

THE REUNION OF 1870

Gen. Grenville M. Dodge Recalls Reunion of Union Soldiers in 1870.

Rode in Box Cars to Des Moines 30,000 Strong - Rode on Passes, Too.

Speakers Bureau Well Organized and Army of Local Speakers Being Recruited.

Special to Times-Republican.

Des Moines, Sept. 25.—During his visit here yesterday Gen. Grenville M. Dodge called in Adjt. Gen. M. H. Myers and they spoke of the great soldiers' reunion in Des Moines in 1870, which both these Iowa union soldiers attended. Gen. Myers recalled the fact that he rode from Glenwood to Des Moines in an ordinary box car with a plank for a seat. The reunion was attended by more than 30,000 soldiers, and it completely swamped the railroads, which were unable to secure coaches enough to carry all the soldiers who wanted to come. Every private was carried free on a pass furnished by the adjutant general, who was Gen. N. E. Baker. Commissioned officers had to pay half fare. The legislature, being in session at that time, appropriated $15,000 to help the city of Des Moines pay the expense of entertaining the soldiers. That was the greatest reunion that was ever held in Iowa and one of the largest in the country. Gen. Baker kept a scrapbook in which he pasted clippings about the preparations for the reunion and samples of all the passes issued for transportation on the different railroads and this gives an interesting story of the affair.

Gen. Dodge paid his respects to the state officers and to many of his old friends here. He was purely a special one, but he was much interested in the new historical building and in the work which Mr. Aldrich is doing. He has helped Mr. Aldrich in the past and may be expected to make some important donations in the future. He still retains his home in Council Bluffs and has never lost interest in Iowa. He is on his way to Keokuk to attend the Crocker Brigade reunion, which is in session there today and tomorrow.

Gilbert B. Pray is now a quiet business man in Des Moines, giving all of his time to an insurance company he helped to organize. He is now one of its principal officers. He resigned his position as inspector of Indian agencies nearly a year ago, but was unable to get it accepted until last July. Very few men know the politics of this state as well as Mr. Pray. For twelve years he was clerk of the supreme court and for nearly as many years was closely identified with the party management in the state. He had the bad luck to be chairman in a bad year, that was when Horace Boies was elected, in 1889, a result which was in no way chargeable to the state chairman. His advice has been of great value to numerous other chairmen, and hardly a campaign in Iowa in the last fifteen years has been carried on without valuable assistance from Gib Pray. Senator Allison has always placed great reliance in his judgment and political skill in the memorable contest of 1880 and the two men closest to the senator were Frank D. Jackson and G. B. Pray. Mr. Pray still retains his residence in Webster City, but it is not unlikely that he will soon remove to Des Moines.

Governor Shaw's dates in Indiana are Greencastle, Sept. 24; Shelbyville, Sept. 25; Bloomfield, Sept. 26; Columbus, Sept. 27; and Bloomington, Sept. 28. He has no engagement for the 29th, but will reach Des Moines on Sunday, the 30th, and proceed to Manila and Harlan for speeches on the first of October, and from that date he will be almost exclusively engaged in the campaign in Iowa. It is likely, however, that he will be obliged to make a few more speeches outside the state.

Congressman Richard Bartholdt, of St. Louis, has been secured for two speeches in Iowa on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 28 and 29. Mr. Bartholdt will be on his way home from Wisconsin, where he has been speaking, and his meetings will be in the eastern part of the state. One of them will probably be in Davenport. He speaks both in German and English and is regarded as a very effective campaigner.

The rough rider clubs are rapidly increasing in number and reports are constantly being received of the existence of a large number of clubs in this or that county. The last report was from Madison county to the effect that about a dozen well organized clubs are in existence there, mounted and uniformed and ready for business. These clubs are taking a prominent and active and effective part in the republican meetings.

