Fifth District Congressman Addresses the Largest Gathering of the Campaign.

Answers Candidate White and Scores the Party of Atkinson and Aguinaldo.

A Strong Presentation of the Duties and Responsibilities of the People.

Congressman Robert G. Cousins addressed, at the Odeon Thursday night, the greatest number of people assembled in this county to hear a political speech during the present quiet but important campaign.

Congressman Cousins has made addresses that were more witty; addresses that were adorned with phrases more flowery; that were decorated with anecdotes in greater number, but for sound presentation of the duties and responsibilities of the government and the people of this country the address excelled.

Music for the meeting was furnished by the K. O. T. M. band. Both in the size of the audience and in the frequent applause with which the many strong points of the congressman's speech were greeted the meeting was in great contrast to that of the opposition party, held in the afternoon and addressed by Candidate Fred White.

The greatest confidence and the best founded hope which the American nation can have is that which is based upon a realization of the intelligence of the average citizen. If there were as many schoolhouses and school teachers and as small a percentage of illiteracy in every state of this union as there is in the state of Iowa, the nation would go republican in 1900 by at least two million majority.

I have been somewhat interested and greatly amused by the manner in which the negative element and fault finders have approached and treated the public questions during the past two years. In the first place general prosperity had to be confessed and in some way avoided. Soup houses had vanished and the thousands of headquarters of public charities had given place almost in the twinkling of an eye to employment bureaus and to revived and re-animated industries.

As I have said, this situation had to be confessed and in some political way avoided. Mr. White, the democratic candidate for governor, confesses it, and seeks to avoid it by the simple avowal that it all comes about by a shortage of foreign crops. Tell me, did a shortage of foreign grain crops enable foreign nations to purchase of America's manufactures $233,557,794 worth of American manufactured products in the fiscal year of 1899, while in 1893 they only purchased of us $158,023,118 worth?

It is possible that Mr. White is still laboring under the illusion that American industrial success depends upon a shortage of crops in other countries? Is it possible that he has not observed the difference between America employed and America idle? Does he still suppose that John Jones and William Smith, living at a soup house in democratic times, are as good patrons of the Iowa farmer as when they are constantly employed at the wages they are getting now?

of capital would you prefer that they should exist abroad than in America? After all, is it not a great consolation to have your neighbor employed? Doesn't Mr. White like the idea of the 6 o'clock whistle? Do you prefer '94 and '95 to '98 and '99? Isn't it better to feed hungry men who can pay than tramps who tell of their discharge? Does Mr. White really want to make a Mexico out of America and have her dollars weighed before they are taken, or is he merely talking through his visionary gubernatorial hat? Do the people of Iowa who produce every year at least $100,000,000 worth of products more than they buy, want to lower the standard of living, and do they want to have established by legislation the "cut-out" platform which Mr. White and his convention today "unreservedly" endorse, "in whole and in detail?"

Never in the history of Marshall county politics has the republican sentiment seemed so overwhelming as this year. Such is the verdict made apparent after a careful canvass of the county. In response to a request sent out by the editor of this paper representative voters from almost every voting precinct in the county have reported the situation as they found it in their own locality, and the unanimity of the reports is something remarkable.

Editor Times-Republican, Marshalltown, Ia.—Dear Sir: Yours of the 26th received. In regard to the political sentiment of this locality I will say that in no other locality who intends to vote anything but a straight republican ticket.

By far the most of the reports do not recognize the existence of any context at all in fact it seems to be the general feeling that the entire republican ticket will be elected as a matter of course, and that the only question is as to the size of the majority. It is safe to say that the entire county is solid for the republican ticket.

Just when the wheels were beginning to spin, just when relief was coming to the anxious and the idle, just when the dove was returning to the storm-tossed ark bearing the olive branch, a promise was told of a continent of thrift and beauty and confidence and employment—just then, the cloud of war, which had been threatening, burst upon the country.

THE PHILIPPINE QUESTION. Congressman Cousins then told of the events leading up to the declaration of war with Spain, of the responsibilities thrust upon the nation, but bravely assumed, of Dewey's wonderful achievement, and said that as Dewey had not yet been advised by Mr. Atkinson or by any of the democratic resolutions committees in America that he was a criminal aggressor, he presumed in all innocence that he was doing the duty of a patriot in upholding the flag and maintaining the position of his country and in protecting the lives and property of citizens of Manila.

