devote a little time to this democratic platform plank and see if they can square it with the position assumed by the party in the Kansas City platform.

Curator Lex.—If the constitution followed the flag into Guam so as to make citizens of the United States out of inhabitants of that atoll before it was ever dreamed of creating it into a territory, what became of the constitution and the flag in Hawaii, which became a part of the United States by treaty and joint resolution of congress?

Pupils Lex.—If you mean the constitution of the United States, such a thing is not known in law in Hawaii. Hence, beyond the pale of such an argument, though Guam, having been taken by the navy as a prize of war, is differently situated.

Open Door For Chinese.

From Philadelphia North American: United States Judge Estee, who recently made a ruling that a native of the island of Guam did not need to be naturalized to become a citizen of Hawaii, has rendered an important decision regarding the rights of Chinese to land in Hawaii. As the Chinese in question had shipped from New York, Judge Estee decided that he had a right to enter the United States at any other point. The case is important because it bears directly on the question whether the Chinese in the Hawaiian islands have a right to land on the mainland. The act creating the Territory of Hawaii specifically denies them that privilege, but Judge Estee's opinion evidently is that this provision is unconstitutional. A logical conclusion is that not only the natives of the Philippine islands, but all the Chinese and other undesirable residents of the archipelago are legally entitled to free entry into this country. Expansion has its penalties.
