Open-air life in the great pine forests has proven one of the most successful ways of curing consumption. The very air of these forests is charged with the chemical elements of the pine, which have a wonderful healing effect on the membranes.

SUNDAY WILL MISS SPRING ELECTION

Opening of Revival Delayed One Week Owing to Spokene's Needs

WHITE HANDS TO POUND NAILS

Business Men, Doctors, Lawyers, Preachers, Clerks and Artisans to Number of 150 Will Work at Erecting the Tabernacle - Excursion Trains Planned for Crowds From the Outside.

Billy Sunday will not be here in time for the city election campaign.

More than 150 preachers, business and professional men, clerks and artisans have signed pledges to do their new overalls and work at the building of the tabernacle.

Excursion trains on all the railroads leading into Marshalltown will be run to bring outside crowds to the revival meetings.

Such were the definite arrangements as the result of the evangelistic committee's banquet at the Presbyterian church Monday evening.

The church parlors were beautifully decorated by the ladies, who served a full course dinner, after which business sessions were held and addresses enjoyed by an audience of 150 guests, many of whom were pastors from the towns of the counties contiguous to Marshall.

Rev. M. N. Smith, of the M. E. church, delivered the address of welcome. A meeting was held with the outside pastors, at which an organization was perfected to extend the influence of the Sunday meetings outside the city and arrangements were made to get excursion trains.

Following Mr. Smith Rev. W. H. Hornel gave an address, in which he commended the work of Mr. Sunday as witnessed in Ottumwa, in the highest terms that the speaker could use. He asserted that six weeks of Billy Sunday had been of more value to him as a preacher than three years at McCormick Institute.

Cards were circulated containing a pledge of personal services in the building of the tabernacle and were so generally signed that other cards already secured Marshalltown is now assured of the unusual sight of 150 of her professional and business men, clerks, preachers and artisans all working at the manual labor of erecting the tabernacle.

The old south house organization when Marshalltown citizens turned out en masse to lay bricks for a court house is to be enacted over again. This work will begin late in February.

In a letter to the chairman of the evangelistic committee Billy Sunday says that his coming will be delayed one week owing to the necessity of giving Spokane more time and this will throw his opening date over to March 25 or 26, which will almost escape the mountain of weight from the ambitions of many a candidate.

SAYS HE WAS ROBBED.

Frank McLaughlin Tells Police He Was Held Up and "Touched."

Alleging that he had been held up at the muzzle of revolvers and robbed of $18 while on South Twelfth street Monday night about 11 o'clock, Frank McLaughlin, a former city employe, who has been working on the Merritt Greene farm and for the Marshall Ice Company, came to the police last night seeking to have the hold-up men arrested. The night force went in the patrol wagon to the place where McLaughlin said two men had "stood him up" with guns while they went through his pockets and stole $18, but they found no trace of the hold-ups, and two arrests were made but they proved to be nothing more than drunks.

CHURCHES BACK MOVE

Decide to Foster New Active Charity Organization, That Will Comprise in Managing Board Member From Each Church - Move in Right Direction.

As the result of a suggestion offered by Mr. D. W. Norris, Jr., editor of the Times-Republican, before the Marshalltown Pastors' association a week ago Monday, the association yesterday acted favorably and adopted a resolution recommending the establishment of an active charity organization, to be known as the Marshalltown Interdenominational Charity society.

Mr. Norris suggested the need of an active organization of this kind, backed by the churches, and in compliance with the suggestion a committee composed of the Rev. Messrs. Hix and Auercher, was appointed to investigate. The committee's report was made before the pastors' association in the shape of the following resolution:

"We recommend that an organization be formed in our city, to be known as the Marshalltown Interdenominational Charity society, and that this organization shall be under the management of a board of directors consisting of one member from each organized church in the city."

The pastors were instructed by the association to report their committee-men at once, and get the committee in shape for work immediately.

The forming of a charity organization that will be active and take an interest in a work among the worthy poor of the city is believed to be a step in the right direction, and something that has been needed in Marshalltown for a long time.

NEXT COUNTY FAIR TO BE SEPT. 6-10

Early Fall Date Is Chosen by Executive Committee of the Association

DATES CONSIDERED GOOD

Next Season's County Fair Will Be Held Earlier Than Any of Previous Years - Local Fair Follows Immediately After the State Fair - Hardin County Follows Marshall.

The fourth annual exhibit of the Marshall County Fair association will be held from Monday to Friday, Sept. 6 to 10, inclusive. These dates were selected by the executive board of the association, subject to change if the dates of the fairs of surrounding counties conflicted. Monday the dates chosen were made positive, after it was learned that there was likely to be no serious conflict.

The selection of Sept. 6 to 10 will bring the fair earlier this year than any previous year. In some ways this is considered an advantage, and especially so because the state fair will be held immediately preceding the local exhibit.

The Hardin county fair is to be held the week following the Marshall county fair, and it is likely that the Cerro Gordo county fair will be held at Mason City the week following the Hardin county fair.

It is expected that this sequence of dates will be advantageous to the local association in securing entries, especially race horses.

Hereafter the executive committee of the association is to have a regular meeting day. The Wednesday after the first Monday of each month has been selected. Heretofore all meetings have been held on the call of the president.

Rifles to Fire Bombs. (Technical World Magazine). Pekin was fortified; the Boxers held the gates. Outside the walls of the city the allied legions clamored for the mission knowing that, within, the members of the foreign legations, fortified, in their turn, against the Chinese, were awaiting with breathless anxiety the arrival of the friendly armies. But the gates could not be rushed.

Suddenly three or four soldiers, in the Japanese uniform, dashed forward, up to the gates.

A shower of bullets greeted them. They fell but their work was done. The hand grenades which they had hurled against the gates has exploded, battering them down.

Very recently at Faversham, England, the representatives of eleven governments watched the testing of a new grenade invented by an Englishman, Mr. Marten Hale.

With this weapon, as demonstrations satisfactory proved, the sacrifice of the lives of those heroic Japs before Pekin would have been wholly unnecessary.

Mr. Hale's grenade may be fired from the shoulder or with the butt end of the rifle resting on the ground. The fire of the grenade does not in any way injure nor does it interfere with firing ball cartridges, nor in the use of the bayonet. It is capable of scattering twenty-four rectangular pieces of steel with jagged edges in all direction with great velocity. The concussion of the explosion would kill or stun any life within a wide radius. The grenades themselves weigh one pound six ounces, and six or eight may be carried on a waist belt without any inconvenience. The Japanese made good use of the hand grenades before Port Arthur.
