GOOD GRIP ON SCOTT

STATE MAKING STRONGER CASE THAN IT DID AGAINST DOBBINS.

SCOTT RAN AWAY WHEN SOUGHT BY THE OFFICERS

Knew He Was Wanted for Complicity in Race Track Swindle—Father-in-Law Appears as Witness Against Defendant—Castle, of Britt, on the Stand.

Special to Times-Republican. Council Bluffs, Feb. 3.—It is believed that the state is making an even stronger case against Frank Scott than it did in the Dobbins trial, when the Mabray steerer was promptly convicted.

Some of the most striking testimony was that given by Patrick Dorsey, of Pender, Neb., sheriff of Thurston county. Dorsey testified that during the latter part of April he met Scott on the street in Pender, which was a few days after the time at which Hermeibrecht claims to have been swindled out of $5,000 by Scott and his crowd.

Scott asked me if I had a warrant for him, said Sheriff Dorsey on the witness stand. "I asked him if he was joking. He wanted to know why I was chasing him around the country, and I said I wasn't. He asked me if I did not telephone to the sheriff at Wayne to find out if he (Scott) was there. I said I had not telephoned and he replied that some one had done so."

Then he told me that there was a bunch of fellows down at Council Bluffs and that they had a horse race deal fixed up, that he and one Connors had induced Hermeibrecht to come down to Council Bluffs and put his money into the thing. Scott said that he and Connors received half of the money lost by Hermeibrecht and divided it between them. The other half, he said, went to the men in Council Bluffs. I don't remember what name he gave the organization. Scott at the time pulled a big roll of bills from his pocket and showed it to me. There seemed to be a large amount. I supposed it to be the same money he had been talking about.

Scott Had Flown When Sought. Sheriff Dorsey then told about being asked to arrest Scott by the sheriff of Des Moines county, which was about the time that Mabray and the others were arrested in Little Rock, Ark. Dorsey went to Scott's place of business but the man could not be found.

A feature of the testimony for the prosecution was the appearance on the witness stand of H. C. Campbell, a farmer 30 years old, father-in-law of the defendant. Campbell was unable to conceal the fact that he felt very bitter towards his daughter's husband. Altho suffering from partial blindness and deafness, and despite his age, the witness made a decidedly aggressive appearance and his testimony was of the most damaging character. Counsel for Scott undertook to minimize the effect of the old man's testimony by making an effort to show his animosity for his son-in-law.

At one juncture Mr. Tinley, Scott's leading counsel, abruptly asked Campbell, "Is it not a fact that you have no use for your son-in-law, the defendant?" The aged witness, after deliberating for a few seconds, replied in clear tones: "Well, to tell the truth I have seen men I have thought more of."

Wanted to Tell of Scott's Soas. Campbell was evidently anxious to tell on the witness stand, that his son-in-law, according to his statement, had come to him and told him all about "beating the Dutchman out of $5,000, but on being pressed for dates the witness could not fix them close enough to admit the statement in evidence.

Among other things which had combined to arouse the animosity of the father-in-law was the placing of a mortgage on their farm by Scott and his wife to secure his release from jail on $6,000 bond. Counsel for the defendant tried to make use of this incident in this way. They tried to get the witness to testify that he had told his daughter that if she permitted a mortgage to be placed on their farm, he would send Scott to the penitentiary. Campbell denied this but his testimony clearly showed that he was much wrought up when he learned that a mortgage had been placed on the farm to secure the men who had furnished a ball bond for Scott.

Castle, of Britt, on the Stand. George F. Castle, of Britt, Iowa, was on the stand and told of how he was floored by the gang. Castle is a veteran of the civil war, and a prominent business man on his home town, owning interest in a bank there and in banks in Colorado. His testimony did not vary in detail from that given by W. H. Bedford, of Bolckow, Mo., another of the victims of the Mabray gang who was swindled out of $5,000, according to his story.

NO MORE PUPPY LOVE

PROF. MARSHALL PROPOSES TO CUT SPOONING FROM BOONE HIGH SCHOOL.

LOVE AND LEARNING NOT VERY WELL MATED

Sensible and Well Meant Talk to Students by Head of High School—Says Love Making is All Right in Its Place But School Room is Not the Place.

Special to Times-Republican. Boone, Feb. 3.—No more "puppy" love in the Boone high school. Prof. J. E. Marshall thing lovin' is all right in its place, but has come to the conclusion that love making in the high school is not conducive to the best of work on the part of the students, and causes those who are not so fortunate as to be enabled to indulge in this innocent and highly enjoyable pastime to become jealous, everything tending to detract from good school work.

