

BEVERIDGE SPEAKS

Indiana Campaign Enlivened by Political Address of Great Force

WHY RISK A CHANGE NOW

Refers to Many Trusts in Articles Not Protected by the Tariff - Recalls Patriotism of Men in 1896 Campaign But Where Was Parker Then? Torch Lights Used.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 29.—The first republican meeting of the campaign in Indianapolis was held in Tomlinson hall last night. An illuminated procession escorted Senator Albert J. Beveridge and Congressman Overstreet to the hall, which was well filled.

Congressman Overstreet presided, and introduced Senator Beveridge who spoke in part as follows:

"What is this campaign about? What business man but wishes that no election were necessary this year. The administration's policies are successful at home and abroad. The best that the opposition's ablest man, Grover Cleveland, can say for it is that it shows signs of returning sanity."

Yet this political convalescent demands control of the government, declares that it could not now do more if it would, and would not now undo much that the republican party has done if it could.

The first result of Parker's election would be a tariff agitation which would result, since Mr. Parker himself tells us, in a republican senate would prevent legislation. Such agitation spells business uncertainty; and uncertainty spells business disaster.

Even if the opposition controlled house, senate and president, they themselves could not tell what kind of tariff law they would pass. For some of them, like Mr. Gorman, are protectionists. Think of an engineer trying to run his engine backward and forward at the same time; what would happen to that engine is what would happen to the country, with the opposition in power.

"Men talk of tariff revision as though it were a simple thing—an easy task. No problem is more intricate. What is the tariff? It is not an artificial structure to be taken apart and to be put together like the trick box of a juggler. It is the development of a theory of statesmanship. It is a growth and not a creation. Those who prepared the soil of this nation planted in that soil the seeds of the American industrial independence which men call protection. If here and there a branch now needs pruning, those who planted the tree and have guarded its growth should do it, not those who resisted its planting in the first place, and who for a hundred years have sought to lay bare its roots.

"Even the changing of a single schedule is no work for the prejudiced or ignorant. For other schedules are related to it; and to all these is adjusted the vast business of the greatest of business nations. Republican revision of any schedule means the thoughtful consideration of any other schedule.

"Neither Persecuted Nor Favored. The organizations of industry should neither be persecuted nor favored. They should have simple justice, like everybody else. All men, all interests protected or punished by law according as they are right or wrong—this is republicanism in a sentence, Americanism in a phrase.

"How would the opposition's remedy of free trade in oil make article three of the Standard Oil Company? There is no tariff on oil. Or the anthracite coal combination, if there is one? There is no tariff on anthracite coal. If trusts necessarily raise prices, why has the price of sugar steadily fallen for more than thirty years? It is said there is a sugar trust. And why has the price of beans gone up? There is no bean trust. Or the price of wheat? There is no wheat trust. So free trade will not prevent trusts, and prices rise and fall with and without trusts.

"So far as legislation can remedy the evils of trusts, republican legislation—the Sherman law, the rebate law, the department of commerce and labor law—the only legislation on the subject—will do it, if enforced. And Roosevelt's election means enforcement of those laws and all laws.

"The way to keep the gold standard out of danger is to keep the hands of those who put it out of danger. Eighteen ninety-six was no more a time for silence and hiding than 1861 was a time for cowardice and evasion. It was not only a political struggle, but on both sides it was a moral struggle. On both sides men who had for years trimmed and compromised threw aside expediency and spoke and acted on petitions. Was Grover Cleveland silent then? Did he by his vote condone what he declared with his voice would be a crime? Were Senator Teller and the band of life long republicans who marched out of the St. Louis convention silent then? Did they condone, by their votes, what their tongues proclaimed would be a crime? Was John M. Palmer and Gen. Buckner and the host of gold demagogues silent then? Thousands of life long republicans left their party, thousands of life long democrats left their party. Among 80,000,000 of people there was a new alignment, hundreds of thousands changing sides; and all because of a petition which they believed would determine the future of the republic; yet at this hour, when men were destroying their political future for principle's sake, when brother turned against brother rather than forsake convictions, and even families were divided at this supreme moral hour in the history of the American people, equalled in its fervor and purity only by that other moral awakening that ranged brother against brother on battlefields forty years ago, in this hour, made heroic by devotion to beliefs on both sides—Alton B. Parker was silent, but he voted for free silver. Is that the kind of a man in whom gold democrats can now find the leader of a cause? Is that the kind of a man in whom silver democrats can now find the leader of a cause?"

