

COMMENCEMENT AT THE UNIVERSITY

The Great Tent in Which Exercises Were Held Filled With Students and Alumni

PERKINS DELIVERS ADDRESS

A Masterly Treatment of His Subject, "Education as Related to Life" - List of Those Receiving Degrees - Diplomas Presented by Deans of the Departments.

Special to Times-Republican.

Iowa City, June 15.—The great tent which the state university has been forced to resort to to hold the commencement exercises in during the past four years, was beautifully decorated with flowers and bunting. Despite its great size, it could hardly contain the crowd which tried to enter. After the students about to receive degrees were seated, the president of the university, the board of regents and the members of the faculty took their seats upon the improvised platform facing the assembly. An overture was played by the university orchestra, and then Rev. Francis Ward delivered the invocation. The speaker of the day, Hon. George D. Perkins, was introduced by Dr. MacLean and he immediately plunged into the heart of his discourse, "Education as Related to Life."

"Education is merely for the individual who receives it, to be used by him as a commodity for personal advantage, as personal advantage is commonly reckoned, there is serious mistake somewhere. Why should the nation and the state contribute to the education? The mass of our people do not get beyond the common schools. Why should they support colleges for the few? It is complained at times that public interest in the university is not what it should be. It is never carried to you that the public is not getting the return from the university it has the right to expect? Have the graduates been as earnest as they should be in paying their debts? It seems to me well to think about that. If the debts are not paid, it is natural to anticipate disposition to economize on the advances. There are those who go so far as to say it is not the province of the state to provide technical and classical schooling. They even say the high schools, which are preparatory to the higher education to be had here, should be cut out. The contention involves assault upon our entire educational system. If the reasoning be good as to the university and as to the high schools, why may not be applied to the grammar schools and to the primary grades? The argument runs against the system of free schools. Carried to its logical conclusion it would leave every child dependent upon private instruction and the length of the term of study would be determined by the purse strings. Men say they do not see where they come in. It is the same way in the matter of building bridges and improving roads. The thing that enrages me is the thought of money. There is no opinion that there is no friend equal to that. Things are accounted good or bad in their relation to opportunity to make a saving for a rainy day. It is apparently in the thought of many men that a deluge is likely to visit the earth in their lifetime, and with which the down-pour in Noah's day is not to be reckoned a circumstance. But this is the tendency, and it is a tendency to be resisted. If you pay your debts you will help.

"If education is used to right purpose, we can not have too many educated men and women in the great work of maintaining a degree. We need educated men and women to take the place of the slaves to the task of leavening the whole lump. We have made more or less effort to close our doors to foreign immigration, but we have not succeeded very well in keeping people out. I should invite our first attention. Our safe reliance is in protecting ourselves from within. The state and the country have a right to count on you. It has been suggested that we apply an educational test in our effort to keep out undesirable classes, but the educational test that would be desirable results must relate to something more than reading, writing and arithmetic. The moral test is what we have need of, and if we do not see it up for ourselves we cannot apply it by statute to men and women born under other flags. The state looks to you.

"There is nothing so much needed in our public life as fidelity and unwavering honesty. To say that our public service will be favorable comparison with the public service of any country is not enough. I know of no danger more threatening at this time than the appeal, supported by money, to the perverted side of men charged under our constitution and laws with the responsibilities of the franchise. It ought not to be possible to carry a primary anywhere in Iowa by the use of money, but it is not an uncommon occurrence. If our public men are representative they hardly have a higher duty than to them. It is up to the people to make their plain before them. The people are first to govern themselves. They are first to rebuke corruption at their own door. It is for them to make the public service inviting to men of clean minds and wholesome purposes. I am safe in saying that he is an exceptional man who would not much prefer to serve the people and be responsible to them than to serve the interests of a few. He is a boss' ambitious of dictation and spoils. Now and then a man declares that he is not in politics for anything on his own account, and the prevailing impression in regard to him is that he is at least not to involve any problem to be in politics, and yet many stand aloof because of fear. It is up to you to assist in the great work of educating the American people in a better school of politics.