He talked to the pupils of the high school Tuesday afternoon just before the close of the session. While he didn't mention any names, yet several of the assembly room "blushed," and names were not necessary. He said that some of the parents had complained to him of this matter and he said that what the parents objected to he also would object to, and that nay again did he want to see, here and there in the assembly room, after the close of school, his students paired off, talking in love-dovey terms, goo-gooing and cool-cooling each other. He wants no more oggling up and down, and no more sly glances right and left to see who is watching. He says that the high school is not a place in which to spoon and for his students after the close of school should they desire to remain and work, to do so, but to forget their heart throbs.

Mr. Marshall didn't say that he was opposed to his students spooning around a bit, off the premises, but rather would have them reserve this slushy-mushy pastime for some secluded place where other eyes looketh not.

Professor Marshall gave the students a fatherly talk, something which none of them could take objection to, and by the time school was dismissed the blushes had left the cheeks of those who had been "hit."

ONLY FOUR HOURS' SLEEP.

Hardly Worth While For This Citizen to Go to Bed.

Lehigh, Feb. 3.—A remarkable man has come to Lehigh. He is R. J. Reetz of Sioux City, arrived to enter the employ of the Lehigh Clay Products Company and he has a record of never sleeping more than four hours a night.

The man is a fine specimen of humanity, claims to be perfectly well and says he will break the world's record during the month of May when he will go five days and five nights without sleep or rest.

Mr. Reetz is attracting the attention of all Lehigh residents and is quite the curiosity of the town, especially of the miners and workmen who are associated with him in work. He is a plucky fellow and night, that he really does what he says by working a full twelve hour day, as he says is always his custom, and then spending

BOOZE AND A SNOW DRIFT.

The Combination Nearly Cost Life of "Bone" Wood by Freezing.

Clear Lake, Feb. 3.—A narrow escape from death by freezing was experienced by A. W. Wood, better known as "Bone," proprietor of the local billiard hall, Monday evening, when he was picked up out of the snow and taken care of by physicians. It appears that Wood had taken a trip in a cutter to Mason City and while there had picked up an acquaintance, who later gave his name as Fred Tucker, but is thought to be Frank Kavanaugh, a man out on parole for inebriacy.

Wood and Tucker are said to have imbibed rather freely and the latter was to accompany his newly made friend to his home here. The cutter became overturned on the way home and Tucker, or Kavanaugh, sought aid from a nearby farmer to get Wood into the rig again.

Kavanaugh was sent to this place for a doctor, while Jewell, the farmer, went to the rig, where he found Wood completely stupefied, lying in the snow. Wood was cared for and brought to his home here. Tucker was placed under arrest and given ten days for drunkenness in justice court. Further developments in the case are expected.

Award in Damage Case. Fort Dodge, Feb. 3.—Shortly after midnight Tuesday the jury before which the case of Theodore Fredericks versus the Fort Dodge Brick and Tile Company was tried, returning a sealed verdict, granting the plaintiff damages in the sum of $4,000 against the defendant company. The case went to the jury late Tuesday afternoon, after a lengthy legal battle.

The case which was begun the middle of last week has been heard in district court and corresponds to the jury cases with the drainage tangle in the equity assignment, both of which will give this term character, because of the time spent upon them.

Much Wealth But No Will. Des Moines, Feb. 3.—Acting as administrator of the estate of the late C. C. Prouty, W. R. Prouty has filed with Probate Commissioner James E. O'Brien, an inventory of his holdings which shows the former Des Moines wholesale grocer to have owned and controlled nearly $500,000 in real and personal property. His wife and son, C. B. Prouty, are Mr. Prouty's sole beneficiaries, as no will was left.

The majority of Mr. Prouty's wealth was invested in real estate in a number of Des Moines business houses and real estate in Des Moines and farms in Polk, Guthrie and Warren counties.

Body of Unknown For Dissection. Fairfield, Feb. 3.—Coroner J. S. Gaumer empaneled a jury Tuesday afternoon to hold an inquest over the body of the unknown man who was found dead on the Whitham farm near this city last Friday.

The jury returned a verdict that the man, whose identity could not be ascertained, had died from illness or disease. In accordance with the laws of the state requiring that unidentified bodies be sent to a medical school, the body was shipped yesterday to Still Medical College at Des Moines.

Mt. Pleasant. The Henry county board of supervisors have let the contract for the installation of an electric light plant at the poor farm. The price of the contract is $821. It is certain that the installation will take place in the near future. The proposed improvement is a very desirable one, especially in an institution of this kind, as it will reduce the chances of fire to a minimum.

Forter. A bad accident occurred in the mines near town. John Madison, Sr., attempted to knock a prop from under a bad piece of slate on top in such a manner as to let the piece down. The slate was much heavier than Mr. Madison expected and in some way the prop was thrown across his right leg with the slate on top in such a manner as to break both bones just above the ankle.

The origin of the fire is unknown as the building was discovered in a mass of flames at first. The loss is a very heavy one for Mr. McAllister and he had very little insurance. He had $375 on the barn contents and his mules had $300 on the horses and mules.

The plan meets with the hearty favor of all Fort Dodge attorneys.