Manager Dawson of the speakers' bureau, has secured from a dozen to twenty first-class local speakers in every congressional district who are prepared to answer calls for their services during the campaign. The county chairmen have lists of these local speakers, so they can be called upon whenever needed without loss of time, which has been suffered in the past because these arrangements had to be made thru the state headquarters at Des Moines. A great deal of time was lost and much confusion resulted from this, all of which is avoided by the present scheme devised by Mr. Dawson. It lightens the work at state headquarters and pleases the county chairmen and the speakers well, for they can understand each other better by direct communication than by talking thru a third party. The army of local speakers is a first-class one, and it is from this reserve force that the party gets its best campaigners. This is a sort of recruiting organization for speakers.

The Fifty-second Regiment has its annual target shoot at Algona, beginning on the 23 of October. For some reason it could not be held earlier. Five men go from each company and compete for the annual regimental trophies. The shoot is under the direction of Capt. Smith, of Webster City, the regimental inspector of small arms practice.

TAMA COUNTY FAIR.

Bad Roads and Threatening Weather Reduce Attendance.

Special to Times-Republican. Toledo, Sept. 25.—Threatening weather reduced the attendance at the Tama county fair yesterday. Today promises good sport in the speed department, all the races having well-filled entry lists. The 2:30 trot, free-for-all trot and a running race are scheduled for Thursday, and seven entries in each. Friday's racing consists of the free-for-all pace with six entries, the three-minute trot with fourteen entries and a running race with an exceptionally good field.

In the farm section the display is not as good as in former years, bad weather and bad roads combining to keep exhibitors in this department away. Swine is an excellent class and some fine cattle and poultry are shown. The exhibit of drawing by the pupils of the Toledo schools is large and entirely worthy of creditable mention and shows systematic and careful work on the part of the children and their instructors.

New Trotting Star.

Special to Times-Republican. Iowa Falls, Sept. 25.—John Conley left last evening for Toledo, Ia., where he took the trotting stallion, George A. Alerton, owned here by Hettler brothers. The horse will start in two races at Toledo going from there to the carnival races at Cedar Rapids. This is the first season on the track for this horse and he has made a good record, making a splendid showing in the races at Dubuque, Des Moines and other Iowa points. Mr. Conley is the gentleman that developed the well known pacing mare Ethel A., who made a record of 2:10 1/4 as a two-year-old and Mr. Conley thinks he has in his new protegee another horse that will make a name for himself in the turf world.

Big Realty Deals.

Special to Times-Republican. Iowa Falls, Sept. 25.—Some big realty deals have recently been made in this vicinity that indicate the value of farm property in this section and is an appreciation of the splendid market facilities this city offers as well as the educational advantages that the city possesses. The Titus farm north of town has been sold by J. G. Smith to Charles Killius, of Swaledale, Ia., for $8,000. It is well improved and contains 120 acres. Another deal is the sale of the Cavanna 160-acre farm south of the city for $9,000 to W. B. Richards, of Rockwell, Ia. Both places are near enough to the city to afford the many advantages the place offers and in both instances the purchase was made with a view to making permanent homes of them.

New Lodge for Albion.

Special to Times-Republican. Albion, Sept. 25.—A lodge of Modern Brotherhood of America was organized in M. W. A. hall last Friday evening. The following officers were elected: President, F. N. Anderson; vice president, F. W. Furch; secretary, Dr. G. E. Niblock; treasurer, B. E. Brown; conductors, Mrs. M. F. Everist; chaplain, Mrs. Maggie Harland; physician, Dr. G. E. Niblock; watchman, Jake Timmins; sentry, Forest Smith. Assisted by A. W. Cozer, state deputy, and B. and Mrs. Meese, Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. A. L. Marble, George H. Draper, of Marshalltown, the work was done by Deputy Marble. After the work was completed the ladies provided a banquet.

Democrats at Woodbine.

Special to Times-Republican. Woodbine, Sept. 25.—The democrats opened their campaign here last evening. Rev. J. R. Speck, of Council Bluffs was the drawing card. The Bryan Club hired the city band and provided the opera house where the reverend gentleman spoke to an audience consisting of about half democrats and half republicans. His whole speech was simply abuse of the republican administration and President McKinley. He did not advance an argument at all, and made several misstatements. All in all it was not a vote getter for the party. Many went with the expectation of hearing a good argument, but came away disappointed.

