INDUSTRIAL ORGANIZATION.

Colonial papers speak of "Industrial Associations," giving much space to their proceedings. It is high time that there was a union of forces in this Kingdom for the promotion of domestic industry.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The street lighting is at present a disgrace to the city. There should be some kind of a lantern stuck up on every post, if there is not enough gasoline to light in the usual way.

by the premature intimation that the fire was out, that the bell-ringers hereafter keep up the alarm until they obtain official orders to stop.

Woman suffrage has been in force in Massachusetts, with regard to school matters, since 1879, yet the highest vote ever cast by the women, which was under exceptional agitation—in fact a scare got up by the woman suffragists—was less than two-thirds of one per cent of those qualified to vote.

"It is too soon to speak of the Japanese as probable permanent settlers." So the Advertiser says, but the Japanese themselves think otherwise. The Herald's information came from direct official sources.

FUN AND FANCY.

"Hurry up, Tom! There goes the dinner-bell," said one boarder to another. "They ought to call it chestnut bell in this house. It always rings for the same old thing—hash."

"Why do people always speak of a 'cool million'?" asks an exchange. Because it is a frozen fact as far as most persons are concerned "million" is a thing that stays out in the cold.

"Has Major Snaffles been in this evening, steward?" "No, sir, he's not here for a month, sir." "Is his absence due to sickness?" "No, sir, but his bill is due to the treasurer, which I think it's the reason sir."

The chestnut bell has been superseded in Buffalo by the liar card. When the story teller becomes too enthusiastic in his exaggeration, the listener hands him a card on which is printed, "I am somewhat of a liar myself."

Dry Goods Clerk (to young woman customer)—"Ah! I believe I had the pleasure of meeting you at the garden party at the Grand Union, Saratoga, last Summer." Young Woman—"Will these goods wash, sir?" Clerk—"Yes, madam."

Dumley—"Robinson, I want your advice. Brown, I hear, has referred to me as an inspired idiot. What had I better do?" Robinson (thoughtfully)—"Well, Dumley, I think you ought to make him take back that word 'inspired'."

Literary man (laughing)—"Yes, I took to literature naturally. I was vaccinated from a quill, you know." Friend (gritily)—"Had the world would have been the gainer if you had been vaccinated from a pick or shovel."

A citizen scared by Wiggins' earthquake predictions, sent his two half-grown boys to a friend in the country. A few days later the friend wrote him: "Dear Sir: Please take your boys back and send us the earthquake."

Two young women were gazing in a shop window. Said one: "Isn't it a love of a bonnet? I'm tempted to buy it, even if it is expensive." Said the other: "No, don't you do it; you are too excited now. You would be sure to regret it to-morrow morning."

Caller—"Ah, is Miss Arabella De Wolf at home?" Bridget (meditatively)—"Sure she give me very particular orders. She says if Mr. Brown calls say I'm not at home, but if Mr. Smith comes take him right in, and I'll be right down. Now which one are you sir?"

"What do you want to drown yourself for?" said a policeman who caught a man trying to jump off the Brooklyn bridge. "I have no money," said the man. "Then go to work," said the policeman. "No, sir! I'm not so desperate as that," and he plunged.

The Best Tonic.

Mr. Henry Billings, Washington, D. C., writes: "I have used your Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky for medicinal purposes. As a tonic I consider it superior to the hundreds of concoctions which are now flooding the land as stimulant liquors."
