VOLUME THIRTY-TWO

PEASANTS ELECT THEIR DELEGATES

Elections Thus Far Indicate the Peasant Representation Will Be Conservative

VILLAGE ELDERS SELECTED

Most of the Delegates to the Provincial Congress Will Be From the Officials Chosen by the Government—Emperor Issues Order for Various Elections to Assembly.

St. Petersburg, March 5.—The primary elections of the peasant class, of which there are four degrees, are in progress. The returns thus far are significant. Yesterday in the rural districts of St. Petersburg province, the peasants almost without exception, chose the present village elders, and village chiefs, or members of village courts, to select delegates to provincial congress, which will be composed of representatives of the four degrees, which later will choose representatives to the national assembly. The selection of the same leaders, who, under the old regime were named, more or less through the influence of the government district agents, indicates that the voice of the peasants in the provincial congress will be conservative.

St. Petersburg, March 5.—An imperial ukase issued today orders the elections to the national assembly to begin April 28 in twenty-eight provinces of central Russia; one April 27 in seventeen other provinces of central Russia and the Don regions; and in two other provinces on May 3.

RUSSIA IN MANCHURIA

Makes Effort to Retain Privilege by Making Vladivostok Port of Entry.

Washington, March 5.—Russia's renewed attempt to establish a permanent foothold in northern Manchuria by making Vladivostok the port of entry thereby, obstructing the lines of Dalney and Port Arthur, is described in an official report made public at the state department today, which report recently reached Washington from one of the department's agents in China. The report expresses the belief that this will redound to the development of American trade and will result in a great curtailment of the importance of Shanghai as a distributing point.

The report says: No one knows what Japan intends to do in southern Manchuria, either in the way of trade or in development in connection with her portion of the Chinese Eastern railway and the new line that is to be built thereto to connect with Korea.

Russia, for the benefit of her portion of the Chinese Eastern railway, for her own political affairs in the east and perhaps for the sake of affording a counterweight to the influence of what her aim and ambition is. It may be well to point out what is the field for the development now being advertised by Russian agents. The Chinese Eastern railway, which leaves the old and original route of the Transiberian railway at Nerchinsk, crosses the Manchurian border at the station since called Manchuria and then by a south-eastern course runs through one of the most fertile areas on the continent to Harbin and from thence on to Poyranitzka (border), thus reaching Siberia again and joining the Oursuri (a part of the original Transiberian route and now running to Khabarovsk on the Amur river, goes to Vladivostok.

A Land of Possibilities.
Thru the Manchurian section there are vast stretches of rolling and level land, great forests of fine timber of a merchantable kind, and rich mineral resources. The land is practically unexplored, broken country which forms the northern Korean border; to the north lies the Amur river country, a land of splendid possibilities for agriculture and lumbering, and flanked by streams which are remarkable for their fisheries; to the west is that which many think is the best part of Siberia, since it contains all that has made Irkutsk the great commercial center. It is a great domain and one which under good management and the lack of political disturbance from Russia, as well as China, will produce rich results. Even while Vladivostok and Harbin were burning, plans were hastening for the coming campaign of development.

If half of the optimistic view of those who talk from the Russian standpoint concerning northern Manchuria and the Chinese Eastern railway comes true the world will speedily see that as a matter of fact Russia has suffered very little by the outcome of the war as it relates to her development projects in the far east. In any event, in the immediate future northern Manchuria seems, according to the present program indicated, as a good field for American enterprise.

French Army Prepared.

Paris, March 5.—In the chamber of deputies today War Minister Etienne, answering inquiries regarding the condition of war supplies, said every branch of supplies and ammunition was completely assured in case of mobilization of troops. The answer was received with shouts of "Bravo" as indicating the state of preparedness of the French army.

Algeiras March 5.—Intense activity prevails here, following the voting Saturday. The German delegates show discontent with the decision taken by the other delegates before the bank question is completed. There is no indication that they will refuse to proceed, but their conferees expect dilatory tactics. The Germans ask for time to secure further instructions and the other delegates are showing impatience at the delays. The Germans intimate that things are being rushed, and say that they do not intend being pushed. They are counting upon France losing patience and making a false step which would throw the onus of a rupture upon France.

POPE SHOWS SPIRIT

His Attitude in Relation to French Bishops Approved by Catholics.

