

ENGINEER BATES

SUFFERED FROM DEPRAVED BLOOD AND WEAKENED NERVES.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Put Good, Red Blood in His Veins and Made Him a Well Man.

"I used to have a great deal of trouble with my skin," says Oscar N. Bates, of No. 13, Doubleday street, Binghamton, N. Y. "For four years, every summer, it would break out in itching sores—one especially, on my leg, causing me a great deal of annoyance. The physician whom I employed failed to help me and so I decided to see what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People would do for me. I took them faithfully and in a reasonable time they removed the cause of the trouble. That was eight years ago and I have had no return of it since."

"I was also cured of another more serious trouble by these pills" continued Mr. Bates. "I am a locomotive engineer and the strain of my work brought on a nervousness together with an impairment of my sight. I would grow dizzy at times, my strength would leave me and I could only sleep for a few moments at a time. But Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured me of this and I think I have good reason to recommend them to all. My daughter has also taken them and they helped her greatly."

Mr. Bates is a veteran of the civil war, having served efficiently in Company E, Sixty-seventh Pennsylvania Infantry in the Signal Corps, Army of the James, department of Virginia and North Carolina. He is a member of Post 119, G. A. R., at Oneonta, also a member of the U. S. A. Signal Corps Association and of Division 58, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

The remedy that cured Mr. Bates went right to the root of his trouble in the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People actually made new blood. Poor blood is the cause of a great many diseases, such as anemia, headaches, indigestion, nervousness, neuralgia, sciatica, rheumatism, lumbago, and the special secret ailments of growing girls and women whose health plainly depends upon the richness and regularity of their blood supply. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have a marvelous power to cure all these ailments. At all druggists, or sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

DECISION EFFECTS CITY PAVING CASES

Important Ruling on Basis for Determining Limitation of Indebtedness

TOTAL NOT TAXABLE VALUATION

Iowa Supreme Court, All of the Judges Concurring in the Opinion, Holds That the Limit of a City's Legal Indebtedness is Five Per Cent of the Value of All Taxable Property.

A recent decision of the state supreme court, on the basis of ascertaining a city's limit of indebtedness, which is of much interest locally, in that it has an important bearing on a phase of the many paving suits now pending in the district court, has been made public. The case, which was one carried up from Vinton, was brought by N. W. Halsey & Company, against the town of Belle Plaine, and was based on whether or not Belle Plaine, in issuing bonds for a new water works, had exceeded the limit of indebtedness. Judge Burman, who decided the case in the lower court, held that it had not, although the debt exceeded 5 per cent of the taxable value of the property of the town.

The case was carried to the supreme court, which affirmed the decision, and based its affirmation on the holding that the construction of the law meant 5 per cent of the total valuation of the town's property, and not 5 per cent of the taxable value, which is just one-quarter of the total value. The opinion was written by Judge Bishop, and was concurred in by each of the supreme judges.

The Belle Plaine case was the outgrowth of an attempt on the part of that town to sell $30,000 worth of bonds, with which to build a water works system. Halsey & Co. were the successful bidder, but one of the stipulations of the contract was that each bidder should deposit a check for $3,000, which, in the case of the successful bidder, should be taken by the city as part payment for the bonds, which should be issued in the city after to cover the cost of building. When the time came to take the bonds Halsey & Co. refused to do so, on the claim that by issuing them Belle Plaine would exceed its lawful amount of indebtedness.

In the local paving cases the claim is made that the city has exceeded its limit of indebtedness, based on 5 per cent of the taxable value of the city property. This the supreme court holds to be an erroneous way of figuring. Its opinion covering this point in the Belle Plaine case is as follows:

"Now, at the time of the adoption of the constitution, and for that matter counting down to the appearance of the present code, the law making property assessments for the purpose of taxation recognized no other basis than that of full values. This was known to, and we must assume was in the minds of, the makers of the constitution. And from this it is an exacting conclusion that in accepting property valuations as the basis from which computation for limitation purposes was to be made, no more was intended than the meaning conveyed by the literal reading of the provision. If this view be sound, then an observance of such provision involves: First, an inspection of the tax list to ascertain the amount of the taxable property in value in the city; and second, avoidance of debt beyond the limit of 5 per cent of such value."

The inference locally is this: Here-tofore the limitation of the city's indebtedness has been based on a calculation which used $1,813,933, the taxable value of the property of the city, when, according to the above decision, the total value, that of $7,245,372, should have been used. As the taxable value is one-fourth that of the total, the limit of the city's indebtedness, based on the decision, would be just quadrupled—increased from $90,460.55, which is 5 per cent of the taxable value, to $362,118.60, which is 5 per cent of the real value. This holding of the supreme court will be made a strong part of the argument presented by the city in the paving cases.

