

REVISION NOT LIKELY

General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church at Des Moines.

Change of Creed Relative to Joining Secret Orders to Come Up.

Report of the Committee Will Say Revision Is Not Generally Demanded.

Special to Times-Republican. Des Moines, May 22.—This evening the general assembly of the United Presbyterian church of North America will convene in this city. The committee appointed a year ago to prepare a report upon the revision of the creed or testimony of faith with regard to members of the church joining the secret orders will submit a report to the convention tomorrow. The report says it does not appear there exists in the church such a demand for a change in the testimony against secret societies as would justify sending down in overture the article under consideration, and recommends the adoption of the following resolution: "That, while the fifteenth article of our testimony defines in a manner sufficiently explicit the general law of our church on the subject of secret societies, sessions possess and are expected to exercise wise discretion in the administration of the law, dealing with such cases as may arise upon their merits and in such a way as may best promote God's glory and the peace and prosperity of the church."

THE EPISCOPAL CONVENTION.

Annual Session of the Iowa Diocese at Des Moines.

Des Moines, May 22.—The principal feature of the session of the Episcopal diocesan convention was the missionary meeting held this morning, at which Bishop Morrison, Rev. Joseph Rushton, of Chicago, and Miss Lillie Crimmer, of Shanghai, were leading speakers. Bishop Morrison's address reported he had on hand $12,000 in various funds of the diocese for the indigent and infirm clergymen.

Bishop Morrison delivered his annual address to the clergy and laity of the state on Tuesday afternoon. He said in part:

"The past year has been a good one. There has been thank God, peace and unity throughout the diocese. The clergy have labored most faithfully and not without visible tokens of success. The condition of most of our parishes and missions is somewhat better than a year ago. The people seem more devout. There has been greater interest in missions and a spirit of helpfulness is evident everywhere. We ought to be, I am sure, most thankful."

Five things the Episcopal church stands for Bishop Morrison dwelt upon as follows:

- 1. That God has made a revelation and the Bible is the record of that revelation.
2. This creed is for all time and for all places.
3. The church is the divine organization; it is the Lord's body, the organization through which He works.
4. The church is to insist on the idea of worship, and to present a sacrifice of prayer and praise, as the inestimable privilege of all men.
5. The church has ever set obedience above emotion, and has stood for a rational, well proportioned idea of the Christian life.

Continuing Bishop Morrison said: "To be righteous, kind-hearted, helpful, charitable men; to carry out into the affairs of life the application of what we believe, to be profoundly interested in all that makes for human well-being, to have men and women as our friends of all good causes and helpful enterprises; to be profoundly interested in men and all that touches their life—this is the consistent application of our principles, and spiritual fruit of the seed we sow. Only as we make better men and women, only as we reach the great world with loving sympathy and helpfulness, will we succeed in drawing men to the church. The world has little time for logic, historical investigation, the rights of institutions; now, as ever, men feel personal influence, are sensible of the presence of a force, working for righteousness, acknowledged results. If in my community where we go the priest has more of the spirit of Christ than other men will acknowledge that it is so. If our laymen are a type of higher manhood; if we are producing better men and women than are produced elsewhere, the world will seek us out. We may rebel against the priest; sooner or later the community weighs every man in the balance."

THE McMAHON INQUEST.

Coroner's Jury Discovers Nothing Definite Regarding the Death.

Fort Dodge, May 22.—The coroner's jury called to the inquest on the body of George McMahon returned a verdict that the "deceased" came to his death between April 17, 1901, at 10 p. m., and May 19, at 9 a. m., by unknown means. Nineteen witnesses were heard and every effort was made to clear up the mystery of the death. The decomposed condition of the body rendered it impossible to determine whether it had suffered foul play or not, and no evidence was discovered which could be considered to have any definite bearing on the case. Whether McMahon wandered into the slough while in a drunken frenzy and there perished miserably, or whether he was first knocked down and killed and was then thrust into place of concealment by those desirous of hiding their crime, will probably never be known. J. J. Mericle and E. D. Smith, who discovered the body, intend applying to Mrs. McMahon for the $1,000 reward offered. It is said that Mrs. McMahon will refuse to pay so large a sum.

BLEW OUT HIS BRAINS.

Young Man Kills Himself Near Piano While Insane.