There has been considerable anxiety felt in this city, by the different families of the Klondikers especially, over the safety of the Alaskan steamers. Mrs. Benjamin was not even sure just which way her husband was coming, whether via Seattle or Prisco. Mr. Benjamin desired to come via Seattle, but he had secured passage already at the time his last letter was written, Oct. 4, via San Francisco.

REV. S. A. DONAHOE Testifies to the Good Qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. On the 10th of December, 1897, Rev. S. A. Donahoe, pastor M. E. church, South Pl. Pleasant, W. Va., contracted a severe cold, which was attended from the beginning by violent coughing. He says: "After resorting to a number of so-called 'specifics' usually kept in the house, to no purpose, I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which acted like a charm. I most cheerfully recommend it to the public. For sale by druggists."

WILL VOTE IT STRAIGHT

Reports From Every Voting Precinct Make Very Favorable Showing For Republicans.

Opinion Never So Unanimous That Voters Will Vote a Straight Ticket.

Feeling is Good and General Satisfaction Prevails—Unprecedented Majority Assured.

MISS SHONTZ'S MISSION.

A Third Party Movement by the W. C. T. U. Not Very Successful Here.

The Presbyterian church was about half filled Thursday evening when Miss Eva Marshall Shontz, of Chicago, spoke on the young people's movement in the temperance work.

Miss Shontz has been called the second Miss Willard and her manner and address show her well worthy the title. She is a woman yet young, of very attractive appearance and with a refined face, resembling the leader of the W. C. T. U. whose name is so revered by the organization. Added to her personal attractions, are enthusiasm and a winning voice, so Miss Shontz is one calculated to move her audience. Her motto is "God give us war," but that war, of course, is to be against the saloon. The first part of her address was devoted to statistics and anecdotes showing the prevalence of the liquor traffic and the evil accomplished by it, and then the speaker unfolded her plan for doing away with both. Miss Shontz, as the founder of the Young People's Christian Temperance Union, devoted her time and attention to that particular branch of the temperance work and endeavors to organize a society in each city which she visits. The special work which these societies are expected to do is to secure 1,000,000 names of voters to a petition to be presented next year to the political parties in convention assembled. The prayer of the document will be that a prohibition plank be inserted in the platform. To the party pledging itself so to do the 1,000,000 citizens will pledge their votes, but on a refusal they will form a party of their own. The speaker expressed herself as encouraged by the work already accomplished in organizing. It was desired to form a society here, although there seemed to be a feeling that conditions were not so favorable as they might be and at an informal council of those prominent in temperance work, after the lecture, it was decided best that the matter should not be pushed at once.

OBITUARY. Straus. At his home, 515 South Fifth street, Thursday evening at 7 o'clock, John G. Straus, one of the oldest and best-known Germans of the city, died. Mr. Straus was born in Germany seventy-eight years ago, and came to this country in 1875, since which time he has lived here. He had been very ill with inflammation of the bowels before his death. Besides his wife, Mr. Straus leaves two daughters and two sons, Mrs. H. Stephens, Mrs. William Bowman, Mr. C. H. Straus and Mr. W. H. Straus, of Oskaola. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at the German church.

Little But Sure. Are Beggs' Little Giants, a friend in need, pleasant to take, do not grip or gripe. An after dinner pill. Geo. P. Powers.

MARRIED. Rocky-ty-schelling. A quiet wedding was solemnized at 8 o'clock Thursday evening by Justice Oscar Allen, who united in marriage Miss Alice Schelling and Mr. Harry Rocky. Only the near relatives and friends of the bride and groom were present. The wedding occurred at the new home of the young people, at the Snelling property, 106 North Fifth street, recently occupied by Postmaster and Mrs. J. Q. Saint. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Schelling, of South Third avenue, and the groom a son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rocky. Both are well known and have many friends in the city.

Disappointed. Are they who fail to get Beggs' German Salve for eczema, letter, scald head and old sores. Cures piles. Geo. P. Powers.

Benjamin and Mr. John D. Vail. Both received good news in the shape of telegrams from Mr. Benjamin and Mr. Edward Vail. The former was expected, and had been for several days, while Mr. Vail was happily surprised, as he had been informed that his son did not intend coming home from Alaska this winter.
