BURDETT-COUTTS.

VISITING THE BARONESS AT HER HOME NEAR LONDON.

Her Personal Appearance and Leading Characteristics-Holly Lodge and Its Furnishings-Pets and Their Pictures-The Young Husband.

[London Cor. New York Sun.]

To Americans, the Baranses Burdett-Coutts has always been a person of singular interest. Her wealth, her generous base-faction, and romantic nature all appear to us, for our sensituities are doubtless keener and time, than those of the English.

At one of the very last receptions of the season, sitting somewhat apart in a fashionable grawing room I saw a slight stir and then everyboly arose to their feet. There was not that q let and obsequiousness in the attitude which are shown to royalty, but a voluntary and almost affectionate respect. The lines advanced with smiling face, and said. "How good of you, baroness," and the hum of conversation was resumed again. Songs were sing by a great singer, and recitations delivered by a wall-known comic actor, and the most interested and amused face—the most enjoying face in all the assembly—was that of the Baroness Burdett-Coutt.

PERSONAL APPEARANCE.

PERSONAL APPEABANCE

When the people thinned out a little and I hat an opportunity of talking with her, she stoemed my heart. She has a very small, sweet face, deep blue eyes, soft, dark brown hair, without a gray thread in it, and her complexion, free from all artificiaties, is periectly fresh and healthy. Her manner is very quiet, simple and unassuming, and she is an excellent and sympathizing litter. We made fam me healthy together, and she said she would be happy to receive us on Saturlay at her place near London, Holly Loige.

It is a lovely drive to the Lodge past some of the model dwellings and through green lass. We were met by a footman and asked if we had an appointment with "my laiy." We said no, but gave our cards, and a short walk on inlaid marble brought us to a long room covered with matting and drapad in red and white bunting. The large, French windows close together opened to the ground, and wicker work chairs, tables, and settees of every conceivable shape and design furnished the room. At the back was a line of cases filled with geological speciments, all labeled and numbered in the neatest manner. This room opened into a small, light, well-filled conservatory, and this again communicated with the drawing-room. Such a pretty quaint, restful, old-fashioned room it was A carpet with a white ground, strewn with A carpet with a white ground, strewn with rosss, covered the floor; the furniture was eaca ed in bright, fresh, flowered chintz. Several uncovered chairs, in dainty em-broilery, bore on their faces loving gifts to

A large photograph of a beautiful and distinguished lady in a gilt frame bung close to the door, and on the white margin, in a carsful pre-ty hand was written: "Mis-Court, from har frient Sophia" (queen of the N therlant). The facings of clota use in the soldiers' uniforms were clota u.e.l in the soldiers' uniforms were shaped in small diamonds and sewn together; red black, blue, yellow, lilac, green, all to peal against each other in the most fantastic manner. Tais, too, was doubtless a gift from grateful hands to the ever openhearts towers. Large looking-glasses and many pictures covered the light walls, and tables is len with pricels so brio-a-brack stood here and there about the room. On one was a seautiful specimen of Belluk china, a roothuted shall resting on the graceful necks of three swant.

PETS AND PICTURES. We had waited fifteen minutes when the baroness appeared. She had been some distance in the garden, and had walked hur-riedly, so her cheeks were flushed with exrie liy, so her chiekt were flushed with ex-erci e and her eyes were bright with health. She seemed unaffectedly glad to see u., and, after a few moments' conversation, said she must show us a little more of her house. atter a few moments' conversation, said she must show as a little more of her house. The billiari-room was large, and delightfully arranged. The wall pictures were especially lateresting to a lover of animals. All the baroness' pots, done by famous artites, adorn the walls. Cowa, birds, cockatoo, dogs, donkeys, and sheep lives amicably together. Upon the mantelpiece is a singular-looking black dog with an almost white head. "Yes," the baroness said, "he was very strange in appearance, and very accomplished. My sister bought him from some German players. One of his tricks was taking a relight to total in his mouth, and his teeth were quite worn down." He had a heroic face, a equire jaw, and intense eyes that spoke of past suffering. It is pleasant to toink of his last days, prosperous and happy, with nothing harder to do than to carry a lady's dainty beaded bag in his poor scarred mouth.

"Ben," a small fox terrier, that had not left the baroness slie, listened jealously to the conversation, for he sneaked away, and presently triumphantly returned, carrying a round white stone in his mouth. The baroness says her friends frequently send their pets to her when ill or troublesome, for she is a kind to animals as to humanity. CHARACTERISTICS.

CHARACTERISTICS.

In the second drawing room there are some wonderful pale aq amarine windows, with graceful etchings on them of draped and rounded female figures; the hangings are all of the same pale tint, and the whole room is a suggestion of the earliest and tendered sorting days. derest spring days. There was a great political discus ion going on, in which the baroness was animated and interested; like every true woman, she looks at ter husband's opponent from a rurely personal view. She speak: of him with a sureness that inlicits: the complete congeniality between them. Indeed, she is a woman wasse age no man or woman would stop to consiler. Intelligent and conversant with a great variety of subject, she has gotten the bost that life affords, for she has been always tuny and kind and useful. Her intensely occupies mind has taken no notice of time, so time has passed her lightly by going on to tease the elevator of crows' foet.

ASTOR HOUSE CURE

DYSPEPSIA!! A Sure Remedy. Properly Cooked Food. An Ounce of Prevention Better than a Pound of Cure. One great evil of this city is a certain fiendishness displayed by restaurant keepers in the manner in which they slap victuals together and throw the same at their customers.

Worse by far than a certain Nevada Eating House where a tramp was in the act of walking out without paying. The irate cashier violently seized a pie crust, took deadly aim, and brought down the unfortunate free luncher, badly cut about the head. The Grand Jury afterwards held the cashier to answer for assault with a deadly weapon. Take for instance a Honolulu Hash Factory doughnut when cooled off. A leaden bullet is no where in comparison; then again some of the HOT CAKES would prove unworkable for mending old shoes and will stretch further than any rubber band ever made. From all such, etc., deliver us.

The above named instances of cooking depravity are much to be A recent change in the Proprietorship of the ASTOR HOUSE (at all times famous for good grub) enables the management to greatly facilitate the suppression of such villianous systems of careless cooking which tend in such a marked degree to destroy the Human Digestive organs. Upon all occasions it will be found a real luxury to step into our Dining Parlors (no flies) and there partake of a savory meal cooked by our Champion Chef.

Every morning Boarders and Transient customers may order German Pancake, Tender Loin, Porterhouse, or Sirloin Steak, with or without onions, Prime Ham and fresh eggs Royal Breakfast Bacon, Fish every day, Rib Mutton Chop (none but the best of material used.) The midday bill ot fare as published on the Bulletin Board is something that everybody should read and inwardly digest. For supper we supply in addition to the substantial goods. Sponge cake, Ice cream, Jellies, Fruit, and various other dainties. Some of our would-be competitors are surprised to know how we can sell 21 meal tickets for $4.50. And in our elegantly appointed private dining room only charge 35 cent for meal. The secret may easily be given away; the ASTOR HOUSE is centrally located and doing a large Transient cash trade. Meals at all hours produces a constant flow of ready money, thereby enabling us to go out to the market and buy at reduced rates for cash. Our patrons receive the full benefit of this superior system of dealing. All who have not yet experienced the luxury of eating at the Astor House can now come right in and be made welcome at the oldest established Dining Rooms in the Hawaiian Kingdom.
