Five Petitions, Bearing Twenty-Six Names of Those Seeking to Withdraw Their Signatures from the Revocation Petitions, Filed With the County Auditor.

Five petitions, bearing a total of twenty-six names, by which the signers seek to have their names withdrawn from the petitions of revocation which the anti-saloon forces are circulating, and which they signed at some time previous, were filed with County Auditor Erastus Cornell this morning.

The petitions, the largest of which contains eleven names, were circulated by the saloon forces. Affidavits, in witness of the signatures on the petitions, were made by Mayor O. L. Ingledue, A. J. Clark, Charles Bernstein, T. F. Bradford, F. S. Wild, Sam Wenger, and F. W. Brewer.

The petitions are headed "withdrawal from revocation," and are addressed to the county auditor and the board of supervisors.

The petitions are headed with the following declaration: "You and each of you are hereby notified that we, the undersigned residents and legal voters of the city of Marshalltown, state of Iowa, who were such at the last general election, and as such voters have and do by this writing, withdraw our names from the petitions we have heretofore signed requesting that the bar to proceedings, etc., heretofore granted to persons to buy and sell intoxicating liquors in the city of Marshalltown, state of Iowa, under the null laws of Iowa, be withdrawn, revoked, and forfeited and we do not wish our names considered at all on said petition or in any matters and proceedings against saloons or their being run in Marshalltown, Iowa, under the null law. And especially we do wish our names not considered in any manner or proceedings in connection with section 2451 of the code of Iowa or any laws therein referred to."

Just how the names are to be withdrawn, if they are at all, remains for the legal proceedings which will undoubtedly follow. The county auditor says he has no authority in the matter, and the board of supervisors say they also have no authority. It will probably be up to the district court to decide when the contest is brought.

Hello Girls Afflicted

Waterloo, June 22.—A well-known Waterloo doctor has announced that he has discovered a new disease which he declares made its entry into Waterloo during the Burlington-Waterloo series.

He says that many telephone girls in the city are in danger of contracting the disease for which he can at the present time offer no relief.

He made this announcement after several Corn Belt telephone girls had called on him. After a careful examination he found them suffering with laryngeal anthrax, in other words they had carbuncles in the throat. He says undoubtedly she was affected by yelling the result of baseball scores over the phone.

At present he is looking for a remedy to relieve this great strain and thinks if the Waterloo team keeps up its winning pace the girls will be permanently cured as there will be less inquiries over the phone.
