

A LITTLE RED SPOT. Novel Experiment by Which It May Be Made to Disappear.

A peculiar feature about psoriasis, the new skin discovery is that no one is asked to buy it without first sending to the Emergency Laboratories No. 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City, for an experimental sample and applying same to an affected part of the skin, about the size of a silver dollar. It will clear the spot so treated in twenty-four hours—a remarkable visual demonstration of its powers.

SCHOOL CHILDREN SPELL FOR PRIZES

ONE - HUNDRED "THIRTY - FIVE" YOUNGSTERS COMPETE IN BIG SPELLING BEE.

GEORGE JOHNSON WINS FIRST IN CLASS A

Last Three Contestants in Class B All Go Down on Same Word, So First Three Moneys Are Divided Equally—Many More Girls Than Boys Win Prizes—List of Winners.

One hundred thirty-five children of the rural schools of the county, divided into two classes, according to ages, competed for honors and cash prizes, in the annual spelling bee before a packed house at the Odeon Friday night. Thirty-five children under 12 years of age entered in the Class A contest, and 101 over 12 years of age, competed in the Class B event.

George and Marguerite Johnson, of Jefferson township school No. 1, carried off most of the honors in the contest for the smaller children. George won first prize and his twin sister third. The second prize in this event was won by Rose Pifer, of Vienna school No. 7.

Divide Money in Second Event. Because the three who outspelled all the others in the contest for the older children, all missed the same word, the first three moneys in this event were divided between the three. As these prizes totaled $10 and could not very well be equally divided into three parts, the sum was increased to $12 by Professor Holden and others contributing $2 more. The $12 was divided into three parts and $4 was given to each of three girls.

These girls were Anna Stevenson, of Taylor township school No. 8; Bessie Dunn, of St. Anthony; and Florence Johnson, of State Center township school No. 8.

List of the Prize Winners. In addition to the three chief prizes of each event, there were twenty-five $1 for each class. Those who won these prizes in Class A were: Oliver Akers, Jefferson; Lucille Barrett, Logan; Doris Brown, Taylor; Oliver Carter, Ferguson; Mae Cotton, Taylor; Elma Danielson, Ferguson; Iva Dunn, Timber Creek; Mabel Elliott, Liscomb; George Hines, LeGrand; Lorenzo Ingraham, Jefferson; Reba Johnson, Quarry; Victor Linn, Taylor; Willie Lorenzen, Ferguson; Iva Lynch, Vienna; Christina Nelson, Marietta; Blanche Poduska, LeGrand; Fern Rank, Linn; Charles Russle, Vienna; Myrl Stevenson, Taylor; Glenn Stowell, Taylor; Floyd Uery, Iowa; Raymond Winslow, Taylor; Herbert Armbrrecht, Minerva; Harley Smith, Minerva; and Martha Freiberg, Timber Creek.

The twenty-five winners of $1 in Class B were: Gladys Anson, Marietta; Lella Benson, LaMolle; Raymond Brown, Taylor; Lura Clapeadde, Liscomb; Emma Graham, Timber Creek; Mabel Gough, Taylor; Luella Hill, Vienna; Lena Hoopengardner, Ferguson; Ayla Johnson, Quarry; Hilda Johnson, Quarry; Hattie Johnson, State Center; Gertrude Lewis, Ferguson; Jennie Lynch, Vienna; Nellie Lyons, Liberty; Mary Lynch, Vienna; Gifford McKinley, Jefferson; Mae McKibben, Liscomb; Gertrude McClure, Timber Creek; Eurligh Spears, Greencastr; Emma Smith, Liberty; Martha Stuckwiler, Bancor; Gladys Teeter, Washington; Eva Uery, Iowa; Zola Winslow, Taylor; and Bertha Poduska, Liscomb.

Of the six winners of the principal prizes, only one of them was a boy. Of the total of fifty-four who won cash prizes only fifteen were boys. Little Folks Spell First. The little folks of Class A spelled first. They were given a couple of preliminary rounds to accustom them to the situation and the big crowd.

One by one they dropped off as words tripped them up, until only eight were left and seven of these were girls. This number dwindled to four, and the first of these to fall out stumbled on the word "nourish." Finally only two, George Johnson, and Rose Pifer were left. They made a sturdy little pair, both of about the same size and age.

"Induce," which the girl spelled with an "e," put her out of the race for first. The boy then spelled it with an "i," and captured the first prize of $5 which he gleefully waved to the audience to see.

The International List. After the older children, who started in the Class B contest, had spelled around a few times the list of words used at the International spelling contest, held at the 1908 convention of the National Educational Association at Cleveland, was produced by Professor Holden, who was pronouncing the words.

This list made greater inroads into the number of contestants than the ones used from the spelling book the children were accustomed to. No less than fourteen stumbled over "accommodate" and went down on it. "Judgment" tripped up one or two. "Analysis" got another. "Supersede" was too many for two more. "Occurrence" was too hard for two others to negotiate and "prejudice" proved the undoing of one or two others.

None Spell "Villain" Correctly. The last three to keep the floor all went down, one after another on the word "villain." Two spelled it with the "i" ahead of the "a" and the other used but one "t."