Special to Times-Republican. Centerville, May 22.—While suffering from insanity Bowen Cole, a young man residing with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Cole, in Johns township near Platteau, yesterday went into his room upstairs at his home and blew his brains out with a Winchester rifle, dying almost instantly. The bits of brain tissue and splashes of blood were scattered over the room, making a terrible sight. Bowen Cole was 34 years of age. He had returned two years ago from Kansas, where he had a farm house burned over his head, and he had since lived with his father, who is one of the best and most prosperous farmers in this county. Last January he was brought before the commissioners for the insane in this city, but was discharged. Yesterday's fatal action had been made by Mr. Cole by telephone for a second examination, as the young man had grown worse, and Sheriff Clinie had been sent after the patient. The sheriff met Mr. Cole at Garfield and the two proceeded to the Cole home, but just before their arrival there the deed had been done. Two neighbors were with the family at the time, but the insane man had slipped away from them. The evidence on the record of insanity shows that Bowen Cole was of a restless disposition, high tempered and wandered about at night. He had carried firearms and had threatened to take the lives of himself and others.

ARRESTED FOR RAPE.

Plymouth County Stockman to Be Tried on Serious Charge.

Special to Times-Republican. LeMars, May 22.—Charles McCaustland, of Westfield township, has been arrested on a charge of rape. They disagreed over the property, and are living apart, and Mrs. McCaustland has instituted proceedings for divorce. The complaining witness in the rape case is Bessie Gilstrap, aged 14. She and her father worked for McCaustland, and she claims he raped her last summer and continued the intimacy for some months. McCaustland was released on $1,500 bond.

The way car and three coal racks left the rails. One car was loaded with coal, one with stone and one with a threshing machine. A brakeman was in the way car, but escaped unhurt. The special had eighteen minutes to get to Dayton, to meet No. 30 and the cause of the wreck was probably too fast running. Traffic was delayed five hours.

CAME CLOSE TO RIOT

The Carroll Convention Row Was Rich in Mingled Music and Profanity.

The Chairman Is the Object of Shaken Fists and Fluent Curses.

Rump Convention's Delegates Are Said to Be Favorable to Cummins.

Special to Times-Republican. Carroll, May 22.—As stated in the Times-Republican dispatches last night, the Carroll county convention held a monkey and parrot session, which resulted in a bolt by the Dewey men and the organization of a rump convention of their own. It was the result of a bitter fight waged between the Garst-Salinger factions for the control of the delegates to the senatorial convention.

When the convention was called to order by County Chairman W. R. Lee, a Garst-Cummins man, the sheriff served a writ of injunction on him ordering him to recognize only the Dewey delegation from Newton township. But the chairman paid no attention and a good-sized riot began. He named A. C. Steele, a Garst man, for temporary chairman. There was loud clamoring and wild shouting and in an instant the two factions of the convention started on a rush toward each other and a fight seemed imminent. Salinger rushed to the front and shook his fist in the face of the Garst man, who was too late and with a hurrah the Garst men elected Steele, a tall, iron-jawed stockman, with a steel gray eye who doesn't know fear. He took the gavel and the light seemed decided then.

Salinger took the floor and amid the wildest disorder cursed the chairman. A Garst delegate moved the appointment of a committee of five on credentials and another eruption followed. "By God, you can't do this kind of a thing here," roared Salinger, shaking his fist under the chairman's nose. "By God, we can't do it, we please while we have a majority," retorted the steel-eyed chairman, with a determination, and as he advanced from the platform Salinger retreated.

Then came the defeat and rout of the Salinger crowd. All the committees named were composed of Garst and Cummins men, and as a final protest Salinger jumped to a chair and called to his friends to bolt. They rose and left the hall amid the jeers and hisses of those who remained.

Senator Garst in the thick of the confusion called for a sing "Good-by, My Lover, Good-by," and soon the strains were taken up in all parts of the hall. The noise soon subsided and the work of the convention was carried out according to the program, resulting in the election of complete Garst and Cummins delegations.

The resolutions adopted endorsed President McKinley and favored the election of Senator J. P. Dolliver and the re-election of Senator W. B. Allison to the United States senate, declared the confidence of the convention in Hon. J. H. Connor and recommended his election to congress. The Cummins-Garst resolution was as follows: Whereas, the republicans of Carroll county have confidence in the integrity, ability, personal purity and statesmanship of Albert B. Cummins, and believing a large majority of the republicans of the county favor his nomination at the Cedar Rapids convention for the office of governor, be it Resolved, That the delegates from this county to said Cedar Rapids convention be and are hereby directed to cast their votes for Hon. Albert B. Cummins for governor; and be it further

Resolved, That the republicans of Carroll county, here assembled, recognizing the able and conscientious services of Hon. Warren Garst in the state senate, hereby heartily endorse his record and commend him to the republicans of the Forty-eighth district for re-nomination and election. The delegation instructed for Cummins is as follows: H. M. Macomber, J. F. Grace, W. L. Squires, W. E. Putter, W. C. Scott, A. E. Steele, F. A. Charles, W. R. Lee, John Hardy, D. W. Sutherland, L. H. Salinger.