"The way to go on in the world is to be useful to some one; to do the thing that some one wants done, and to do it well. There never was such need of trustworthy and helpful men and women as there is in this nervous, bustling and expanding time. The demand is not being met by the increase of population, and that is something to give us concern. Much has been done to answer necessity by the substitution of machinery, almost human save that it has no soul, and that it does not yet there is a standing sign everywhere of 'Help Wanted.'

"Are you educated? Do you know how to help? Are you willing to help? Are you willing to do what your hands and your hearts find to do? Then you are ready to be of use. There is a place where you may go to do what many others. The reward is sure."

MEN WEAR BONNETS

Mosquito Plague in Northwest Iowa Becoming a Matter of Serious Moment

LIVE STOCK IS SUFFERING

Hungry Hordes of Insects Operating Day and Night Make Life Miserable for the Farmers, Who Are Compelled to Wear Bonnets While Working in the Field.

Special to Times-Republican.

Slou City, June 15.—In swarms like the plague of locusts that devastated Egypt, mosquitoes by the million have descended upon Woodbury county. So serious has become the attack of the long-billed pests that inquiries are being made of physicians for some means of exterminating them.

Not content with carrying on their ravages at night, the hungry bloodsuckers are going on their expeditions by day as well, and the unfortunate who live in low-lying places are at their wits end to escape the torture. Near Salix and Sion, it is reported today, a strange sight is to be seen. In order to protect their faces from the pests that follow them in swarms, the farmers are wearing sunbonnets, wrapping around with mosquito netting.

Rain is Responsible.

Explanation of the great number of mosquitoes is to be found in the rainy weather of the last three years. The entire west third of Woodbury county has been transferred into a breeding place for mosquitoes and, the demand for sustenance exceeding the food supply, they are ravenous for the blood of man or beast.

Visitors to the farms in the lowlands about Salix yesterday bring back remarkable stories of hordes of mosquitoes. "Farmers down there have found it necessary to keep the stock up and feed it even during the day because of the lowery of mosquitoes," said a visitor from here. "Driven to seek blood at any and all times because of the hordes of their kind, the pests are venturing forth in the light of the bright sun, contrary to their nature, and are biting twenty-four hours of the day. Little colts and calves turned out to graze will switch and fight for an hour or so, and then give up and come running back to the barnyards where there is nothing to eat, but where the lack of food does not prevent them from the tortures. Milk cows can scarcely stand in the meadows, and during the early evening hours, the farmers risk their lives in milking the cows."

While the farmers are losing money thru the extra expense of feeding and the loss in weight of their livestock, camping parties and picnickers are cutting their outings short and moving back to town where tight-lipped mosquitoes afford protection. Sioux City shoe dealers and sellers of the mosquito pest have become so serious as to effect the sale of oxfords and peck-in stockings. The same is true of lace for yokes in summer gowns.

Ordinary smoke and smudge no longer deter the bloodsuckers. The luxury of hammocks and best grids at Riverside is seriously snatched up by mosquitoes fighting young men snuggled up to keep them away, but of no avail.

When it is known that every rain barrel and every little puddle which retains water for three weeks becomes the breeding place for mosquitoes, quinine, and with the knowledge of water, water everywhere for the past three seasons, the enormous increase in the bloodsuckers is easily explained.

CLEAR LAKE ASSEMBLY.

Program This Year Includes Some Notable Attractions. Specific to Times-Republican.

Mason City, June 15.—The program for the Clear Lake camp meeting and assembly has been announced. Among the many summer attractions at this famous lake resort, none are equal to the assembly in drawing the crowds. The camp meeting this year will be held July 5 to 18, conducted by Dr. Ira Ashline in manager, G. H. Moore, secretary; Art Moore, treasurer, and W. Keller, captain. Dates will be made with all clubs desiring to trim them up.

Our city council has enacted an ordinance on dogs, to take effect July 1. All owners of dogs or those harboring same should read it as it is of vital importance to both owner and dog. A. Forney had his leg hurt in the wreck of an electric car at Mason City Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen, of Marshalltown, have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. Fred Rains.

News of LaVare.

Special to Times-Republican. LaVare, June 15.—J. H. Quaal & Co. tore down their old lumber shed, and will replace it with a substantial building two stories high. Stone foundations have been laid and in size it will be six feet higher than the old one.

