PAROLE FOR CHAPMAN

Young Man Who Robbed the United States Express Company to be Treated Like Eastman.

Sentence Will Be Withheld During Good Behavior—Wilson May Get New Trial.

Loughrey-Great Western Case in the Hands of the Jury—Disagreement Looked For.

Frank Chapman, the young man who pleaded guilty to the larceny of an express package containing $100 from the driver of the United States Express Company at Pickering, is to receive the same treatment at the hands of Judge Caswell according to young Jay Eastman, and will be paroled. Sentence of the court will be withheld indefinitely, and Chapman will give bonds for his appearance at the succeeding terms of court, at which time he will be called upon to give a good accounting of himself and his doings.

Judge Caswell has informed the young man of his intentions, but the legal formalities, have not yet been completed and Chapman is still in jail. Judge Caswell believes that in these two cases his action will be of more benefit than a term in the penitentiary, as they would be in danger of coming out of the prison hardened criminals.

It is probable that Monroe Wilson who was convicted of the larceny of a watch from Carl Haas, will be granted a new trial. A motion for the setting aside of the verdict has been filed, on the grounds that the county attorney, in his pleadings, referred to Wilson's failure to testify in his own behalf as significant. The law says that a prisoner may testify in his own behalf, but if he does not the fact must not be referred to in the arguments.

The concluding argument was made in the Loughrey-Great Western damage suit this morning, court convening at 8 o'clock. The jury was sent out at 9 a. m., amid conjectures by the hangers-on about court that a disagreement was not improbable. The jury had not reached a verdict at noon this belief was strengthened.

The case of W. M. Trease vs. W. A. Haggin, a controversy over the collection of a note on which Haggin was surety, was called and is being tried before the court. This case was once decided in favor of Mr. Trease, but the supreme court remanded it back to the district court for rehearing.

Four of Rev. Abrams' sermon injunctions have been assigned, and it looks as though they would be tried at this term. The cases are entitled A. J. Mable vs. Gustav Bierman, A. J. Mable vs. Bernstein Bros., E. R. Mead vs. Frank Kinsey and E. R. Mead vs. Phil Sheridan.

Brakeman's Queer Experience.

The Albia Union tells of a queer accident that occurred to an Iowa Central brakeman who is known by the railroad men of this city. The Union says: "C. A. Northcutt, a brakeman on the Iowa Central road, had a peculiar and at the same time dangerous accident happen to him last Tuesday afternoon. He was on the head end of the train going down to Hooking, and was hanging out on the steps giving signals when the car passed close to a switch and one of the arms on the top of it extended out far enough to reach the brakeman. There was a sharp point on the arm and it passed through the overalls he wore and left him suspended in mid air. As the train passed over the switch the arm would sway backward and forward and Northcutt was thrown against the train, time and again. The train crew saw the predicament he was in and the train was stopped and a number of men went to his relief and removed him from the unpleasant position. He was taken to the office of Dr. Jackson and given medical attention. He was not dangerously hurt, though he was badly bruised."