MAY STRIKE AGAIN.

Stock Yard Teamsters Threaten to Quit Because All Are Not Employed. Chicago, Sept. 29.—Because half a dozen members of their union who participated in the big stock yards strike have been unable to get back to work, the packing house teamsters are in an agitated frame of mind and officials of the organization announced Tuesday that they voted in favor of another strike has been taken.

While the drivers themselves are said to have voted the strike the Teamsters' Joint Council refuses Tuesday to permit another walkout that could only end in further disaster to the cause of unionism, and cautioned the hotheads to go slowly.

A committee was appointed by the council to see re-employment of the packers and a meeting is expected today.

Union Has No Agreement. In view of the fact that the teamsters no longer have an agreement with the packers and that they returned to work on the general terms of settlement, which were that all strikers should apply for work and take chances on getting back, the teamsters have no ground to stand on in demanding that every striker must be re-employed.

"You know what a lot of men will do when they are angry," said George P. Golden, president of the Packing House Teamsters' Union, yesterday. "I suppose they voted to strike because they did not know what else to do to protect the interests of the members out of work."

Labor leaders who have deplored the terrible reverses to the cause already apparent from the stock yards strike, insist that another strike of the teamsters at this time would mean suicide for the union. Furthermore, they made a better settlement than any other organization which participated in the big strike and for this reason the other trades look upon the present attitude of the wagon drivers with suspicion.

Strike Not Regarded With Favor. Officers of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and the national executive board will eventually pass upon the controversy. A peaceful and standing in fact reached within a few days and it is the general opinion among trades union leaders that the national board will not permit another strike of the teamsters.

Captain Chas. of the stock yards police, appealed to Chief O'Neill yesterday for an increased detail of policemen in this district. The captain explained that there are still 6,000 non-union men employed at the stock yards and that assaults are frequent.

DIVORCES DENOUNCED

Bishop Potter Says Church Must Arraign Itself Against the Evil

FEARS "PRACTICAL BARBARISM"

Divorce Characterized As "Godless License Which Flings Aside the Most Sacred Vows Because of Vexatious Uncongeniality"—Standards Come Before Commercial Care.

New York, Sept. 29.—Bishop Henry C. Potter in his report to the diocesan convention of the Episcopal church, which convened in this city yesterday, attacked divorce in vigorous terms, declaring that unless the church set itself against the spread of the evil society would relapse into a state of "practical barbarism."

He urged the clergy to set itself against divorce, which he characterized as "godless license which flings aside the most sacred vows because of vexatious uncongeniality."

Bishop Potter presided at the convention, which held its opening session in the hall adjoining the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

At the communion service in the crypt of the partially erected edifice the archbishop officiated and offered prayer for the return to health of Lady Curzon. Bishop Potter very soul's longing that ultimately we would emancipate the people from the exactions of their taskmasters. But I have at last become convinced that this task will never be accomplished. The very men who by reason of their superior ability and integrity could render the people a permanent service are by the people themselves ridiculed and defamed."

White then refers bitterly to the defeat of Weaver for congress, laying the blame on the miners.

Continuing, he says: "Take Tom Johnson, of Ohio. He is one of the few rich men who has heroically tried to serve the people. The very men who cause he so courageously battled are neither intelligent nor honest enough to stand by him. At every election their support is given to the schemes of the capitalistic class, which is nothing more than a gang of refined public robbers."

"I did not entirely lose hope and faith until Hanna so ingloriously defeated Tom Johnson for governor. Since then my feelings have been almost unrelentingly bitter. I can think of nothing more than a gang of refined public robbers."

"I am grieved to know you permit yourself to be nominated. The damned fools are too numerous in this district to permit of your election. I most sincerely wish it were otherwise. Please accept my best wishes for your welfare, both yourself and family. Yours truly, F. E. White."

A New Jersey Editor's Testimonial. M. T. Lynch, editor of the Phillipsburg, N. J., Daily Post, writes: "I have used many kinds of medicines for coughs and colds in my family but never anything so good as Foley's Honey and Tar. I cannot say too much in praise of it. Sold by B. A. Morgan."

The Only Line With a World's Fair Station. This refers to the Iowa Central railway and means First—The shortest line. Second—The most comfortable route. Third—Two fine thru trains direct to the gates of the fair. Fourth—A saving of about three hours in time. Fifth—You avoid the crowds at the union depot and on the street cars. Sixth—You save money by being landed just where you want to go. There are many other reasons but "a word to the wise is sufficient."