Rome, March 5.—Before they left Rome for their respective dioceses the new French bishops, consecrated by Pius X last Sunday, assembled at his request at the Vatican, where the pope addressed them on the work they were chosen to do for the church in France. So pathetic was the address that many of the new prelates were caused to weep. There was the greatest enthusiasm among the French priests and laymen who were present.

The pope reminded his hearers that the present condition of the church in France is to be compared only to that of a church for three centuries successfully withstood. The new bishops should go to their dioceses prepared to stand by the pope in France, and he emphasized especially on the fact that since the adoption of the bill of separation in France the bishops would find all government support cut off and even episcopal residences devoted to other uses.

But no matter how iniquitous the new law may seem to be Pius X said that it is necessary to preserve peace in the churches of France and he emphasized the fact that he was trusting the new bishops to preserve this peace and that he had personally chosen them because of their prudence.

This address of the pope shows clearly what will be the policy of the holy see toward the French church. For more than two years Pius X has kept silence in the face of the attempts of the government to cripple the church in France, uttering words of neither protest nor disapproval. This reason for the determining stand he has now taken, using his prerogative as the head of the church to provide for the care of the French dioceses and the religious interests of France without regard to the legal measures adopted by the government has been expressed every one here.

It is the general opinion in vatican circles that, however meek and mild the pope has shown himself to be, he nevertheless has a large amount of combastiveness which he has now been in motion and promises wonderful developments for the near future for the protection of church interests not only in France but in several other countries.

Alarmed at Pope's Health.

There is felt some alarm here as to the health of the pope, for the worrisome incident upon his action in providing bishops for the church in France without consulting French officials has had a marked effect on him. It is no secret in vatican circles that the pope has suffered with heart trouble for years and the frequent visits of his physician, Dr. Laponni, in the last few days have convinced every one that the present excitement is showing a bad effect.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET HARD HIT

Scarcity of Money Starts a Bear Raid and Causes Severe Declines

THE RESERVES ARE LOWER

Banks Unable to Meet Demand for Cash Because of the Withdrawal of Reserves—Many of the Better Class of Shares Suffer Considerable Decline in Price.

New York, March 5.—Stocks broke badly today on a heavy outpouring of liquidation from all quarters. There was a well centered bear attack on a number of stocks which have become vulnerable by the building up of an extensive pool of accounts and manipulation in the market. Disaffection over the money outlook, continued withdrawal of banking reserves and the necessity of scaling down credit accounts to keep pace with the declining reserves, were responsible for most of the selling. The unstable condition of stock developed last week aroused widespread distrust and was the cause for sending out calls for large additional margins on speculative holdings. Failure to respond to these induced throwing over of some holdings by commission houses.

Hammering down of prices by bears had the effect of exhausting markets and covering stop loss orders. Weight upon market was thus increased. Lenders of money also exercised increasing discrimination against some of the stocks whose market position was distressed when they appeared in collaterals for loans. Reading was especially weak and fell nearly six points below Saturday. North-western was down six points, Northern Pacific Amalgamated Copper, Sioux Shuffled Steel 3/4 to 3/8, Colorado Fuel & Iron, Union Pacific, Illinois Central, Delaware and Hudson, Atlantic Coast Line Smelting, General Electric, Hide and Leather, preferred, and some others from 2 to 2 1/2.

The average level in the whole list yielded between 1 and 2 points. Occasional rallies in the market were due to hasty profit taking by bears by buying to cover shorts.

Liquidation continued intermittently in the afternoon at the extreme decline in Reading of over eight points. Anconia was carried down 14%. The market was quiet and showed evidence of returning strength in the latter part of the day.

JUDGE DRUNK AT FUNERAL.

Confesses in Letter to Editor, Who Who Drops Dead on Reading It.

Montgomery, Ala., March 5.—The Christian Advocate, published at Birmingham, recently contained a charge of drunkenness against Associate Justice of the Supreme Court John C. Anderson, and in its last issue contained a letter from Judge Anderson accepting his guilt. The editor of the newspaper charged that Judge Anderson, with two other state officials, was drunk at the funeral of the late Chief Justice McClellan, at Athens, and he asked that all three resign.

The editor of the paper, published at Birmingham, said that he had taken from the train to the hotel by friends. Judge Anderson in a letter to the editor says that he did take a little too much and adds: "I trust and promise by the help of God to commit no act of folly that can reflect upon me as a citizen or bring in question the reputation of an honorable office bestowed upon me by the good people of my native state."

