VOL. I.

HONOLULU, HAWAIIAN ISLANDS, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1886.

NO. 37

The Three Classes of Fingers.
Hands are divided into three classes: Pointed fingered, or spiritual; square fingered, or intellectual, and flat or shovel-shaped fingered, or material. The first class is characteristic of the people of southern Europe, but more especially of Oriental. The second is the hand of intellect, of practical gifts, of the power to accomplish success in life. In this the thumb ball is frequently large. The third class is the hand of work—hard, manual toil, with little besides the ideas of work, food, and rest to animate its owner. The joints are knobby and evince a slowness of both thought and motion.—Inter Ocean Interviewer.

A Case of Family Pride.
The old-time Virginians were a proud set. There once lived in Henrico county a Sir Patrick Coutts, who was a regular "blood." Some distance from him lived another "blood," one Col. William Byrd. It chanced that both fell sick and daily expected death. Col. Byrd dispatched an outsider to Sir Patrick with the message: "Do not go before I get ready." In reply Sir Patrick said: "Tell Col. Byrd that when Patrick Coutts gets ready he waits for no man." Coutts died the next day and Byrd soon followed.—Chicago Tribune.

Splendid Gymnasiums of the Ancients.
Almost every town in ancient Greece had a gymnasium, and Athens possessed three, the Lyceum, Cynosarges and Academia, all of which were constructed upon a scale of great splendor, and furnished with every kind of convenience, covered and open apartments, colonnades, shady walks, baths and other contrivances conducive to the health and comfort of the large concourse resorting thither as performers or spectators, or for the enjoyment of literary or scientific conversation.—Boston Budget.

He Was Still with the Firm.
A wholesale house in Chicago started a salesman on the road, giving him $100 for traveling expenses. A week passed and nothing was heard from Mr. Traveler. Still another week passed, and still no word from Mr. Traveler. Finally, the house wired him as follows: "Mr. Traveler—Nothing from you since you left. Are you still with us?" To which Mr. Traveler replied: "Yours, this date received. Have made draft on you for $200. Am still with you."—San Francisco Call.

A Healthy People for All That.
The Hindus never made the medical profession famous; but we do not learn that the nation suffered for want of physicians. Nor do we find the Chinese suffering for want of doctoring the body. Neither did the Jews ever produce a school of medicine, but they have always been a healthy people, for all that. They have never eaten "hog."—Hall's Journal of Health.

Jay Gould's Most Persistent Visitors.
"Of the people who come here expecting to see Jay Gould," said a young man connected with the railway king's office, "the women are the most sanguine and persistent. Sometimes a woman who has not the ghost of a chance of seeing the magnate will pace up and down the passage all day."—New York Letter.

Dress of the Senator of To-Day.
The favorite dress of the senator of to-day is black broadcloth, double-breasted frock coat, high standing collar open at the neck, and boots. Still, business suits are fast creeping in, and fully one-third of the senators wear cut-away coats.—Washington Letter.

Mrs. Langtry has become the possessor of one of the finest sets of Russian sable in the world. It took years to collect, and it is valued at £1,300.

An English firm is forming a company for the export of Dutch milk to London.