PRACTICE FIRE DRILL

Woodbury Pupils Leave Building in Fifty Seconds Without Preparation. Superintendent Coffeen and Messrs. C. H. Hull, H. A. Church and George A. Turner of the school board, spent Thursday afternoon visiting the different school buildings, in order that the board members might meet the new teachers. At the Woodbury school Superintendent Coffeen, upon entering the hall, sounded the fire alarm. Neither the teachers nor the pupils were informed that the alarm would be sounded, with the exception of Miss Flickinger, the principal, and the board had a good opportunity to witness the efficiency of the fire drill. Within exactly fifty seconds time every one of the 480 pupils in the building and all the teachers were out of doors. The exit was made without undue hurry, and was very orderly. There was no falling over one another, or anything in the nature of a scramble. After the drill was over the board members expressed the sentiment that the drill was better than all the fire escapes they could place on the building.

NO INDIAN SUMMER.

Rev. I. Hicks Eliminates by His Predictions Fairest Season of the Year. According to Rev. I. Hicks the many people who delight in the Indian summer, the fairest season of the entire year, and enjoy the warm autumnal days in the woods, will be doomed to disappointment this year. Mr. Hicks has filled the month so full of regular and reactionary storms, sleet and snows and cloudiness that there is really nothing left for October but to buy coal and don winter wearing apparel. Fortunately, however, Rev. Mr. Hicks is not infallible, altho there are many

IMMENSE CROWD AT FARMERS' PICNIC

Thousands Spent Thursday at the County Farm, Attending Second Annual Outing

CROWD ESTIMATED AT 3,000

Day Was Perfect and Farmers From All Over the County Brought Their Families—Absence of Col. J. M. Parker and Professor Holden Necessitated Changes in Program.

The population of the rural districts of Marshalltown centered Thursday at the county farm, where was held the second annual farmers' picnic. A perfect day and good roads made it possible for many to come from the more remote parts of the county, so that the crowd, which was estimated at about 3,000, was a very large one. While the absence of Professor P. G. Holden, and Col. J. M. Parker made changes in both the afternoon and evening program necessary, the picnic was a great success in every way. In every sort of conveyance the crowd came, in buggies and carriages, carts and wagons, which lined the road for a quarter of a mile along the highway fence. Almost all of those who attended brought with them their dinner and remained all day, dividing into family groups or neighborhood circles to eat their meal. For those who came unprepared the ladies of the La-Molle Congregational church served a most excellent dinner of fried chicken and other delicacies.

DR. WARD STRICKEN

Well Known Gilman Physician, and One of Wealthiest Men of the County, is a Very Sick Man—Falls as He Enters Home Thursday Evening.

Word from Gilman to the Times-Republican announces that Dr. W. J. Ward, one of the most prominent and wealthy men of the county, was stricken with a sudden illness while entering his residence Thursday evening about 6 o'clock, fell, and was carried indoors, and today is in a very serious condition, altho resting somewhat easier than during the night. Dr. Ward was stricken without any warning, barring a sensation of weakness, which overcame him as he neared home.

An internal hemorrhage followed almost immediately after Dr. Ward became ill, and after rallying he suffered a second hemorrhage at 8 o'clock. For a time it was feared he was dying, but he again rallied.

Dr. Ward is one of the best known men in the county, and a large part of the body of the county has been actively engaged in his profession. With his brother, J. A. Ward, he owns a drug store at Gilman, and with C. H. Hester, of this city, owns the majority of the Gilman Canning Company stock, as well as a box factory at Whitehall, Mich., and other canning industries and a potato flour mill. He also owns several large farms and is heavily interested in stock raising.

Talk With Me About Clothing

Wise Talks By the Office Boy. Did you ever lick a whole lot of postage stamps and have your tongue feel so large there didn't seem to be room enough in your stomach for it, and when you ate your dinner have everything taste like bananas or scorched sawdust? I knew a kid once who got a "hare lip" from eating too much "Welsh Rabbit." He could talk through his nose afterward, but when you get the swelled tongue you can't talk at all; you have to make signs. If I was accustomed to making signs, I'd make a great, big one that would read "Mansing Union Underwear." There's no doubt but they're the most comfortable; your clothes fit better over them and you don't have to put on a porous plaster on your back to piece out with, like you do with ordinary underwear when it isn't washed carefully. It's impossible to write a long tale about combination suits, 'cause there's no tale to them—there's all one piece. We're selling lots of them, and once you get a man to try them he don't do a thing but buy them and sing their praises. We'd rather sell union suits than eat.
