A Common Nuisance. While Mr. Jas. G. Spencer was driving along Punchbowl street Tuesday evening, he encountered two horses tied so that when they crossed the road the lines obstructed the street.

One of the horses did so, and Mr. Spencer had to drive over the rope at the risk of having his horse tripped up. A similar nuisance the other day tripped a saddle horse, so that the rider, Mr. Fred. Whitney, was thrown off and badly injured, having a narrow escape indeed for his life.

SUPREME COURT.

AT CHAMBERS.

Wednesday, June 15, before Chief Justice Judd. L. Ahlo and others vs. Lee Kan and others. Hearing in equity of receiver, V. V. Ashford's, accounts dated December 31, 1886, filed January 15, 1887. Receipts were presented as $1,199 78, with expenditures balancing. The liabilities of defendants are now stated, exclusive of interest from December 31, 1885, at $852.35. One of them reported as contributing nothing in obedience to a former decree of the Court was Acheong, who escaped to China on the bark Hydra. It was ordered that the accounts are approved less $25 in amount of balance of liabilities, being Master's fee already entered in costs of Court; and further that on presenting decree ordering payment of balance of liabilities by L. Ahlo and Ho San, two shareholders in Quong Man Yuen & Co., the only remaining available source of assets, the Court will sign the decree.

THE ROYAL TOUR.

TWO EXTREME VIEWS.

Queen Kapiolani's visit to Boston has been notable for the practical exhibition it afforded to our citizens of the success of the nineteenth century idea of civilizing instead of slaving barbarians. It has an object lesson of real value. In her own person she represented the great progress the Sandwich Islands have made within a comparatively few years in the life of a people. Her visit here was one of satisfaction to many who are deeply interested in the work of completely civilizing and Christianizing not only the Sandwich Islands, but all wild and darkened people.—Boston Transcript.

If the Transcript be not hypocritical in this, how little it knows about the result of civilizing instead of slaying "barbarians" of the progress made by the Sandwich Islands; of the lesson the history of the unfortunate islanders conveys to those who know it. Before civilization came upon them, the islanders were an innocent, happy, healthy people. Now they are disappearing from the earth as a result of the vices and diseases civilization bestowed upon them. They are degraded, miserable, diseased and vanishing. It would have been mercy to slay them a hundred years ago rather than "civilize" them. The Chinese are destined to be the future people of the Hawaiian Islands, under, most likely, an American government. There will not be a Hawaiian alive in fifty years. The Hawaiian will have been civilized off the face of the earth.—San Francisco Report.

A PLAY OF IMAGINATION.

Queen Kapiolani, may her royal stomach never grow less, declares that of all lives in the world she would prefer that of the fireman. Now, it may be ungentle to call attention to Her Majesty's obesity, for, like all Polynesians, she overruns to intestine at this period of her life, but how the deuce would the Queen look perched on the topmost round of the ladder? Attired in a la Mary Walker, with a trumpet in one hand and a hose nozzle in the other, the anointed Queen of the Sandwich Islands would present a picture which would make the bones of the lamented Captain Cook, for whose flesh and marrow the Hawaiians displayed a fatal partiality, rattle in their seawashed island grave.—San Francisco News Letter, May 28th.

CHRONICLESMIS.

The spectacle of Queen Kapiolani in a sky-blue dress, with several yards of train, would be worth making a trip to London to witness. This extraordinary costume she will wear when she is presented. Kapiolani's trip will take a very respectable slice out of that $2,000,000 loan now being negotiated in England.

Nouanu and Maunakea streets look the most metropolitan in the city, especially at night when the white man's business quarter is mostly enveloped in darkness. John keeps the light burning for the late pence, improving the time at the sewing machine or the work bench. It is a question, however, if Chinatown gets sufficient business to pay the increased expense of widened streets and brick blocks, replacing the irregular lines of wooden shanties wiped out by the fire.

Quietness reigned on the streets last night, very few people moving about. The difference between moonlight and darkness is great in Honolulu. Perhaps the electric light will induce the retail trade to give up a portion of the blazing sunlight for the balmy air of evening.

Very satisfactory drill was had by the Portuguese Company, Honolulu Rifles, under Captain Meyers, last night. From thirty-five to forty members of the company turn out to the regular drills.

A full line of the materials for the making of those beautiful paper flowers at present all the rage on the Coast, can be had at King Bros'. Art Store, Hotel street.

Police Court.

Ah Sung was charged with furnishing opium to a prisoner and was remanded.

Kahoohaaha, an inmate of the Lunalilo Home, was presented as an insane person. Dr. Emerson, physician to the Home, gave evidence to show that the prisoner is insane and unsafe to be at liberty. W. E. H. Deverill, manager of the Home, testified of the man's violence and insane hallucinations. Dr. Webb, physician to the Insane Asylum, thought defendant was troublesome and an imbecile; had softening of the brain; would be a nuisance but not dangerous to other persons. The case was continued.

Three inebriates forfeited bail for their over-indulgence in ardent fluids. On the civil docket several cases were continued or settled out of Court. Chas. J. Fishel vs. Miss B. Rumbell, assumpsit. Defendant pleads general issue and a counter claim of $78. Evidence of the parties was directly contradictory. Continued for judgment till the 17th.

J. T. Waterhouse vs. A. S. Cleghorn and Geo. Markham, replevin for rifles. Hon. A. S. Cleghorn gave testimony that he was Collector General of Customs, and had given instructions to the guards that they must be more particular in regard to firearms and other contraband goods, and report to him all such. No arms were reported to him the day the steamer Australia arrived up to 4 p. m., when he left the office. The guards were to hold goods of that nature till they received orders. That order was for contraband, suspicious packages, or firearms and ammunition. If any goods were reported to him he would in turn report them to the Finance Office. When he arrived at the Custom House Monday morning, June 13th, he found letters awaiting him. (The Court ruled out matter of these letters, as they came after the Collector General's instructions to the guards.) It was on the 27th of May that he called all the officers and told them they must be more particular. If any goods of the kinds in question had been found, he would have sent them to the Custom House, and if necessary kept them over a day for examination. The case was continued till the 17th for judgment.

Hawaiian Carriage Co. vs. Wm. Brown. Assumpsit for $27.67. Judgment for plaintiff with costs, $38.49. Hawaiian Carriage Co. vs. Geo. Mundon. Assumpsit for $33.19. Judgment for plaintiff with costs, $51.70.