Thursday the 15th is Modern Woodmen picnic day, at Livermore. This annual picnic is a drawing card, and is greatly enjoyed by all. Charles A. Pfund, the elevator man, left Friday for Cedar Rapids and other orders. William A. Snyder, formerly an evangelist, was arrested at a hotel here today by a postal inspector and held for hearing before a United States commissioner. Snyder confessed to no less than twenty-five swindles, varying from $10 to $200.

E. Lawrence was killed and Lovant S. Nutting fatally injured by a natural gas explosion, which destroyed the home of R. L. Sheekels, at Bradford, Pa., yesterday and caused a loss of $30,000.

YATES AS DELEGATION'S HEAD.

Governor, Deneen, Sherman, and Small Confer in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., June 15.—Plans to elect Governor Yates chairman of the Illinois state delegation of the republican national convention were discussed here yesterday by members of the combination which broke the deadlock in the recent state convention. Yates was present, as were L. Y. Sherman, Charles S. Deneen, and Len Schaefer. With them were numerous politicians of lesser moment. Attorney General Hamlin was absent.

Mr. Sherman insisted that the gathering was merely a coincidence, a "happy chance," but the conference was not merely on, just the same. It was concluded last night, however, that there is not yet unanimous desire to again rebuff the "Federal crowd," the ultimate overthrow of Senator Culm is considered a necessary part of the program.

It became many of the Yates-Deneen supporters are unwilling to wait, but want to go at once after the senator's political scalp, that the meeting of yesterday was arranged. Discussion of arrangements for the next day's session also formed an important part of the day's business. Last night it was announced that Roy West of Chicago had been agreed upon for chairman of the state committee.

BRYAN TAKES FLING AT PARKER.

Nebraskan Indorses Proposed New York Convention of Protest.

New York, June 15.—In a letter to M. G. Pillsbury, who has called an anti-Parker convention to meet in this city, William Bryan writes: "I am very glad this step is being taken to protest on behalf of a large number of New York voters who believe in honesty in politics and are opposed to the burglarious methods which are now being employed to elect upon the party a meaningless platform and a specious candidate, whose most conspicuous supporters have in recent years been more familiar with the republican headquarters than with democratic headquarters."

Mr. Bryan, however, does not approve of the sending of a contesting delegation to St. Louis.

PARKER MAY WIN IN ARKANSAS.

First Day of State Convention Leaves Instructions in Doubt.

Hot Springs, Ark., June 15.—Instructions for Parker or for Hearst are in doubt after the preliminary skirmishes of the first day of the democratic state convention. Senator Clark strongly favored Parker winning, although the Hearst men said last night that they will be able to prevent instructions, even if they do not capture the convention.

A hot fight is on between the supporters of Senator Clark and Governor Davis on the one side and Senator Berry on the other for control of the national delegation. Temporary organization was unfavorable to Berry.

PREFERS DONKEY TO AN AUTO.

Mrs. Hetty Green Further Emphasizes Her Adversion to Luxuries.

Boston, June 15.—Mrs. Hetty Green yesterday further emphasized her scorn for luxuries living by declaring that she would rather own a donkey than an automobile.

Ten Years in Bed.

R. A. Gray, J. P., Oakville, Ind., writes: "For ten years I was confined to my bed with disease of the kidneys. It was so severe that I could not move part of the time. I consulted the very best medical skill available, but could get no relief until Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me. It has been a Godsend to me." B. A. Morgan.

The nomination of Charles S. Deneen was ratified by the Deneen Club in Woodstock last night.

Blood Troubles

Bad blood is the source of numerous aches and pains and the cause of nearly all stubborn, long-continued diseases. When the blood gets out of order, disease germs and poisons of various kinds find their way into the circulation and some serious trouble is the result. Rheumatism, Malaria, Old Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Anemia, and many pustular or scaly skin eruptions, like Eczema, Salt Rheum and Tetter, have their beginning in bad blood, and only a remedy that enters into the circulation and destroys the germs and poisons, can have any permanent good effect upon a disease of this kind. This is the most extensive assembly course ever put on at Clear Lake. There is something going on from the morning of the 19th until the close of day on the 26th. Dr. P. G. Cattermole, of Fayette, is president and Harry E. Stanbery, Mason City, superintendent.