Former Democratic Candidate for Governor Tells Brewster It Is No Use to Try to Elect Any Democrat, There Too Many D—m Fools in the Party. Des Moines, Sept. 29.—Another democrat, prominent in the councils of the party, has deserted the democratic white, who twice ran for governor of the state and was once congressman from the Sixth. "While he does not say so he intimates he will vote for Roosevelt and Fairbanks. In a letter to Candidate Brewster in the Sixth he says: "Webster, Sept. 21.—Friend Brewster: Please don't construe the delay of this answer to your letter as a discourtesy to you, for such is not my intention. Let me candidly tell you that if I could put you in Lacey's place I should do it with the greatest delight. You are one of the few men who are conscientiously devoted to the interests of the common people. To work with such unselfish men as yourself, Gen. Weaver, John Murphy and Bryan has been a source of real inspiration to me. "For over thirty years it was my

Secret of Success. Count Von Haezler, who has just resigned from the German army after fifty years' continuous service, has been accredited by the strict Kaiser himself as being one of the most popular officers in the service, as well as one of the most successful. "He was a genius in administration. William II said, and I attribute it largely to the man's marvelous thoroughness. His observation of the most minute details of his work had become a matter of almost religious zeal and moral conviction."

An excellent instance of this trait, one which shows also the general's ambition to train even the private soldier to carry out orders with what he often called "conscious intelligence," is to be seen at a happening at the last maneuvers in which the count took part. He had ordered a cavalryman to ride to a hill about a mile distant, on which stood a solitary tree. When the man returned he was asked what kind of tree it was, and on his reply that he did not know General Von Haezler said sharply that he thought little of one who paid no attention to so obvious a matter as an isolated tree.

"But, your excellency," answered the officer, drawing a twig from his boot, "as I could not tell the sort of tree myself, I plucked this for you to see."

"Bravo!" cried the count, delighted. "That is the way to get thru life if a man would climb."

What is Life? In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in constipation, headache or liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly readjust this. It's gentle, yet thorough. Only 25 cents at McDonald & Mahood's drug store.

Baby's Grievances. Oh, I'm sorry I came to this funny old world. To be jiggled and joggled and trotted and whirled. Unless I'm asleep, or pretend to be so. These giants all think I must be on the go!

If I'm hungry or cry when I wake from my nap. I am soon taken up into somebody's lap. And trotted and shaken and tossed and to and fro. And then I'm expected to laugh and to crow.

When the nurse takes me out in my carriage bye, bye. You would think I might quiet and peacefully lie. But, no, as she wheels me along through the town she joggles the springs so I jump up and down.

If I wriggle a d squirm and howl for relief. She still seem to hold her mistaken belief. But changes her tack—back and forth I am rushed. Till for sheer lack of breath my wailing is hushed.

Oftentimes my wee mouth is as dry as a chip. And of fresh, cooling water I long for a sip. Not a draft do I get, because they don't think I am ever want water to drink. Our wants are not many, but one thing is sure—If grown people knew what we babies care. They'd very soon learn to interpret each tone. And when we are good they would let us be alone. —Frances P. His Delicate Sensibilities. Daniel J. Sully, the dethroned cotton king, made a trip thru the south last winter, and when he came back he told a story of an old negro who had been working for a cotton planter time of mind, says the Saturday Evening Post. One morning he came to his employer and said: "The winter quit, boss."

"What's the matter, Mose?" "Well, sah, yer manager, Mistah Winter, ain't licked me in de las' tree mumps."

"I ordered him not to lick you any more. I don't want anything like that around my place. I don't want anyone to hurt your feelings, Mose."

"If I don't git any more kicks I'm goin' to quit. Every time Mistah Winter used ter kick and cuff me when he wuz mad he always git 'shamed of hisself and gimme a quarter. I's done los' enuff money 'ready wid dis deah foolishness 'bout hurtin' ma feelin's."

MEN ARE POWERLESS To Fight Against Disease Unless They Strike at the Underlying Cause. To treat Dandruff, and Falling Hair, with irritants or oils on which a parasitic germ will prosper, is like scooping water from the ocean to prevent the tide from rising. You cannot accomplish a satisfactory cure without having a right understanding of the fundamental causes of the trouble. You must kill the Dandruff Germ. Newbro's Herpicide does this because it is specially made to do that very thing. When the germ is removed, the hair has no choice but to resume healthy growth and beauty.