Superintendent Aaron Palmer was referee of the spelling, and County Superintendent of Schools Mary Hosteler was chairman of the matches. Before the first contest began the Iowa Male Quartet, composed of F. Aubrey Smith, F. D. Dennis, W. H. Arney, and P. F. Arney, sang two numbers.

In the intermission between the contests Professor C. R. Bush, of Ames, read two of Samuel W. Foss's poems, much to the delight of the audience.

Penn College Beats LeGrand. The basketball team of Palmer College, LeGrand, was badly beaten by the team of Penn College, at Oskaloosa Friday night, by the score of 76 to 14.

Local Comment

One must pause for several moments to realize the marvelous character of the Tuffree initiation this week. A man 100 years old in full possession of his mental faculties, keen and alert in business as ever is a wonder among humanity, and to see this centenarian weighing judicially every promise set out in his lodge vows as conscious of his responsibilities as tho he had another century to live, was so marvelous as to cause men to wonder whether they were awake among realities.

In locating itself on the ground floor of the new Masonic Temple the Marshalltown Club has not only secured for its members magnificent club quarters, but has come to the support of a most valuable public improvement. A $100,000 investment was no small undertaking for the lodge and tenants for the new building must be had to pay the fixed charges. The club now has an abundance of room for itself and for the interests which it may promote.

For instance the plan to let space for manufacturers to exhibit Marshalltown products is a good one. So is the suggestion, to have the railroads maintain jointly an uptown ticket and Pullman office. It might be possible to let the club use of the space as a rest room and if a club cafe could be maintained successfully so much the better. A five story building in what has heretofore been a three story town is an event which marks the transition to larger possibilities and the Marshalltown Club can be made the machine with which to boost them along.

There is a phase of this plea of the saloon attorneys for immunity for all classes of law violators who will expiate their crimes by testifying against the only county attorney we have had in years who has ever closed saloons, slot machines, bootleggers and their like, that strikes a thinking man as rather strange. It is the plea that the greatest public good to "get Joe" that all criminals who will help him even unto perjured testimony if they should so choose should be freed from the law? Even should it come to pass that some of the things said about him were true and this will never be known until an open trial in court has been held, it would seem that it would be good public policy to exhibit some charity for the past or even immunity if that were necessary in return for the public help in law enforcement which the public has unquestionably been getting from its county attorney. The slot machines are not running and the saloons have been reduced from twenty-one to twelve. It would not be strange for the bootleggers, saloonkeepers, owners of saloon buildings, saloon lawyers, and world-wide machine owners and all who wish immunity from a county attorney to conspire to ruin him who has been prosecuting them, but should they be doing so it would be strange to find that men who want the law enforced should permit themselves to be used in the conspiracy. If there is any justice or christian charity in so-called immunity at this time it would seem that the public servant, who is enforcing the law is entitled to a much greater indemnity as the criminals for whom the immunity is pleaded.

The above conclusion is based upon the assumption that the well-meaning citizens who are, for the moment, hobnobbing with saloon attorneys and their clients in the investigation of a county attorney sincerely believe that the county attorney needs the investigating. What evidence or even what charges are coming before the grand jury are a closed book to the public and to the newspapers. The grand jury sits in secret to hear the accusations. If it thinks that the charges are sufficiently grave to warrant an open trial in court where vicious and vindictive witnesses can be impeached the grand jury will find an indictment which in effect is an order for a trial. Then the public will get at the real facts when the witnesses are called in open court. Immunity is not here pleaded for anybody but since it has been pleaded for the law violator it would seem that consistency should give the public servant a share of it.

Investigation of a county attorney who is suspected of wrongdoing is a very proper thing to demand but there have been circumstances surrounding this one which cast suspicion upon the motives actuating the investigators. For instance when the committee first called upon the judge to ask for an investigation their first proposal for a lawyer to conduct the investigation was one who has been a persistent political opponent of the county attorney and accuser. Their second choice was another attorney also at one time a rival and defeated opponent for office and now attorney for the owners of a saloon building. Then their third proposal was one of the saloon attorneys who had been tripped by the county attorney in the past and who has sworn eternal vengeance upon the county attorney who tripped him. By this time the court must have had a picture of the hare consigned to the judicial care of a kennel of hunting dogs for investigation since he insisted upon the attorney general's department conducting the grand jury hearing. There may be grounds for suspicion against the county attorney. If there are the grand jury will so find and a public trial will be held, but the determination of opposing counsel, political opponents and defeated litigants to "get" him has been so apparent that the investigation smacks more of revenge than of public spirit and the wonder is that a conspiracy of such vindictive and powerful antagonists has not been able to trap him and "get" him long ago. If they succeed it will be many moons before another county attorney will dare brave organized crime.

Those who have been investing in the local savings and loan association will be pleased to know that there is money enough loaned out now to pay from its earnings all the fixed expenses of management for the next ten years. All money paid in heretofore will be loaned and will earn 8 per cent interest for investors with no cost for management or supervision whatever. There will be, of course, a distribution of this expense over all series of stock so that late investors pay a share of the expense along with early investors but the net situation is as above stated. The third series of 50 cents per month stock has just been opened at the office of the treasurer, P. L. Hayzlett.