Rev. J. E. Ellis, editor of the newspaper which contained the articles, dropped dead just after reading the letter of Judge Anderson.

The newspapers of the state are demanding the resignation of the officials who were charged with being drunk on this occasion.

Judge Anderson when seen said that he had nothing further to say than that he had written the letter to Rev. Mr. Ellis.

GAS WELL STILL BURNS

Attempt to Cap the Roaring Furnace in Indian Territory, Near Caney, Kas., Was Without Success—Well Was Struck by Lightning February 23.

Caney, Kas., March 5.—The great gas well, five miles from here, in Indian Territory, that has been burning since February 23, when it was struck by lightning, continued to roar today with unabated fury. The flames were forced 150 feet into the air, and were visible forty miles away last night. An attempt to extinguish the flames with steam, having failed, an effort to drop an immense iron cap over the well was made, but without success. The cap, weighing 3,000 pounds, turned to a white heat when within twenty feet of the well. Another attempt will be made to cap the well.

LACEY PRESENTS MEMORIAL.

Perkins' Eulogy of Henderson to be Printed in Congressional Record.

Washington, March 5.—By unanimous consent the house today authorized printed in the Congressional Record, the memorial addressed to George D. Perkins, at the funeral of the late Speaker Henderson. The memorial was presented by Lacey, of Iowa, who characterized it as a beautiful and historical in character.

The house passed a bill increasing from fifty thousand to two hundred thousand, an appropriation for the purchase of metals for pennies and nickels, and providing that these coins shall be made in the Denver, San Francisco, New Orleans and Philadelphia mints.

Pending the passage of an unimportant bill, Shackelford (Missouri), took occasion to denounce the rules of the house and the "despotic and absolute power of the speaker." He expressed great personal admiration and affection for Cannon, but there was, he said, no man in Europe more absolute in his jurisdiction than the speaker. He reported to have said in his speech to an audience which packed the opera house: "They say you do not know enough to vote directly for your candidates for office. I am willing to risk it. They say you do not know enough to choose between candidates for office. I am willing to risk it if Perkins is." This challenge was greeted with a storm of applause by the audience. The Cummins proposal was so fair and seemed so reasonable that she had given her freedom as a reward for his evidence. To this the prosecution refused to agree, contending that the acceptance of a plea of guilty of manslaughter in the second degree was the greatest concession that could be made.

CUMMINS STIRS FIRE OF PERKINS

Sioux City Candidate Irritated by Governor's Campaign in the Eleventh

THINKS CUMMINS PERSONAL

Declares He Supposed Cummins Would Not Be a Candidate When He (Perkins) Announced for the Nomination—Cummins Challenges Perkins' Faction to Submit to Primaries.

Special to Times-Republican.

Des Moines, March 5.—Governor Cummins' campaign in the Eleventh district has stirred up the ire of Candidate Perkins, who last night gave out an interview in Sioux City in which he complains of the candidacy of Cummins, stating that he (Perkins) had a right to conclude when he announced that he would be a candidate that Cummins would not seek a renomination for a third or fourth term, whichever it might be called. In this connection he declares personalities are at the root of Cummins' candidacy, that this statement is borne out by the governor's own statement in his speech at Fort Dodge, where he is alleged to have said he had no thought of being a candidate until he learned that Mr. Blythe said he should not be continued at the head of the state administration. Mr. Perkins also complains that Cummins is vain and thinks he is better than the majority of republicans. He says:

"Why is he a candidate? Because I am a candidate. I am good enough because I am exposed to temptation and his generous proposition is to enter the field in a heroic and self-sacrificing way and protect me from the horror he has himself suffered. Superficially it does not appear to be a compliment. I do not accept it as such. The dislike I have for me is altogether owing to the consumer, the farmer, the manufacturer, the merchant, the commercial traveler, the wage earner, and all of the people of the state of Iowa in their contest against the selfish exactions of the great corporations.

"I wish to tell the court, as the mouthpiece of Rogers, that if the final decision of the Missouri court is against Rogers, he will answer the questions as to stock transfer without any order of the court."

against the measure and have written to the senator and representative against the measure. That is the way they spend their money and in bribing the legislators, thousands of Perkins' headquarters will be opened at the Savery hotel in Des Moines this week and the gubernatorial candidate from Sioux City is preparing to make an active campaign. A. F. Call, of Sioux City, will inaugurate the Perkins' headquarters here.