Robbery in Boarding Camp.

Polk City, Sept. 25.—Two men, Riley and Flemming, laborers of a North-western gang, who have been employed at the work here in the gravel pits, have disappeared suddenly and with them were $75 in cash and $80 that were stolen in the night from eight or ten employes of the company who had been drinking heavily and were not in a condition to guard their hard-earned money. All of the men are members of the boarding camp of T. S. Bertrand. Warrants have been issued for Riley and Flemming, and are in the hands of the sheriff of Polk county.

Women's Relief Corps Meets.

Special to Times-Republican. Clinton, Sept. 25.—The second district convention of the Women's Relief Corps was held in this city yesterday. Addresses were made by Mrs. Snyder, of Dubuque, department president of the state; by Mrs. Redell, of Dubuque, state inspector; by Mrs. Vance, of Davenport, a member of the executive board, and by Mrs. Georgia Worker, senior vice commander of the state. In the evening a rousing campfire was held, to which the members of the G. A. R. were invited.

Death at St. Anthony.

Special to Times-Republican. St. Anthony, Sept. 25.—Mrs. Rebecca Atkinson was born in Maryland September 10, 1811, and died September 25, 1900, at the home of her son, W. R. Atkinson. She united with the Disciple church at the age of 15 years, of which she was a faithful member till the time of her death. Deceased leaves two daughters and one son and other relatives and friends to mourn her loss.

Breckenridge Homeless Settles.

Waterloo, Sept. 25.—The bondsmen of A. I. Breckenridge have settled with the Perpetual Building and Loan Association by the payment of $1,000 each, which is equivalent to the payment of $4,000. They were sued for $6,000. Breckenridge was the secretary of the association and is now serving a sentence in the penitentiary for embezzling the funds of the concern.

Fell Thru a Hole.

Special to Times-Republican. Dayton, Sept. 25.—George Reinhart, a brakeman on the C. & N. W., while walking across the bridge just below this place, stubbed his foot and fell into the hollow of the creek bed, breaking one rib and injuring his spine. He was unconscious about three hours, but is doing nicely at this writing.

B. B. Hart Dead.

Special to Times-Republican. Clinton, Sept. 25.—B. B. Hart, one of the best known civil engineers in this section, is dead, aged 67 years.

MORE ABOUT SANDERS.

Rev. E. M. Vittum of Grinnell Talks About Iowa College's New President.

Was Born in Ceylon, of New England Parents, Who Were Missionaries There.

President of Chicago University Admires and Recommends Him Above All Others.

Special to Times-Republican.

Grinnell, Sept. 25.—Regarding Dr. Frank Knight Sanders, the newly elected president of Iowa college, Rev. E. M. Vittum, pastor of the Congregational church of this city, and member of the board of college trustees says: "About the time that Dr. Sanders received his degree of Ph.D. from the University of the most prominent men in the University were giving up their work; Dr. G. E. Day, of the Theological Seminary, in the chair of Hebrew and Old Testament theology, on account of advanced age; and W. R. Harper, to become president of the University of Chicago. Each of the men selected Mr. Sanders as the one whom he wished to have made his successor. This in itself is a remarkable testimonial to the impression this young student had made upon his teachers.

"Mr. Harper, as usual, had his way, and Mr. Sanders became professor of Biblical Literature. Following out the plan of Mr. Harper, and adding what the development of the work suggested to his mind, he has built up a new department in Yale, that of Biblical Literature, two associates have been added, Professor W. J. Moulton, who has worked with him several years, and Professor Torrey, of Andover Theological Seminary, who has, this summer, accepted a call to the department of Yale of which Professor Sanders is the head. Professor Sanders has worked with the undergraduates who are in the University for sixty students from each class take his courses. He offers in addition several courses especially designed for students in the Theological Seminary. He has also personal oversight of the few post-graduate students, some half-dozen in number, that are in the city to do work in Biblical Literature. He is often called upon for lectures and other public addresses, teaches in various summer schools and is widely known thru his published books and articles in periodicals. He is well spoken of as a preacher, tho' not ordaining, and his appearance gives the impression of strength and honesty.