SHORTHORN SALE LARGELY ATTENDED

BREEDERS OF COUNTY CONTRIBUTE TO OFFERINGS THAT GO UNDER HAMMER.

BUYERS LARGELY FROM IMMEDIATE TERRITORY

Sale is Great Incentive to New Short-horn Breeders' Association to Hold Annual Sales in This City—Manager Houghton Praises Times-Republican Advertising.

The sale of Shorthorn cattle, contributed by different breeders of this county, and held Friday afternoon at the Stansberry feed yards proved highly successful. The success of the sale is a source of much satisfaction not only to the breeders themselves, and Manager F. H. Houghton, but to the Times-Republican, for the bulk of the advertising for the sale was carried in this newspaper, and the attendance and bidding is a striking testimonial to the efficiency of T.-R. advertising.

Forty head were sold at the sale, which was auctioneered by Col. George Bellows, of Maryville, Mo. Mr. Bellows delivered an address on live stock judging before the short course students, many of whom were present at the sale.

Average Nearly $80. The sale averaged for the forty head $78.29. The cows and heifers sold averaged $73, and the bulls $90. Many of the heifers were young, and consequently small, and the average for the class was considered good. In the bulls there were only eight of serviceable age, and this prevented the average in that class going exceptionally high.

Choice Animals to Nearby Breeders. The choicest of the animals sold went to breeders either in the county or those of adjoining counties. The top cow, contributed by J. E. Smith, of Laurel, was brought for $115 by P. E. Keefer, of Beaman, Grundy county. The next two highest cows sold for $110 each, one being taken by Mr. Keefer, and the other by Emery Fitz, of Haverhill. Eibs Bros., of Laurel, contributed both these animals.

The top bull sold for $200, and was taken by John E. Smith, of Laurel. H. Bosch, of Haverhill, was the contributor. The bulk of the other animals sold was contributed by Eibs Bros., of Haverhill. Eibs Bros., of Laurel, contributed both these animals.

The contributors for the sale were Harmon & Mansfield, Rhodes; M. L. Andrews, Melbourne; Ed Paul, and H. Bosch, Haverhill; Eibs Bros., and John E. Smith, Laurel; J. L. Arney, Albion; A. Nyce, Liscomb; and J. and A. C. Steward, Ames.

Breeders Are Encouraged. The sale here Friday demonstrated the success of a central point for live stock sales, and the advisability of breeders joining together for the sale. Manager F. H. Houghton points out that this sale was an indication of the promised success in store for the new Marshall County Short Horn Breeders' Association, which was organized here Thursday night, and which will promote annual sales in this city hereafter.

Praises T.-R. Advertising. After the sale Manager Houghton said: "I consider that the attendance at the sale was brought about largely thru the Times-Republican as an advertising medium. This paper not only brought us a big attendance from the county, but from the counties adjoining, and the sales to breeders so near by has the effect of keeping this good class of stuff at home."

BADLY HURT BY FALL. J. E. Swingley Sustains Bad Fractures of Leg Friday Night. J. E. Swingley, 304 Summit street, was badly injured some time late Friday night, when he fell at the corner of Third and Summit streets and sustained two severe fractures of the right leg. Unable to arise Mr. Swingley lay in the street for some time, or until a passerby happened to find him. Upon recognizing him the man took Mr. Swingley to his home, and a surgeon was called to attend the injured man. Mr. Swingley's right ankle was dislocated, and the leg was broken a short distance above the ankle. Another fracture of the same leg, midway between the ankle and the knee, was also sustained, together with several cuts and bruises about the face and hands, received by falling and attempting to arise after the accident happened. Mr. Swingley will be confined to his bed for several weeks as a result of the accident.

BEN HANFORD DEAD.

Former Resident of This City, and Prominent Socialist, Dies.

Older residents of the city, and all members of the socialist party, will be interested in knowing of the death at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., of Benjamin Hanford, prominent as a member of the national socialist party, and twice candidate for vice president.

Mr. Hanford had been in poor health for some time, and his death was not unexpected. He was a resident of this city at one time, spending his boyhood days here, at which time he learned the printer's trade in the old Republican office.

Mr. Hanford was born in Cleveland, O., in 1861. His mother died when he was young, and he was left upon his own resources. He came to this city and learned his trade in the days of hand composition, and in 1879 went to Chicago, where he became a member of the typographical union. He held his membership in this organization until his death. For seventeen years Mr. Hanford worked in the printing offices of Philadelphia, and there formed the acquaintance of Fred Long, the well-known socialist. Long succeeded in interesting Hanford in the principles of socialism, and for many years Mr. Hanford had been a prominent figure in the socialist party, especially in New York. In the last two presidential campaigns Mr. Hanford was a candidate for vice president on the socialist ticket. He was several times candidate for governor of New York on the socialist ticket, and was once socialist candidate for mayor of New York City. Mr. Hanford made his home in California for several years, but for some time past has been living in Brooklyn and New York City.
