Reading Galloway Fur Coats

WE ARE PREPARED AGAIN TO show you the Reading Galloway Fur Coat which has been sold from this store for 19 years and every farmer in this vicinity knows that when he buys a Reading Galloway, he has the best that money can buy.

These fur coats are not any heavier than a Coon coat and they are not cow hide but Galloway Calf, which makes them light weight.

This coat is the only Galloway coat on the market that is not dyed. It is absolutely a full hide, no pieces. This statement we can prove to you.

We guarantee this fur coat and will stand back of it in every way. If you have a neighbor that ever bought one of these coats, ask him.

It has always been the reputation of this store to stand back of these coats and we are never known to disappoint any one. A pretty good reputation, is it not?

We know that you can buy Galloway Fur Coats for less money than we can sell you a Reading Galloway Fur Coat for, but there is where we can give you the value that other stores can not.

These coats are tanned so that wet weather does not effect the hide, which means a lot to you.

We do not stop at a one year's guarantee but are ready at all times to make good on these coats, and that is one thing that others do not do.

If you are going to buy a fur coat, do not buy until you come to the store and see our Reading Galloway Fur Coat.

Let us prove the statements we have made here.

Yours for the best,

To the People of Marshall County Probably you all noticed the blotch that appeared in the T-R. last Tuesday, just above my announcement as candidate for senator. Whether it was an accident or done on purpose, I don't know. Some people thought it was meant for a puzzle picture, "Find the Senator," others thought I was fixing up my face to catch the colored voters; still others thought they were trying to show me up as a "scab," so I would lose the union labor vote. You can take your choice. I have been out the last few days trying to round up a few votes. The first man I ran across was a republican. I tried to show him how much better I was than my opponent, but he bluntly told me if I was an angel and the devil was running against me on the republican ticket he would vote for him. Van will get his vote. One man told me I was all right, but he liked the way my opponent wore his hair. Said his mother wore long hair and he couldn't go back on Van. The next man I met was a life-long democrat; said he never scratched his ticket in his life; he would vote for a yellow dog if he was on the democratic ticket. I'll get his vote. I partially got into an argument with one man. I was telling him of the wonderful popularity of Mr. Bryan. I showed him an item in a paper where 10,000 people stood in the rain to listen to him speak. He said that was easily explained, "The damn democrats didn't know enough to come in when it rained." One man asked me if I was going to vote for myself. I told him that all my life I had made it a point to vote for the best man and I couldn't go back on my record now. So, embarrassing as it was, this time I must stand by my principles. Sometimes I am sorry I got mixed up in this business, but for years I have wanted to hold some kind of office and when a man gets Too Wicked to Preach, Too Proud to Beg, Too Timid to Steal, Too Lazy to Dig. The only thing left for him to do is to run for office. If the straw vote in the Hawthorne club is figured out, I find I will carry the county by 19,742. Yours, J. E. STANTON. "From the Pest House to the Senate."