"From President Harper, of Chicago University, I received the following letter: "University of Chicago, Office of the President, Chicago, Sept. 19, 1900. Mr. Edmund M. Vittum, Grinnell, Ia.—Dear Sir: Your letter of Aug. 31st has just reached me. I have known Mr. Sanders intimately for fifteen years, and have been in touch with him during all that period. I cannot think of a man whom you would find a swifter, fuller, more acceptably the presidency of Iowa college than Mr. Sanders. He is one of the most tactful men I have ever known. He is at the same time a strong and courageous and persevering man. Everything to which he has ever put his hand he has made successful. His administrative ability is so great that at the University of Chicago he occupies a first rate position at Yale, I would recommend him to accept the presidency because there are comparatively speaking so few men who can do the president's work. He is strong with students. He is a man who will stand well with men of wealth. He would give easy access to them. If I could not have suggested a name, I would not possibly have proposed a stronger name than that of Professor Sanders. His wife is a most excellent woman, and would maintain in every way the dignity of the president's office. You know that very frequently a strong man is injured by having a weak wife. This is not the case with Mr. Sanders. His wife would maintain her position most satisfactorily. Hoping that you will be able to secure the right man, I remain, Yours very truly, Wm. R. Harper.

HIS LIFE.

Of his life Rev. Vittum says: "Frank Knight Sanders was born of New England parents. His father was reared in Williamstown, Mass., and graduated at Williams College, Massachusetts. He also born in Massachusetts. His brother, Dr. Knight, was for many years superintendent of the school for imbeciles, a state institution at Lakeville, Conn. He was succeeded by his own son, the younger Dr. Knight, who is still at the head of that institution.

"Mr. and Mrs. Sanders, parents of F. K. Sanders, were appointed missionaries under the American board and labored for several years in Ceylon. "In the early sixties, at the solicitation of his colleagues and with the approval of the board, Mr. Sanders came to America to raise money for the endowment of a Christian college in this country. He was successful in this work, tho' at great expenditure of nervous energy. But the officers of the board were eager to have the new college started, and as he was expected to be the first president, it seemed best for him to return to Ceylon at a time when his medical friends advised him that he needed a complete and extended rest. He died of apoplexy three weeks after landing in Ceylon. Mrs. Sanders, with her four boys, returned to America and found a permanent home with her brother, Dr. Knight, at Lakeville. Of the four boys, two are missionaries, one in Africa and one in Turkey; another is a successful physician and the youngest is the one who has been called to the presidency of Iowa College.

Frank Knight Sanders was born in Ceylon in July, 1861. He was 3 years old at the time of his father's death. He remained with his mother at Lakeville, Conn., until he was 12 years of age. At that time his uncle thought a change of climate and surroundings would be good for the boy, and as he was invited by family friends to spend a year at Ripon, Wis., where he could continue his studies preparatory to college, it seemed best that he should go. At the end of a year it was by his own request that the time was extended, and the final result was that he remained six years. At the end of this period he graduated from Ripon College, in the class of 1882, at the age of 21. Concerning his scholarship while an undergraduate student, I have no direct evidence except this: It was expected that, after postgraduate studies, he would return, if all went well, to take the chair of Greek in his alma mater. With this in view, his friends secured for him the offer of a tutorship in Oberlin. But just then there was a call for a young man to go under a four years' contract to teach in the college his father had founded in Ceylon. This place was offered to him and he accepted it.

"After his return from India he went to Yale, primarily to study Greek. But he chose Yale in order that he might do some work in the Theological Seminary while studying for a doctor's degree in the postgraduate department. He completed two years of work in the Theological Seminary and received the degree of doctor of philosophy in 1889. Soon after he succeeded W. R. Harper to the chair of sacred literature in Yale. "Mrs. Sanders is a native of Wisconsin. She was for several years a student of Ripon College, but did not graduate, having left her class about the middle of her junior year. She is highly spoken of by those who know her. They have three children."

INTERVIEW WITH PRES. GATES.

Retiring President Talks in Burlington of College Faculty and Work.