The rump convention, led by Ben Salinger, organized with J. B. Hungerford as chairman. The Dewey delegation allowed Dewey to select his own delegation to the senatorial convention and named an uninstructed delegation to the state convention, and a majority of township committeemen chose C. C. Magee as chairman of the county central committee.

The state delegation chosen by the second convention is favorable to Mr. Cummins. They are as follows: C. C. Magee, Henry Meyer, D. W. Sutherland, W. C. Stevens, W. W. Keote, E. E. Edwards, A. M. Lauras, G. W. Laflar, A. Dixon, Myron Young, Charles Ohanson, Henry Whitehaling.

There are a number of candidates for the different offices. There is no doubt but that instructions will be given to the delegates to the state convention for the Franklin county man, Mr. Harriman.

Cedar Falls, May 22.—The official board of the German Lutheran church near Jubilee have awarded the contract for erecting a new house of worship to Henry Baehem, of LaPorte City, to cost $4,000. The old church was erected in 1872 and although in good repair has been torn down. Part of the material will be used in the construction of the new church. There have been some objections raised by the older residents to the move of tearing down the old church. To them it is a sacred edifice and the parting is like the separation from an old friend.

Devo L. Zellinger is the present pastor and aside from attending to his duties as the head of his flock he acts as principal of the parochial school. He is also a graduated physician. He has been uniformly successful in all of his undertakings.

The new church will be modern in style and finished with a fine interior finish of latest design. The windows will be of colored glass, and part of them will bear memorial inscriptions. Two have already been paid for by private parties for this purpose. Ground has already been broken for the foundation.

PORTER'S PROPOSITION

Promoter of Des Moines-Eldora Electric Line Explains to Nevada Citizens.

Tells What Is Proposed to Be Done and Asks for Aid.

Declares Line Will Be Ready for Business in Next Six Months.

Special to Times-Republican.

Nevada, May 22.—Judge Porter, of Eldora, was in Nevada Monday in the interest of the proposed electric line from Des Moines to Eldora. He went before the commercial exchange and set forth his proposition. He stated that the line was backed by the Polks, the Des Moines street railway magnates, and that the interurban railway would be extended from the Flint Valley line north of Des Moines to Eldora by way of Nevada, if the proper assistance was given. Judge Porter asked for a 2 to 5 per cent tax and right of way thru the city and Nevada township, and also presented a plan whereby any citizen could subscribe money for the stocks and bonds of the road if he desired such an investment. No action was taken by the exchange. This project places Nevada in a peculiar position to know which to encourage of the two roads, the electric line or the new North & South road, which has plenty of funds now being backed by the North American Trust Company of New York for $2,000,000. Under the circumstances it was decided to hold a mass meeting of the citizens to see what is best to be done.

This meeting was held at the court house last night and a large crowd was present. Judge Porter and H. H. Polk were present and talked for the electric line. There seemed to be a disposition to encourage both projects, and a committee was appointed to see how the people felt about taking the stocks and bonds of the electric line, otherwise nothing of importance was done.

Porter at Des Moines.

Des Moines, May 22.—John Porter, of Eldora, head promoter of the proposed electric line from Des Moines to Eldora, was in Des Moines Tuesday in consultation with President J. S. Polk of the street car company, and President H. H. Polk, of the Interurban Company. Mr. Porter and the Polks are figuring on a combination by which the Eldora line may enter Des Moines over the tracks of the local electric company. They expect to conclude arrangements to this end within a few weeks. Mr. Porter left last evening for Nevada.

"We will be hauling freight out of Des Moines and into Des Moines on an electric interurban line inside of six months," said Mr. Porter, at the Salvee house, where he spent a few hours. "I am unable to say how long this line will be. Ultimately, it will be about sixty-three miles long, connecting Des Moines with Eldora. At first, however, it may extend only from Des Moines to Nevada, or to some other point in that direction. It will begin at Des Moines, or within a few miles of this city. We expect to make connections with the Des Moines street car line near the Flint brick plant, north of the city. Our survey was completed about a week ago. The whole line has now been mapped out from here to the other end. The engineers are in Des Moines now, making estimates on the cost of the work."