Burlington, Sept. 25.—Professor George D. Gates, president of Iowa College, has been in the city several days, on Sunday preaching the memorial sermon for the late C. W. Rand. Professor Gates has tendered his resignation, but will remain with the school until November. Speaking just before leaving for Grinnell, of the work of the college of the year, President Gates said: "Iowa College, at Grinnell, opens in full force this year. Last June the largest class ever sent out graduated sixty-three in the degree courses. This is three times as many as the average of classes ten years ago. "Because of the unusual number of changes in the faculty some have been fearing a falling off in the number of students this fall. Such apprehension appears to be groundless, for the freshman class is the largest in the history of the institution and larger yet in the proportion of those coming from outside, i. e., not going up into the college from the academy department of the college. One hundred and twenty freshmen are already registered. "There are nine changes in the faculty. My resignation as president takes effect in November, as I have consented to remain with the college till the year's work is well on its way. Inability to live in the climate of Iowa necessitates my removal to the dry climate of the western mountains. "Dr. George D. Herron last year resigned from the E. D. Rand professorship of applied Christianity. His successor has not yet been found. The work of this department is temporarily in the hands of Professor G. P. Wyckoff, the associate professor in the same department. "Professor James Simmons, of the department of philosophy and ethics, has been compelled by ill health to ask for a year's leave of absence. He is with his family in Colorado. His place is taken by Dr. John Boodin, from the University of Upsala, Sweden, and later instructor in philosophy in Harvard University. "Dr. John S. Nollen, the head of the department of modern languages, is spending the year in study in Europe on leave of absence. His place is supplied by Dr. G. G. Galt, who was instructor in the department last year. Miss Helen B. Morris, in the same department of modern languages, who resigned last year because of ill health, has been succeeded by Miss Grace Henderson, a graduate of the Western Reserve University of Cleveland, O., and who has spent two years abroad studying French and German. She also has been elected preceptress of the academy, succeeding Dr. Arleta Warren, resigned to take a year of study in the American School of Classical Languages in Rome as a member of the family of Professor Kelley, of Michigan State University, who has charge of the school in Rome this year. "Dr. Bert E. Powell's place as principal of the academy, is filled by Dr. Charles O'Connor, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, who has spent the last year in the American School of Classical Languages in Rome. "Dr. John H. T. Main, who has been for eight months with Mrs. E. D. Rand, Miss Carrie Rand and Dr. Herron, traveling in Egypt, Palestine and Greece, resumes his work as head of the department of Greek. The State University at Iowa City has tried hard to get Mr. Main, having elected him with enticing conditions. Dr. Main stays with Iowa College at a much smaller salary than was offered him by the university. He has made his department in Iowa College probably the strongest in the west. "The outlook for Iowa College was never more hopeful than now. It is, like all other institutions, feeling sorely the shrinkage in the rate of income from its invested endowment funds. It is doubtless good for the country that interest rates shall be low, but it is interest rates that move on steadily toward its natural enlargement, while in seven years the interest rate on its endowment fund of $400,000 falls from 3 per cent to 5. "It so comes about that the prosperity of our colleges in enlargement of work and increase of numbers of students is the very cause of one of the most serious of their problems."

President Gates talked quite freely regarding his future inclinations. He had, he said, no plans. His immediate desire is to properly conclude his duties as president of Iowa College, which will terminate November 1, and then retire for a period of three or four months. There is little doubt, however, that his time will be thoroughly occupied as soon as he wishes it so. He is already in receipt of several proposals pointing to church and educational work. Asked whether his inclination ran toward ordinary church work, he replied: "The institutional work is toward the church, but I mean the latter. What I desire most of all is to come in contact with that most neglected of all Americans, the ordinary, respectable workman, who will not receive charity which he does not need and cannot be approached by patronage which he despises. While railing that labor despises, I am still convinced that much could be accomplished by work among them in a churchwise manner. By inquiry among their leaders I have ascertained that a very small per cent ever attend church at any time. The encouragement of higher inspiration among such men, their sons and their daughters, I take it, is a field sufficiently broad for any man."
